

DAHLMAN ASKS FOR HARMONY

Wishes All to Join Hands in Building a Bigger Omaha.
 WOULD BURY ALL DIFFERENCES
 Asks Helping Hand to Make the New Commission Form of Government a Success as in Other Cities.

Mayor James C. Dahlman, who led the "on the square" ticket through a bitter campaign to an overwhelming victory, has issued a proclamation to the people asking them to forget the mudslinging by the candidates and join hands to build a bigger and better city. His appeal follows:

To the people of Omaha:
 I wish to heartily and sincerely thank my friends and the other good citizens of our city for the splendid expression of your confidence in me by your election of not only myself, but also of my six associates on the Square ticket, recommended by me to you, to become the first seven commissioners of Omaha.

Though this pleasure is not unmixed with the momentous and the uttermost of our late campaign, let us not live in the past, but look to the future welfare of our city, forgetting our personal differences of the day that is past. Omaha is our home, it is a fine metropolis of which we may all well feel proud; let us all put our shoulders to the wheel, and make it a bigger and better city.

Now that a new epoch is beginning in the municipal affairs of our city, with the commission form of government about to begin, we are approaching a period when harmony and good feeling should prevail to give it a fair start. The new form of government bids fair to give us increased efficiency in our municipal affairs, but to get the best out of it, we must give it a fair trial. It should not be condemned from the beginning, and it should not be condemned at all, if past conditions are bettered.

Since we are beginning a new plan, under a new law, still hampered by the limitations of an old charter, we must of necessity proceed slowly and cautiously to bring about the better ideals which we all hope to attain in our city affairs, and in this work the patience and the cooperation of the good citizens of Omaha is needed.

Since you have never failed in the past during the six years when I have asked your support, I again hope and trust that you will stand by each other in good faith and good cheer for the three years to come, for the upbuilding and betterment of our great metropolitan city of Omaha.

JAMES C. DAHLMAN.

Realty Men Puzzled Over Technicalities Involved in Reward

Whether a number of technicalities should keep them from paying a reward or whether as a matter of policy the real estate exchange should hand over $50 for the arrest of a plumbing thief is a question puzzling a special committee of the organization.

About two months ago Harry Muller was arrested for stealing plumbing from a house at 1118 North Twentieth street. Later he stole plumbing from a house protected by the exchange. He was convicted of the North Twentieth street burglary. The arresting officers (and there were many of them, according to claims for the exchange's $50 reward) contend the exchange should pay for the other house.

Now it has been decided that the officers should rearrest and prosecute the thief for stealing plumbing from the exchange protected house. It's a puzzle any one connected with it simply can't seem to figure out.

Mrs. McKen Must Defend Conspiracy Charge in Her Suit

Mrs. William B. McKen must defend herself against the conspiracy charge contained in the suit of C. W. Hull, her former husband, to nullify their $50,000 alimony contract. Judge A. C. Troup of the equity division of the district court so ruled yesterday. Mrs. McKen had moved that the part of Hull's petition which alleged that she was in conspiracy with Mr. McKen at the time she secured the alimony contract be stricken out. The court overruled the motion. Attorneys for Mrs. Hull indicated they probably will file an amended petition charging conspiracy and naming McKen as a co-defendant.

Reynolds' Prophecy Comes Day Too Late

O. E. Reynolds, a "Bryan democrat," wrote Mayor Dahlman a letter of prediction and warning. He told the honorable mayor that his political career was dead and the Bryan democrat would be dancing around his grave as soon as the election was over.

The letter was written the day before the election for the mayor received it today. He read it through and then taking a bottle of red ink and a stub pen, the biggest he could find, he wrote:

"Noting 'doh,'" and signed it, "Jim Dahlman, Mayor."

"That's the best answer I could give him," said Mayor Jim, "and it is what I told them before the election. Reynolds is not a good prophet."

EASTERN BUSINESS MAN SEES WEST FIRST TIME

George E. Hubba, advertising director of the United States Rubber company, and Mrs. Hubba, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sprague. Mr. Hubba, an advertising director of the rubber corporation, is the head of one of the most important divisions of that concern, putting the product before the people with the aid of printers' ink in all parts of the world.

This is Mr. Hubba's first visit so far west. "I had often pictured Omaha in my mind," said Mr. Hubba, "for it is one of the most important avenues of distribution. For a long time I have looked forward to a visit out here. Omaha is a city older in appearance than I expected to find, but the rapid changes being effected by the large building operations one sees on every hand undoubtedly present to me all the characteristics of an entirely different city by my next visit."
