

Jeff Delights in Spoiling Mutt's Pleasure

Drawn for The Bee by "Bud" Fisher

Judgments

OMAHA left home in second place. Up to date it has played fifteen games abroad, winning seven, losing eight. Yet it is in second place. The answer is that some of the other first division teams have been losing. Here is an illustration of what we have frequently tried to get our friends to see more clearly than some will—one team's losing or one team's winning does not decide pennant races. So, when the home team is losing, be charitable enough to remember that losing is a part of the game and when the home team is winning remember that it cannot win always. Omaha, we think, should have more than seven of these fifteen games to its credit: It should not have dropped those four to Sioux City, but since leaving Iowa it has done well. It split even in Denver and Wichita, took both games the weather man permitted it to play at Lincoln and the first of the series at Topeka. Now we come home this week for twelve games, four each with Des Moines, Sioux City and St. Joseph. If we win eight of them we shall do very well. But this team Rourke has is up there to stay, that is, it is going to be in on the finish with the best. It is playing individual and team ball. It is now leading in team fielding, ranks second in bases stolen and second in sacrifice hitting. Niehoff is still the league leader on the bases, having stolen twenty-two. Kelly of St. Joseph has him temporarily tied. Thomson is Omaha's next base thief, with sixteen to his credit up to date, and Thomsony is also leading for us at bat, with Cogle and Kane close behind. But the team has plenty of batting, Johnson, with his terrific onslaughts, adding to its strength in this department.

Manager Chance plainly charged. President Lynch of the National league with favoring the Giants by putting Tinker and Zimmerman of the Cubs out of the play for three days while Chicago was in New York. Chance insisted that he and not the active player should have been expelled. This is not the first time other team managers have had occasion to make this complaint against Lynch, whose sympathies naturally are with New York. It is a great pity there is any ground for making such charges. It is beneath a league president to be guilty of such tactics. The Giants seem to need very little help from outside sources and as Chance told Lynch any favoritism of this sort will not only clinch the pennant for McGraw, but murder interest in the pennant race for this year.

This is interesting gossip about Tommy Leach succeeding Frank Chance as Cub boss. Chance's injury still bothers him and he desires to quit the game. It is now said that Leach was procured from Pittsburgh with this in view. But what about Evers and Tinker, old men on the team and heady ones. A few days may and may not develop the answer. In the meantime Artie Hofman is playing steady ball for the Pirates, while Lefty Leifield has delivered for the Cubs and Cole and Leach are benching it.

Rhodes still holds the hoodoo on Topeka. Our venerable correspondent down there advises us that the goal of the Kansas ambition is to see Topeka wallop Dusty just once. Like the man who recently fell dead after living to see Washington win ten straight games, Kansas might rest in place if Dale Gear's bunch could only pluck one little weakened game from our Colossus of Rhodes.

Evidently old Fox Griffith is making good in Washington. Up to this writing the Senators have got away with fifteen consecutive games. Incidentally, Walter Johnson is showing what a needless pitcher can do with a real team behind him. Few fans but who would dismiss all their local prejudices to see Washington get a pennant.

Here's hoping Hugh F. Johns, the new Lincoln magnate, will make good. Despain's illness was too serious a handicap for a man who lacked seasoned experience in the game. Don did some tall pulling at first, though, and had a good team together, but it and the fans laid down on him.

Denver is making a sorry sight. Its pitchers seem to be wholly unreliable. Friday the Grizzlies had St. Joseph 9 to 2 and yet lost. Oh, for an O'Brien and a Hagerman, eh?

The St. Louis Browns are making a worse out of it than ever. It really appears that what is needed is for Mr. Hedges to sell out and let a base ball man take that team.

Nebraska may well be proud of its representative who is to contest in the Olympic games.

Eastern colleges may well look to the Nebraska high schools for athletic material.

Hickory Johnson is rightly named. Two and three hits a day is the least he will have.

