GUARDS ASSURED OF ARMORY

By Dint of Scraping and Stinting They Will Succeed.

GOING AHEAD WITH PLANS

Nebraska National Guard Must Go Through Year or Two of Economy Until Finances Are Normal Again.

The Omaha companies of the Nebraska National guard are assured of an armory in the near future. This, however, only by barely scraping through to the privation of the rest of the state guard during the forthcoming year.

"We are allowed $25,000 a year, of which 25 per cent must be used for rifle practice," says Lieutenant Colonel W. E. Baehr. "It will cost $18,000, the closest figure with which we can re-equip an armory. This will leave about $7,000 for the maintenance of the guard in the state. It is not enough, to be sure, but if we disband the state will lose the $25,000."

There are twenty-four companies in the state, four of which are stationed at Omaha. This ration is established by the government allowing four companies to every congressional district. The $25,000 appropriated to the state is only forthcoming when the guard is fully maintained according to requirements. If the men here should disorganize the appropriation will fall utterly. Therefore it will be necessary for the Thurston Rifles of Omaha to take $15,000 of this amount to meet the qualifications in maintaining an armory.

The fact is an embarrassing one for the guard to face, but they realize and they feel that the other companies of the state do likewise that the consequences of the fire must be met and met squarely. The Nebraska National guard will have to work through a year or two hand-to-mouth until their finances are gradually returned to a normal condition.

Great Western Must Begin Work on the Viaduct at Once

A peremptory writ of mandamus commanding the Great Western railroad at once to proceed to construction of a viaduct over its tracks at Thirtieth and Hancock streets was issued by Judge A. C. Troup of the equity division of the district court. The writ was issued at the behest of the city and with the consent of the railroad in accordance with terms of settlement of the viaduct fight, made some months ago. It was agreed that the writ should issue without resistance from the road if it should not have begun work on the viaduct by May 1.

Early Morning Fires Cause Little Loss

Two small fires occurring within half an hour of each other kept the downtown companies of the fire department busy early yesterday morning.

At 2 o'clock an alarm was turned in from Fifteenth and Chicago streets, where it was found that a pile of rubbish in the Pioneer Glass company's shop was on fire. The quick response of the fire department saved the building, which was old and dry, but full of valuable property. The rubbish was blazing brightly when the firemen appeared, but it was soon extinguished.

The second blaze was in the Charles E. Maloney Tailoring company's work shop, where spontaneous combustion in a heap of dirt and rubbish caused a fire. The blaze was discovered by the block watchman, H. D. Pilgrim, who turned in an alarm soon enough to save a big fire loss. The damage caused by the fire is insignificant, but Mr. Maloney says that over $500 worth of cloth and suitings are spoiled by smoke.

A. L. Gordon, at the head of a band of "glad hands" will stand at the elevator to receive them. They will be taken into the dining rooms and introduced about the tables. By the end of the month the committee expects all the new members to feel at home in the club rooms and among the club members.

Portland Prepares for Big Christian Conference in 1913

In the interest of the second World's Christian Citizenship conference to be held in Portland, Ore., June 23 to July 6 next year, General Superintendent James S. Martin of Pittsburgh, Pa., is in the city for a few days. He is enthusiastic over the outlook for a great meeting and is predicting an attendance of from 15,000 to 20,000. To assure the success of the conference and to aid in advertising it to the world, Portland business men have subscribed $100,000 in cash and have taken steps to erect a large auditorium at a cost of $200,000.

Superintendent Martin is the advance agent of the movement in arousing interest in the conference. He is meeting with the Ministerial unions throughout the country and briefly outlining plans. Later he will be followed by other officials of the organization that will take up the work of arranging the details.

As delegates to the Portland conference, members of the Ministerial unions, churches, Young Men's Christian associations, Christian Endeavorers and those of similar societies in all Protestant churches will be eligible. The vice-presidents selected include the bishops of all the churches and leading church workers in the United States. Dr. D. W. C. Huntington, chancellor of the Wesleyan university at Lincoln is the vice-president representing Nebraska.

The prime object of the conference is the revival and diffusion of a national religion, looking to universal advancement in militant christianity in individual, family and civic life, in general education and in public morals.

