

The Peevish Child Needs a Laxative

It is natural for a child to laugh and play and when it sulks drowsily or cries you may depend on it something physically is the matter. If you see no evidence of a serious ailment you will not be wrong if you quietly give it a dose of mild laxative that evening on putting it to bed.

The remedy most generally recommended for this purpose is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which mothers throughout the country have been giving their children for a quarter of a century. Today thousands of families are using it where hundreds used it then, and there must be good reason for this word of mouth recommendation.

It is admittedly the perfect laxative for children, women, old people and all others who need a gentle bowel stimulant and not a violent salt, cathartic pill or doctored water. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will act gently, and when taken before retiring will bring complete satisfaction in the morning. After a short use of this remedy all forms of outside ail can be dispensed with and nature will again act alone. All classes of good American people keep it in the home for ills of the stomach, liver and bowels, and among the thousands who have written the doctor that they will never be without it are Mrs. Mary J. Paddock, Manchester, Iowa, and Mrs. H. Scoville, Osceola, Iowa. A dose of it has saved many a person from serious illness.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. S. Caldwell, 46 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

Escaped Convict Visits Parents in Omaha Yesterday

Charles Filbert, the convict who escaped from the state penitentiary hospital last Monday, was in Omaha yesterday and visited his parents at 1709 South Eighteenth streets.

The police were notified that he was home, but when they arrived there he had made his escape. His parents would not admit that he had been home. It is thought that he left about 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Filbert was sent up from Omaha about eight months ago to serve a three years' sentence for highway robbery. He completed being sick last Sunday and the doctor ordered an operation performed on him. He was packed in ice at the time he made his escape.

Detective Charles Van Dusen narrowly escaped being shot by accident by one of Warden Mellick's deputies of the state penitentiary when he went to the Filbert home.

They are: Wilhelmina Miller, Avis Boyd, Edna Findley, Elsa Huberle, Vera Braden, Margaret Bradley, Helen Smith, Marie Erwin, Earl Fowler, Herbert Jones, Thomas Miller, Herbert Curtis, Thomas Currie, Howard Hayes, Stanley Stooker, Joseph Clough.

Changes were made in the requirements for admission to the college, bringing Bellevue into line with the recommendations of the committee of the National Educational association. The University of Nebraska has also adopted the same requirements for admission. The changes consist chiefly in allowing credit for a larger number of optional subjects.

The first event of commencement week will be the graduation of the normal school and academy students Friday evening. Rev. R. L. Wheeler will deliver the address. A class of young women who have taken a special course for superiors of music will also be granted certificates.

It has been definitely announced that ground will be broken for the new gymnasium during commencement week. As many of the alumni and ex-students of the college will be present, it is planned to make it the occasion of a celebration. The boarding department of Fontanelle hall will be kept open this summer for the benefit of the summer school students, and the Omaha people who desire to spend the summer there.

Rev. Dr. R. L. Wheeler Pays Tribute to Former Negro Slave.

LEAVES LETTER ON HIS GRAVE

First Presbyterian Church Celebrating Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of Founding—St. Hilda's Guild to Entertain Friends.

Because he was unable to endure the ordeal of Memorial day, Rev. Dr. Robert L. Wheeler, pastor of the South Omaha Presbyterian church, tramped out alone to Laurel Hill cemetery on Wednesday to pay a tribute to the dust of an old and faithful servant, Edward Jones, a negro trooper in a Kentucky regiment in the civil war.

No flower or wreath did the old minister bring to the grave of the dead trooper, but a tribute in words sealed and signed and laid on the grave of Jones told the many who visited the cemetery on Memorial day of the virtues and noble qualities of the poor black man who lay sleeping among the others who wore the blue.

The letter was found yesterday morning by one who asked that his name be withheld. The massive speaks for itself. Decoration day, 1837 day of 1837—To whom it may concern: Greeting: Under this mound lies the body of a soldier of a Kentucky regiment of negro troopers. Late in the war he was a slave, and one morning as the Union army was in the neighborhood, he ran away, although his master called lustily for him to come back, for he had refused $1,500 in gold for this slave. His name was Edward Jones, better known in South Omaha as "Ned Jones." He often aided our family about the house, and was a faithful man. I had the pleasure of adding him to read and keeping small accounts correctly. Ned was not very religious in his earlier life, but was honest, and was loyal to his friends as an angel of God. He saved his earnings, gathered scraps of lumber, and bought dry goods boxes, and built a comfortable house at Twenty-seventh and J streets, this city. Years of carpet cleaning, in which he was an expert, brought on lung trouble and his last years were much pain, and constant suffering from that ever present annoyance of the old soldier, rheumatism, day and night. Our friendship never suffered a serious break, although he was high strung and quick and physically able to resent a supposed offense. He and I met God on our knees at his death. I saw that he had a Christian burial and helped to place him in this spot, for his last long sleep. Thinking that his grave might accidentally be overlooked, and as for personal reasons I cannot endure the ordeal of "Decoration Day," I now and here do this in memory of this faithful black man, who was, and is, and ever shall be my friend. May some distant loving hand strew flowers on my soldier dead, with the same spirit in which I seek to honor, and bear tribute to this man. May his soul rest in peace. In an affectionate memory, and perpetual regard of Ned Jones.