Come on Tommy and Kane, with those big sticks

Judgments

OMAHA left home in second place. Up to date it has played fifteen games abroad, winning seven, losing eight. Yet it is in second place. The answer is that some of the other first division teams have been losing. Here is an illustration of what we have frequently tried to get our friends to see more clearly than some will—one team's losing or one team's winning does not decide pennant races. So, when the home team is losing, be charitable enough to remember that losing is a part of the game and when the home team is winning remember that it cannot win always. Omaha, we think, should have more than seven of these fifteen games to its credit: It should not have dropped those four to Sioux City, but since leaving Iowa it has done well. It split even in Denver and Wichita, took both games the weather man permitted it to play at Lincoln and the first of the series at Topeka. Now we come home this week for twelve games, four each with Des Moines, Sioux City and St. Joseph. If we win eight of them we shall do very well. But this team Rourke has is up there to stay, that is, it is going to be in on the finish with the best. It is playing individual and team ball. It is now leading in team fielding, ranks second in bases stolen and second in sacrifice hitting. Niehoff is still the league leader on the bases, having stolen twenty-two. Kelly of St. Joseph has him temporarily tied. Thomson is Omaha's next base thief, with sixteen to his credit up to date, and Thomsony is also leading for us at bat, with Cogle and Kane close behind. But the team has plenty of batting, Johnson, with his terrific onslaughts, adding to its strength in this department.

Manager Chance plainly charged. President Lynch of the National league with favoring the Giants by putting Tinker and Zimmerman of the Cubs out of the play for three days while Chicago was in New York. Chance insisted that he and not the active player should have been expelled. This is not the first time other team managers have had occasion to make this complaint against Lynch, whose sympathies naturally are with New York. It is a great pity there is any ground for making such charges. It is beneath a league president to be guilty of such tactics. The Giants seem to need very little help from outside sources and as Chance told Lynch any favoritism of this sort will not only clinch the pennant for McGraw, but murder interest in the pennant race for this year.

This is interesting gossip about Tommy Leach succeeding Frank Chance as Cub boss. Chance's injury still bothers him and he desires to quit the game. It is now said that Leach was procured from Pittsburgh with this in view. But what about Evers and Tinker, old men on the team and heady ones. A few days may and may not develop the answer. In the meantime Artie Hofman is playing steady ball for the Pirates, while Lefty Leifield has delivered for the Cubs and Cole and Leach are benching it.

Rhodes still holds the hoodoo on Topeka. Our venerable correspondent down there advises us that the goal of the Kansas ambition is to see Topeka wallop Dusty just once. Like the man who recently fell dead after living to see Washington win ten straight games, Kansas might rest in place if Dale Gear's bunch could only pluck one little weakened game from our Colossus of Rhodes.

Evidently old Fox Griffith is making good in Washington. Up to this writing the Senators have got away with fifteen consecutive games. Incidentally, Walter Johnson is showing what a needless pitcher can do with a real team behind him. Few fans but who would dismiss all their local prejudices to see Washington get a pennant.

Here's hoping Hugh F. Johns, the new Lincoln magnate, will make good. Despain's illness was too serious a handicap for a man who lacked seasoned experience in the game. Don did some tall pulling at first, though, and had a good team together, but it and the fans laid down on him.

Denver is making a sorry sight. Its pitchers seem to be wholly unreliable. Friday the Grizzlies had St. Joseph 9 to 2 and yet lost. Oh, for an O'Brien and a Hagerman, eh?

