HAYDEN BROTHERS

BIG STRIKE IS THREATENED

Railroad Employees of Twenty Lines Involved in the Trouble.

150,000 MEN MAY WALK OUT

Organizations of the American Federation of Labor Are Now Taking Vote to Decide Whether Strike Will Be Called.

According to railroad officials and labor leaders a strike is likely to occur during the latter part of the present month or early in July that will involve from 125,000 to 150,000 men, all members of the American Federation of Labor. Should the strike occur it is expected that it will be general on twenty-two lines and will include all shopmen, switchmen and the other organizations affiliated with the Federation.

At the present time the various organizations that comprise the federation are taking a vote on whether or not the strike shall be called. The vote will be canvassed by the headquarters officials in the various districts, but the results will not be made public. The findings of the officials will be forwarded to St. Louis, at which place the general meeting of federation officials is called for June 20.

In voting on whether or not they will strike, there is no wage grievance that enters into consideration. It is asserted that it is to compel recognition of the affiliated organization of the labor crafts and also to compel the Harriman officials to bring about a settlement of the shop strike on the Harriman system of roads, that has now been on for the last six months. It is also said by the labor leaders that a general strike at this time would bring to a close the freight handlers' strike that is on in Chicago. The freight handlers are affiliated with the federation and it is contended that a general strike of the allied crafts would force recognition of the freight handlers.

Omaha Favors Strike.

Local organizations of labor organizations that are likely to be involved in the general strike, if one occurs, say that they understand the Omaha unions have voted almost unanimously to go out and that the word coming from all over the west indicates the same sentiment as prevails here. They also add that while the strike would not involve the trainmen who are members of the brotherhoods, it would tie up the roads of the country to such an extent that they would be forced to bring pressure to bear that would force the Harriman officials to reconsider the claims and demands of the men of that system.

Railroad officials who are high up in authority admit that a strike, such as is anticipated, would seriously handicap them and for a time would interfere with the handling of business. However, they contend that if the machinists, shopmen and switchmen should all go on strike, within a short time they could fill the places with other competent men. Upon the subject of whether or not they would insist that the Harriman officials recognize the demand of their men, or whether on their own lines they would consent to such recognition, they are silent.

Crowds Flock to Brandeis Stores to See the Beauty

No; Brandeis' store is not on fire. The cause for the horde of men and women flocking there is Rae Potter, the prettiest working girl of Chicago, who is here on a tour demonstrating sewing machines. This 17-year-old beauty won first place in the recent contest held by the Chicago Tribune and Lillian Russell, beauty and authority on beauty, made the decision.

There are about as many women as men crowding around the sewing machine booth—young women and old women—all come to gaze upon the prize beauty from the Windy city and mayhap to get some pointers.

Miss Potter has no beauty recipes. She is just naturally pretty. Her eyes are big and dark blue and of the dreamy variety. Her complexion is creamy and her hair is soft brown and wavy.

She declares that all the attention she receives has not turned her head. She has not decided what she will do after she has finished the tour for the sewing machine company. She is considering the stage. She has numerous offers from moving picture concerns, complexion cream manufacturers and beauty quest exploiters of all sorts. She has also had numerous proposals of marriage from men and youths all along the route. But she is just enjoying her trip through the country and letting the future take care of itself. She is accompanied by her mother.

Whatever she does in the future she will probably not return to the telephone switch-board where she was employed when she was discovered and introduced to enter the beauty contest.

All Miss Potter has to do on her demonstrating tour is to give out souvenir photographs of herself to the gazing multitude, be pretty and pleasant and enjoy herself—all of which is very easy for her.
