Trying to Wreck Party. CONFERS WITH LIEUTENANTS

Declares Existence of Republican Party Would Be Wrecked by Opponents-Tells of Southern Contests.

OYSTER BAY, N. J., June 9 .- The republicans of the country were called upon last night by Colonel Roosevelt to protest against the action of the republican national committee in ruling on the contest for seats in the national convention from the Ninth Alabama district. ponents that, in his opinion, the party as a whole would repudiate a nomination if it were obtained, "in defiance of justice." He declared that every man who wished to see the party continue to exist should protest at once "against those who are deliberately trying to

"The leaders," said the colonel, "speak as if they were the regular republicans. I do not concede that theft is a test of regularity.

Colonel Roosevelt's statement was given out after a conference which lasted all the afternoon. He was in constant touch over his private wires during the day with Senator Dixon and his other lieutenants in Chicago. He also consulted with a number of his supporters who visited him.

The colonel talked politics today with men from a number of states. Among them were Arthur Hill of Boston, Governor Bass of New Hampshire, Charles H. Thompson of Vermont, Dean W. D. Lewis of the University of Pennsylvania law school and Howell F. Lea and E. M. Reilly of Kansas City.

Colonel Roosevelt's statement in part was as follows:

"In view of the action taken by the national committee in unseating the two duly elected delegates in the Ninth Ala bama district, and replacing them by men who have no more title to sit in the republican convention than they have to sit in the democratic convention, I would like to make as serious an appeal as is in my power to every good citizen, who regards the republican party as an instrument for good government, which it is wicked lightly to destroy.

Room for Honest Doubt.

"Alabama is entitled to twenty-four delegates in the convention. As regards several of the districts where there have been contests it is my sincere belief that the right was as much on our side as on the side of our opponents. But in these districts there was room for honest doubt, and, talking the matter over with Senator Dixon, we both agreed to advise the Roosevelt members of the national committee to support no contest in any district where there was room for reasonable doubt as to the right of the Roosevelt delegates to be seated. Accordingly n all the Alabama districts in question the Roosevelt men in the national com mittee voted with the majority, and this in spite of the fact, as I have already said, that we regard the claims of the Roosevelt men in certain of these districts as being as good as those of the

"But in the Ninth Alabama district wo Roosevelt delegates had been unquestionably elected. The facts are as follows: The republican committee of this district, composed of thirty mem bers, met to call the convention. Eight een members were favorable to my candidacy, twelve to Mr. Taft's. The Taft men conceded that this was the regular district committee and began by participating in the meeting, but as soon as it developed that the Roosevelt men were in the majority the twelve Taff men left the meeting and called a convention of their own, leaving eighteen members, a clear majority of the regular committee, to call the regular convention in which the Roosevelt delegates were named. No serious evidence was presented before the national committee to contravene these facts. Contest Without Grounds.

"The contest against these two regularly elected Roosevelt delegates had literally no foundation whatever, even of the most flimsy description. There was no more ground for unseating these delegates than there would be, for example in unseating the Taft delegates from Rhode Island, or in any district in any state where there is no contest whatever. Yet the national committeemen who are supporting Mr. Taft voted to unseat the two men properly elected, and to seat in the national convention two men, who as I have said, literally have no more right to appear as delegates in that convention than they have to appear in the democratic national convention. They publican party except the determination of certain members of the national committee, who have themselves been rearound the world, mostly made in an pudiated by the republican party, that the majority of the party shall not be permitted to decide whom they wish to be the nominee for president. "Now I wish to call the attention not only of all good republicans, but of all action means. As yet there is no law to govern national nominating conventions as there is to govern national elections-although in certain states the nomination of candidates is carried on under the law of those states precisely as are the elections.

From the Washington Star.

HAVANA, June 9.-The aspect of racial war in the city of Havana tonight transcended in importance any news received from the field of operations. Rumors current during the day of the intention of the mob to make an onslaught upon the negroes in the capital induced President Gomez to issue a proclamation to night urging mutual moderation and threatening all disturbers of the peace with the most severe chastisement. At 9:30 o'clock, the moment the proclamation was issued from the presidential palace, a mob composed of many thousand young men of the better classes and including many students had gathered in Central park and were shouting "Down with the pegroes." Within two minutes after the outbreak all the negro bootblacks and newsboys had disappeared The crowd rapidly increased in proportions as the evening wore on. Practically all of the rioters were armed and many were openly brandishing revolvers or knives. At one time a panic ensued as the result of a shot fired by a police captain as a signal to his men.

VALDEZ, Alaska, June 9.-The mail steamship Dora, plying to points along Alaskan peninsula and Kodiak sland reports that Mount Katmai's outbreak is terrible in its violence. Deafening explosions occur at short intervals and the surrounding country is covered with three to four feet of ashes.

The wave indications in Shelikof strait were such as to lead the Dora's master to fear that there had been a general ifting of the ocean bottom near shore. For this reason, as well as because of the smoke and ashes, the Dora did not dare to approach Kodiak.

Katmal has always been regarded as extinct. The natives have no tradition of any former activity of the mountain. SITKA, Alaska, June 8.-Ashes from the Aleutian volcano at Sitka began to fall today. Despatches from the north say the volcanoes are emitting lava and rocks, but the discharge from the Alaska craters usually is only ashes and smoke and it is hoped there will be no loss of life. Apparently Kodiak and its neighboring slands have been covered by ashes,

Since the rising of climate in Alaska, sheep and hogs have been able to feed outdoors on Kodiak island throughout the year. The volcanic ashes, if it fell on the island as deep as they did on the decks of the steamship Dora, must have destroyed the grass, which, however, will grow again on the ashes.

Mount Ilimna is more than 1,200 feet high and the red sky above its blazing crater is visible seaward for 100 miles

The efforts of the mountains to clear the debris from their clogged craters caused convulsions which were recorded in Washington, D. C., and in Seattle. After the chimneys were brened the needles in the observatories were no onger agitated.

Loud Reports Caused. The struggles of the volcanoes to break their fetters caused reports like the firing ports were so distinct that it was thought a vessel in distress was firing signals or that a fleet of warships was engaged in target practice at sea. Speculation as to the cause of the detonations was set at rest when a shower of volcanic ashes from the northward began to descend upon Cordova. The explosions were heard even more clearly in Seward, which is nearer to the volcanoes.

The cable dispatches received tonight report the situation serious. St. Augustine, Ilimna and Redoubt, in eruption on the west shore of Cook inlet. will do small damage as their ashes do not cover Indian towns. As soon as it is possible to operate wireless instruments the revenue cutters will be asked to go to the relief of the people in the volcano districts.