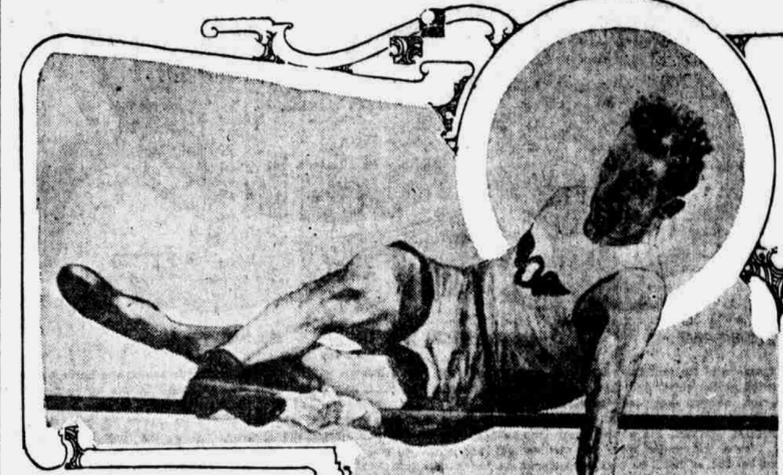

The St. Louis Browns are making a worse out of it than ever. It really appears that what is needed is for Mr. Hedges to sell out and let a base ball man take that team.

Nebraska may well be proud of its representative who is to contest in the Olympic games.

Eastern colleges may well look to the Nebraska high schools for athletic material.

Hickory Johnson is rightly named. Two and three hits a day is the least he will have.

Come on Tommy and Kane, with those big sticks

HORINE REMARKABLE MAN

Leland Stanford Student Most Talked of Man in America.

EVOLVES STYLE ALL HIS OWN

He Explains that Reason Why He is Master in High Jump is that He Has More Effective Style.

NEW YORK, June 15.—In more ways than one George Horine, the young Leland Stanford student who broke Mike Sweeney's long standing world's record for the high jump and became the most talked of athlete of the year, is a very remarkable young man. With practically no outside assistance he taught himself to jump, evolved a style of jumping all his own, used it and became the greatest jumper of his time. Now he declares he is sure several eastern athletes, among them Platt Adams, Grumpeit and Erikson, ought to be greater jumpers than himself. He explains this interesting belief with the statement that their natural spring is superior to his, and that the only reason he is their master in the sport is his more effective style.

"I was much impressed with the performance of the eastern high jumpers," said Horine recently. "To begin with, they all have great natural springs, but I notice that nearly all go over the bar with the head much higher than the feet. My study of jumping has convinced me that the most effective way to jump is to go over the bar with the feet higher than any part of the body. I evolved this style through long experimenting, and I think my success has been due largely to following this method.

"There are two essentials in the makeup of a great jumper. One is the spring and the other form or the ease with which the bar is cleared. Adams, Grumpeit and Erikson all have better natural springs than myself, but I believe my form more effective. If the great spring and the most effective form could be combined in one man we would have a truly wonderful jumper."

From this remarkable statement it is seen that Horine is not at all excited over his world-famous performance in smashing to bits a world record of seventeen years' standing and then soon after beating his own mark. But the Californian is a serious-minded youngster, very methodical and conservative in going about the task of making himself what will doubtless prove the greatest high jumper the world has ever seen. It is accordingly natural that he should view all things connected with his chosen sport dispassionately and with due regard for the real reason for his ability as well as his limitations.

Today at the height of his fame Horine is just as fully campaigning on the human aeroblane altitude limit as ever, for he is sure he has not yet done all that more practice and study will make him capable of. Where he will finally leave the record he declines to predict, and there is nothing boastful in his makeup. His conquest of height does not seem actuated by any thirst for glory. Horine rather looking upon it as something that ought to be done by some one, and finding himself equipped for the task he assumes it.

Horine was born in San Diego, Cal., twenty-two years ago. Until he was nineteen he never indulged in athletics seriously although he had done some pole vaulting. Then on the eve of entering Stanford he was suddenly filled with an ambition to become a high jumper. He didn't know how proficient he could become, but he was attracted to the sport by its graceful, spectacular qualities. He liked to watch other youths jump and thought he would like to jump himself.

As he entered college he began to practice. Progress was very slow for a time and then he decided he would get along faster by studying style and deciding on the most effective method. There were no really good jumpers about so he had to depend on the experiences of himself and his colleagues. How well he profited by his study, however, was apparent last year when he began to do better

HORINE REMARKABLE MAN

Leland Stanford Student Most Talked of Man in America.

