

HEAD COVERED WITH UNSIGHTLY HUMOR

At Birth, Itching Caused Him to Scratch. Hair Continually Matted with Blood. Tried Many Remedies. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In 2 Weeks and a Half Was Cured.

1881 Franklin St., Bache, Neb. — "My brother's head at birth was covered with unsightly humor, which resembled large pimples and discharged bloody pus. As soon as one would come to a head and burst, there would be another one in its place and so he would suffer the itching caused him to scratch. At a result his hair was continually matted with clogged blood. He suffered pain and it was severe at night, making him restless, so he could not sleep. We had great difficulty in combing his hair, which made his scalp bleed profusely. We tried many remedies, such as castor oil, etc., before we began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In two weeks we noticed great improvement. The scalp looked more healthy and the sores were healing up. In two weeks and a half they had completely disappeared and my brother was entirely cured." (Signed) Martin Rasmussen, Nov. 27, 1911.

CITY LOSES IN BEMIS CASE

U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals Affirms Judgment of Omaha Court.

TRIES TO COLLECT FROM ARMOUR

Court Holds City Cannot Recover Any Part of the $17,000 It Was Forced to Pay the Former Omaha Mayor.

Ten years' litigation has resulted in victory for Armour & Co. and defeat for the city of Omaha in the famous Bemis personal injury damage lawsuit. The United States circuit court of appeals at St. Louis has just affirmed the judgment of the United States district court at Omaha in favor of the packing concern. The holding of the lower court was that the city could not recover from the packers for the $17,000 judgment it had to pay to the former Mayor George P. Bemis for injuries he sustained when he was hit by a falling Armour billboard. Mr. Bemis suffered a compound fracture of the leg and other injuries on April 25, 1902, when the wind blew down the billboard at Eighteenth and Farnam streets and he was struck. Mr. Bemis sued the city and recovered judgment for $15,000 and costs, a total of, in round numbers, $17,000. The ground of the action against the city was that it negligently had permitted Armour & Co. to maintain the billboard so insecurely fixed that it was a menace to public safety. The city started action in the federal court to recover from the packing concern on the ground that it was guilty of negligence in maintaining such a dangerous sign. W. H. Herdman and other attorneys took the case for the city, with the understanding that no fees should be paid them unless the suit should be won. The packing concern answered with the defense that it had disposed of the sign to other parties before it was blown down and therefore could not be held responsible. The court took this view of the case and so ruled. The city appealed to the circuit court of appeals.

New Design Stamps Are Placed on Sale

New postage stamps of various denominations are now being sold by the Omaha postoffice and are rapidly replacing the old. The general scheme is simpler, making the denomination and inscriptions on the stamps more distinct. The one cent stamp now bears the head of Washington in profile the same as the two cent red. Both the one and two cent stamps show the head of Washington from Houdon's bust, looking to the left. The borders of the first six denominations are of the same design as the series of 1906. The portrait of Washington appears within a plain ellipse on end, with branches of laurel on either side. Above the head in a horizontal line are the words "U. S. Postage" and in capital letters below it the word "Cents" with the denomination in numerals on both corners. As to Postmaster J. C. Wharton's recollection, is the first time the head of Washington had been used on one cent postage. No change is made in the three, four, five and six cent stamps from those of 1906. The colors of the five higher denominations are: 5c, olive; 10c, dark yellow; 15c, gray; 20c, lavender; 25c, dark brown. The subject of these stamps is a portrait of Franklin in profile, from Houdon's bust, looking to the left, within an ellipse on end. In the upper corners are plain panels in the form of right-angles. Above the ellipse and following its curve are the words "U. S. Postage" in capital letters. On either side of the lower part of the ellipse are branches of oak leaves; in the two lower corners the denomination appears in numerals and between them is the word "Cents" (or Dollars), in a horizontal panel which breaks the base of the ellipse.