Help is Summoned Because of Strike

The freight handlers' strike in the Chicago freight houses of the Milwaukee road has assumed such proportions that men from other points are being called there to help relieve the congestion. According to Assistant General Passenger Agent Haynes, who is in town, there have been no acts of violence and none are anticipated. However, the business of the road is being hampered to some extent.

Assistant General Agent Duvall of this city has been called to Chicago, and while he will not don jumpers and wrestle with hales and boxes of freight, he will help out. It is expected that he will oversee some particular branch of the freight handling and help to get the stuff moving out and in at the houses.

WOMAN HAS OLD BILLS TO KEEP AS SOUVENIR

Two ancient bills were presented to the Brandeis stores for payment by a woman who did not insist on getting the money or who did not give her name. The bills were dated December 1, 1871 and said on their face that the City of Omaha, territory of Nebraska will pay $3 to bearer one year after date with interest at 10 per cent per annum. They were signed by Jesse Lowe, mayor and H. C. J. Anderson, recorder.

CHILDREN SEEKING HOMES

Juvenile Court Authorities Have a Dozen Boys and Girls.

ALL WAITING TO BE ADOPTED

Those wishing to adopt the children are requested to write to Juvenile Court Officers, Giving References.

Juvenile court authorities are sending out calls for help. They have a dozen fine, healthy, bothersome boys and girls and think they ought to be adopted. All the youngsters are of ages ranging from 1 to 19 years.

Those living on farms who would like to adopt a child are especially requested to correspond with the juvenile court here. References should be sent when an application is made for one of the court's charges, says Megy Bernstein.

Officers of the court would like to have a list of men and women who want children and keep it for reference as many cases could be solved by placing the child in a good home.

Many children are adopted each year, but as no list of those willing to adopt children is kept, little boys and girls are sometimes dealt with more severely than would be necessary if they could be placed at once in homes.

Tom Flynn Gives Three Reasons for His Celebration

Tom Flynn, the genial street commissioner celebrated yesterday for two reasons. One is he feels elated at the success of the "square deal" ticket, and the other reason is that it was his birthday and also his wife's birthday.

Twelve years ago they were married at Weston, Ia. They have two sons, who are promising politicians, although Flynn has not advised them to take up this line of work.

"It isn't very often our birthday comes on such an occasion as this," said Flynn, "right after one of the most strenuous and successful political fights we were ever in. I'm going to celebrate it in my own way."

He didn't specify, it is reliably reported that he will jump on the flag of the old system, under which an irate council passed a resolution limiting the funds the street commissioner could use and thereby seriously handicapping him, and express his joy in a few Apache yells.

Nebraska Students Boost Their School

The members of the Omaha club, an organization of twelve Omaha boys at the University of Nebraska, have arranged with Miss Kate McHugh, principal of the Omaha High school, to have the chancellor speak at the high to the seniors on Thursday morning.

Mr. Avery will address the graduates on higher education and dwell to some extent on that college education and training which is received by the students at Nebraska, their own state institution.

The members of the Omaha club are satisfied with their university as a place to get an education and consider that it should be placed before the other graduates of the Omaha High school in the proper light.

Declared a member of the Omaha club: "It's time we did a little cradling of the glamour of distance from home paint an inferior school in brighter colors than the Cornhusker institution."

Stuart Gould, president of the club, will accompany Chancellor Avery.

Nurse and Patient Laugh at Ill Luck as They Go to Altar

When Dr. Van Dyke McKelvey, a former interne at St. Luke's hospital in Denver led Miss Clara Frank, a former trained nurse in the same institution, to the altar in Omaha, both laughed at their victory over hard luck and adverse circumstances.

Appendicitis and smallpox were both the lot of Dr. McKelvey since he went to St. Luke's. Miss Frank nursed him through both illnesses.

Dr. McKelvey met Miss Frank at St. Luke's shortly after his graduation from the Gross School of Medicine in Denver. Several weeks ago Miss Frank came to her home near Omaha, and a few days ago Dr. McKelvey made a trip. Then the news of their wedding was announced to their friends. They will return to Denver and Dr. McKelvey will engage in the practice of medicine there.