EVOLVES STYLE ALL HIS OWN

He Explains that Reason Why He is Master in High Jump is that He Has More Effective Style.

NEW YORK, June 15.—In more ways than one George Horine, the young Leland Stanford student who broke Mike Sweeney's long standing world's record for the high jump and became the most talked of athlete of the year, is a very remarkable young man. With practically no outside assistance he taught himself to jump, evolved a style of jumping all his own, used it and became the greatest jumper of his time. Now he declares he is sure several eastern athletes, among them Platt Adams, Grumpeit and Erikson, ought to be greater jumpers than himself. He explains this interesting belief with the statement that their natural spring is superior to his, and that the only reason he is their master in the sport is his more effective style.

"I was much impressed with the performance of the eastern high jumpers," said Horine recently. "To begin with, they all have great natural springs, but I notice that nearly all go over the bar with the head much higher than the feet. My study of jumping has convinced me that the most effective way to jump is to go over the bar with the feet higher than any part of the body. I evolved this style through long experimenting, and I think my success has been due largely to following this method.

"There are two essentials in the makeup of a great jumper. One is the spring and the other form or the ease with which the bar is cleared. Adams, Grumpeit and Erikson all have better natural springs than myself, but I believe my form more effective. If the great spring and the most effective form could be combined in one man we would have a truly wonderful jumper."

From this remarkable statement it is seen that Horine is not at all excited over his world-famous performance in smashing to bits a world record of seventeen years' standing and then soon after beating his own mark. But the Californian is a serious-minded youngster, very methodical and conservative in going about the task of making himself what will doubtless prove the greatest high jumper the world has ever seen. It is accordingly natural that he should view all things connected with his chosen sport dispassionately and with due regard for the real reason for his ability as well as his limitations.

Today at the height of his fame Horine is just as fully campaigning on the human aeroblane altitude limit as ever, for he is sure he has not yet done all that more practice and study will make him capable of. Where he will finally leave the record he declines to predict, and there is nothing boastful in his makeup. His conquest of height does not seem actuated by any thirst for glory. Horine rather looking upon it as something that ought to be done by some one, and finding himself equipped for the task he assumes it.

Horine was born in San Diego, Cal., twenty-two years ago. Until he was nineteen he never indulged in athletics seriously although he had done some pole vaulting. Then on the eve of entering Stanford he was suddenly filled with an ambition to become a high jumper. He didn't know how proficient he could become, but he was attracted to the sport by its graceful, spectacular qualities. He liked to watch other youths jump and thought he would like to jump himself.

As he entered college he began to practice. Progress was very slow for a time and then he decided he would get along faster by studying style and deciding on the most effective method. There were no really good jumpers about so he had to depend on the experiences of himself and his colleagues. How well he profited by his study, however, was apparent last year when he began to do better than 6 feet. In the first regular meet in which he participated he did 6 feet 1/2 inch. The next time out he cleared 6 feet 1 1/2 inches, a new college record. For the close of the season he had accomplished 6 feet 4 inches, equaling the American college record held by Page of Pennsylvania.

GEORGE HORINE, THE WORLD'S GREATEST HIGH JUMPER. CONSIDERED BY MANY THE MOST WONDERFUL MEMBER OF AMERICA'S CLEAN-UP OLYMPIC TEAM.

This year he started training January 1, but for three months participated in nothing more important than the college games every Saturday. Then the last of March, in the dual meet with Pomona, he did 6 feet 4 3/4 inches. It was three days after this that he set the new world's record of 6 feet 8 1/2 inches. At the Olympic tryouts he increased his mark to 6 feet 7 inches. These steps in his career show his steady improvement. That all the while his jumping has been consistently high is shown by the fact that in thirty-five out of forty-five meets he has cleared at least 6 feet.

Horine was asked to tell something about his training system. It proved simpler itself. The chief feature of it is care to avoid too much practice.