Man With Education Climbs to Success

"The average man without a college education is like a ten horse power engine," declared Chancellor Avery of the University of Nebraska, in an address to the members of the senior class of the Omaha high school in the assembly room at the school yesterday morning. "It is the man who has the college education to back him that can climb the steep hill of success, while the ten horse power learning must continue in lower altitudes." Chancellor Avery explained that his visit was brought about through the efforts of Omaha alumni at the Cornhusker institution who were desirous of having someone familiar with the state university explain the inducements of the scarlet and cream to the 1912 graduates of the Omaha high school, instead of allowing ideas of eastern education to become infused in their system. "About three hundred and fifty dollars will carry the average student of either sex very comfortably through the University of Nebraska for one year provided the student does not indulge in fraternity life and extensive social pleasures," said the chancellor. "There are many students who are working their way through Nebraska to a greater or less extent, nearly every one of whom is doing creditable work in studies." Chancellor Avery was introduced by Prof. Herbert A. Senter of the high school faculty, Stuart Gould, president of the Omaha club at the state university, accompanied the chancellor on his visit.

Nebraska Soil is in Fine Condition

According to railroad reports fairly heavy showers, but somewhat scattered, visited the southwestern portion of Nebraska Wednesday afternoon and last night. The section visited was planting moist for the growing crops, having been thoroughly drenched last Saturday and Sunday. Reports coming to the railroad offices indicate that there is no place in the state where rain is needed. The ground is reported to be in prime condition. Small grain is said to be making rapid headway and in the southern part of the state more than half of the corn has been planted, the acreage being considerably in excess of last year. Thugs Make Mistake When They Pounce on Two Wayfarers

Because they looked like two youths who had paid their score to a pair of thugs earlier in the morning, Rufus Anderson, an employe of the Dempster Plow company, and James Fife of the McKean Motor Car works, are hiding from their friends today with their faces so badly discolored as to make both unrecognizable. Fife and Anderson room at 230 Farnam street. They were walking south on Fourteenth street at 2:30 o'clock in the morning when two men sprang upon them from concealment in the stairway of the Unique chop suey parlor. One man struck Anderson in the mouth with a pair of brass knuckles, spitting his lips and jaw and knocking him to the pavement with such force as to render him unconscious. Fife was struck in the left eye by the other man, making him temporarily blind. The police were notified and the two victims of the assault were given medical attention and taken to their homes. Fife says no words were exchanged at first, but, as the thugs left, one exclaimed, "Hell, Bill, it's the wrong fellow!" Fife and Anderson had been exploring the city and were going home when assaulted. No attempt was made to rob either one.

CONFEDERATES ACCEPT OFFER

Will Join G. A. R. in Celebration of Battle of Gettysburg.

SLIGHT OBJECTION IS MADE

Speakers Declare Breach Between North and South is Healed and Reunion Will Wipe Out Ill Feeling.

Macon, Ga., May 8.—The United Confederate Veterans' annual reunion here today accepted an invitation to join the Grand Army of the Republic in the semi-centennial celebration of the battle of Gettysburg in 1912. The invitation came in a letter from General Trimble, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. Other features of the day were the selection of Chattanooga, Tenn., as the next convention city and the crowning of Miss Mary Scrandett queen of the convention. The big feature of the reunion will take place tomorrow when a commander-in-chief will be elected and the veterans will march in the annual parade. It is generally conceded that General B. H. Young of Louisville, Ky., will be elected to fill the place of the late General George W. Gordon. General D. Walker is still in the race, but the delegations pledged to him are said to be outnumbered by those of the Louisville man. The discussion on the Gettysburg north and south reunion was very brief, and what objections were made were on technical grounds. One or two delegates declared that the official endorsement of the reunion was not in conformance with the constitution of the United Confederate Veterans and that they did not think it wise. None of these objections specified the reason for doing so. Many declared that the breach between the north and south was forever healed, that nowhere in the ranks of confederacy could be found animosity towards the soldiers of the union, and that the Gettysburg reunion would forever wipe out any ill feeling there might be left. The resolution was adopted with cheers. Poor appetite is a sure sign of impaired digestion.