Guild to Entertain.

Friday evening at the High School auditorium, St. Hilda's guild of St. Martin's church will entertain their friends and patrons at a mixed minstrel show. The talent is mainly recruited from the ranks of the guild and has been developed under the instructions of a well known stage director. A dress rehearsal was given last evening and it is confidently predicted that there is much exceptional worth and pleasure in the program of this evening. The proceeds of the entertainment are to be devoted to the benefit of the church.

Church Observes Anniversary.

In the finest church edifice in South Omaha the members of the First Presbyterian church are celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the church in South Omaha.

Twenty-five years ago, Wednesday, Rev. Dr. Robert L. Wheeler, the present pastor of the church, organized the congregation in a little grove of cotton woods just east of the Union Pacific station, at Twenty-seventh and M streets. At the time the membership list contained thirteen names and but seven persons were present for the organization services.

Today the church has over 400 active members, without counting the hundreds who have left the city during the last quarter century. Dr. Wheeler at the time of the foundation, a young man, has grown gray in the service of his folk. The grove of cottonwoods is replaced by a church structure whose architectural beauty is exceptional in the city.

At the Theaters

At the Gayety.

A dog and a small rooster caused an uproar at the Gayety yesterday. The dog tried to chase the chicken off the stage, the fowl refused to go, and the two fought until the curtain fell on the act of Emmet and Emmet, who gave a pretty sketch of Irish life. The dog, rooster and several doves were used in this act. The Brothers Haas were able to please everybody with some difficult horizontal bar work. Lord Burton introduced three new songs which he will give during the other performances of the week. The "movies" included a reel which was taken of the "M" ranch. It was an excellently acted picture. The bill is probably the best of the Gayety's summer season.

At the Airdome.

Before the largest crowds that have attended the Airdome, one of the best bills of the season was begun yesterday, to be run the rest of the week. The motion pictures were of a high class and delighted the audience. These pictures are changed daily. The Ozar jugglers, were the big hit of the evening. They are offering new entertainment, served with pretty scenery. Frank Putman, rural impersonator made way with much applause. He sings several songs that are really worth listening to. Harry Lehr, a new tenor, delighted with two popular songs, while Miss De Treves, headliner, scored in a Grand Army act. She was dressed as a daughter of the revolution and sang one appealing soldier song that made her act a complete success.

Coming to the Brandeis.

The Brandeis theater management announces with pleasure the engagement of Leo Largman's Yiddish Comedy company for two nights, Sunday and Monday. Largman's Comedy company, an organization of Yiddish actors, singers and dancers, is positively the only Yiddish company having been from coast to coast twice in the same season. In all the large cities where they played a week's engagement, the press and public declared them to be the only Yiddish company producing high standard plays. This company is headed by Miss Pauline Winters, a Yiddish comedienne, actress and dancer, who makes her audience laugh in a comedy part and one night, and bring them to tears with her emotional charms on the second night. During the stay in this city Mr. Largman's company will present for the first night the musical comedy success "Daddy's Violin," and on Monday the four act drama, "The Broken Heart," will be the offering. Popular prices will prevail at both performances.

Mrs. Bertha Mott is Back and Claims Custody of Child

Mrs. Bertha Mott, who deserted her little 6-months-old daughter, yesterday returned to her home at 1712 North Twenty-eighth street for the child. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Rosa Wise of Weeping Water, Neb.

Though the mother begged to be allowed to have the child, its grandmother, Mrs. Mary E. Mott, refused the woman admission to the house and ordered her away from the neighborhood. She went to a grocery store and notified the police. Detectives Maloney, Heifeld and Donahue responded. They took the younger Mrs. Mott to the station and turned her over to Police Matron Ella Gibbons.

Mrs. Mott denied the charges of her husband, Bert Mott; his mother and his nephew, Curtis Haines, that she had abused the child because it cried, or that she dropped it to the floor, with the intention of killing it.

A complaint alleging insanity was filed in the district court against Mrs. Mott, and she was turned over to the county officers. The board will examine her Saturday.
