CLOSE CALL FOR MAYFLOWER

President's Yacht Nearly in Collision with Big Boat.

CROSSES BOW OF NORTHLAND

Officers' Signal to Pass Not Followed and Two Boats with Distinguished Guests Nearly in Deep Water Crash.

OLD POINT, Va., June 10.—The presidential yacht Mayflower with the president and Mrs. Taft and party and their distinguished guests aboard narrowly escaped a collision yesterday with the steamer Northland of the Norfolk and Washington line not far from Point Lookout, where the Potomac river empties into Chesapeake bay. Only the glimpse of the officers of the Northland and the Mayflower and their prompt action prevented what looked for a minute like an accident.

As it happened the Northland narrowly missed the Mayflower. Officials and one or two persons on the passenger boat were looking only got a momentary shock. It was a perfectly still moonlight morning with no sea running and the lights of passing vessels could be seen for miles. The few passengers awake showed no signs of panic, but they looked relieved when the danger was over. The Mayflower left Washington last night about 6:30 o'clock for Hampton Roads. In addition to the president and Mrs. Taft, General William C. Rosier, Representative Gillette of Massachusetts, Charles H. Kelsey and Mrs. Kelsey of New York, Mrs. Francis G. Newlands, wife of the Nevada senator, and Major T. L. Rhoads, U. S. A., and Lieutenant T. J. Timmons, U. S. A., aides to the president, were invited guests.

The Northland on its regular trip to Old Point and Norfolk left Washington shortly after the Mayflower. Although it kept the presidential yacht in sight until dark and although it is a much speedier boat, Captain Posey made no attempt to pass the president.

Shortly after the Northland passed into Chesapeake bay, however, where there is plenty of other traffic, an officer on watch decided to forge ahead of the Mayflower. At that time the navy boat was probably a third of a mile ahead of the Northland and a few hundred yards to the starboard of the Northland's course.

The Northland gave a signal that it wished to pass on the Mayflower's port side and a few seconds later came the response from the yacht, one whistle blast, meaning that it wished the Northland to pass not on the port side, but on the starboard.

Officers in the Northland's pilot house were astonished when they heard the Mayflower's one whistle, but they were even more surprised when the Mayflower began slowly to cross their bow. It was a few seconds before they grasped just what was happening, but when they did, four or five sharp blasts shot from the Northland's whistle, meaning "danger, lookout."

The quartermaster at its wheel was given a sharp order. He flung the wheel over and the engines of the Northland were slowed down perceptibly. It sheered starboard with a shudder and the Mayflower made its way across the Northland's course with a gulf of deep green water between that quickly narrowed to less than a thousand feet. Once beyond the Northland's course the Mayflower seemed to slow up and the Northland passed on its starboard quarter.

Nebraska Roads Better Than Iowa, Say the Boosters

Omaha good roads boosters have again proven that Nebraska highways are far superior to the roads of Iowa. This time they have demonstrated that the Nebraska route to Kansas City is better and shorter than the Iowa route.

The Omaha contingent arrived Monday morning at 4:30 from Kansas City after having been on the road on the return trip for twenty-one hours. The trip back was via the Iowa route and the tour out of Omaha by the Nebraska highways. The time to Kansas City from Omaha was ten hours and the distance covered 216 miles, while the route back was 241 miles.

The Omaha men left Kansas City at 7:35 o'clock Sunday morning, expecting to arrive in Omaha about ten hours later. It had rained all Saturday night, however, and was still raining when they left yesterday morning. From Kansas City the route led to Leavenworth and then to St. Joseph, a distance of sixty-eight miles. The mud along the road was at least a foot deep and was of the gumbo species. It was exactly 5:20 o'clock Sunday afternoon when the tourists arrived in St. Joseph, a ride of ten hours. Fourteen miles of this was paved. When the tourists arrived at Leavenworth they crossed over to the Missouri side of the river and for fifteen miles traveled along the river bank. The wheels of the machine were within six inches of an embankment nearly all this while.

BRYAN IS IT, SAYS SCHWIND

Fearless Leader's First Secretary Says Sentiment Will Not Down.

SLATED TO LEAD THE HOSTS

Lincoln Man Returns from Trip Through Dixie and Says Fairview Statesman Can't Turn Down Demand for Him.

Disclaiming that he is a prophet or the son of a prophet, William F. Schwind, the well known land man of Lincoln, convinced a group of prominent democrats in an Omaha hotel lobby that it will be Bryan again.

Mr. Schwind is just home from an extended trip south and a sojourn in St. Louis. He denies having any interest in politics beyond the convictions of a modest democrat. He was Mr. Bryan's first private secretary, however, and is his neighbor and friend. "I have been convinced well enough that Mr. Bryan is slated to lead the democratic hosts again from what I heard south," asserted the Lincoln man, "but when I saw so many evidences in Missouri of Clark men getting ready to stampede to the Nebraskan I became fully convinced.

"The fact is, Mr. Bryan will be unable to turn down the demand that is sure to come for his nomination. You can hear it wherever you go. His friends need not urge it. Mr. Bryan don't want it, but all who know him know very well that he will not balk at a big task. I know his best friends would not urge him against his will, but the sentiment will not down. Mr. Bryan is independent. His place in history is made. The presidency would make him no greater. "You may set it down, however, that the Baltimore convention will name the winner. And they will not take any chances. It is Bryan under the surface everywhere, and you can't get away from it. And he will be the next president, too."

Old Age

Doctor Tells How to Shed Bad Complexion

We cannot restore degenerated facial tissue any more than we can restore a limb. It is useless to attempt to convert a worn-out complexion into a new one. The rational procedure is to remove the complexion instead—remove the defunct tissue. Not by surgical means, however, as the underlying cuts is too thin, too tender to withstand immediate exposure. Applying ordinary mercurized wax will gradually absorb the offending cuticle. By degrees, a new, youthful skin appears; a skin as soft and delicately tinted as a rose petal.

No lady need hesitate to try this. Procure an ounce of mercurized wax of the druggist. Spread on a thin layer before retiring, removing this in the morning with soap and water. In from one to two weeks the complexion is completely transformed. An approved treatment for wrinkles is provided by dissolving an ounce of powdered sallote in a half-pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution brings prompt results.—Dr. Rupert Macdonnell in Popular Medicine—Adv.