"When I start training," said the champion, "I do a little exercise of all kinds I run a little, hurdle a little, put the shot a little, etc., and for three weeks I do no high jumping whatever. Then I cut everything out but the high jump and begin making half a dozen low jumps every evening. Then once a week I try for height in competition. If I find anything is wrong I get someone to watch me and tell me what is the matter. If they can't they tell better than I whether there is anything wrong with the 'lift' or the 'throw-up,' while I can watch my footprints to catch defects in the 'take-off' and landing.

"I do the best I can to get perfect form and then I forget style and look out for my condition. That is, I believe, what every jumper should do. Style should be as near perfect as possible before entering competition at all. Another important thing is the necessity of being thoroughly warmed up before competing, and if one feels the cold the legs should be kept covered with oil before starting.

"I am not a food faddist, but I am careful about what I eat. During training I never eat pastry, but most anything else that appeals to me. I think lamb chops are the best meat. Veal is bad. Beef in various forms is good and so are soft-boiled eggs. I never smoke or drink and I am careful to get eight or nine hours' sleep every night."

Westerall Comes Back. Tex Westerall, released by Indianapolis to Wichita and then recalled, has been sent back to the Jobbers again.

LIVELY CONTESTS PROMISED

Amateur Base Ball Nines Warming Up Into Mid-Season Form.

KEEN RIVALRY IN ALL CAMPS

While Several Teams Will Invade the Jungles of Nebraska and Iowa Some Break Ties Will Be Waged Here.

This afternoon's headliner at Rourke park will be the contest between the Storz Triumphs and the Beatrice Mink leaguers. The Advos and Blatz teams will play the first game, which is booked to commence at 1:30 o'clock.

Manager Bradford of the Storz has secured "Doc" Humbach, the best south-paw, whose work with the Council Bluffs Merchants ranks him among the leading pitchers of western Iowa, and will probably use him in the game today. Manager Wisser of the leaguers will use either Beltz, his star left winger, or Dull, whom he secured from St. Joe, to do the slinging. In addition to manager Wisser, formerly of Milwaukee and St. Joe, who plays second base and is known to a great many of the fans, will be such well known players as John Dennison of the Omaha Americans, last season with Shemondah, and Tom Potter, formerly on Lincoln's catching staff. Secretary Smith expects great things of Shortstop Smith, a youngster from Pittsburgh, Pa. who was with Des Moines for part of last season. According to latest league averages he is hitting .387 and stands third among the fielding short-stops.

The lineups:

Advos.....	First.....	Blatz
McGrath.....	Second.....	Kelly
Hollander.....	Third.....	Charnquist
Probst.....	Short.....	McCormick
Bowles.....	Left.....	Minkus
Carmody.....	Center.....	Williamson
Feltman.....	Right.....	Faney
Finagan.....	Pitch.....	Stacey
Coe.....	Pitch.....	Gillespie
Baker.....	Pitch.....	Karbowskie
Madden.....	Pitch.....	Guthrie
Storz.....	First.....	Beatrice
Dunmy.....	Second.....	Wisser
Graham.....	Short.....	Smith
Minikus.....	Left.....	McGrath
Durkee.....	Center.....	Hutchinson
Daugherty.....	Right.....	Dye
Hachen.....	Pitch.....	Williams
Welch.....	Pitch.....	Darrow
Probst.....	Pitch.....	Potter
.....	Pitch.....	Beltz
.....	Pitch.....	Bonham
.....	Pitch.....	Dull
.....	Pitch.....	Culver

The A. O. U. W.'s will go to Nebraska City and do battle with Ducky Horine's Mink leaguers. Two weeks ago the Nebraska City gang walloped the Storz Triumphs; as a consequence the A. O. U. W. tribe is going to do its best to make a better showing than the suds crew. The lineup:

A. O. U. W. Nebraska City

Koran.....	First.....	Drum
Young.....	Second.....	Clair
Brown.....	Short.....	Bush
McCullough.....	Third.....	Jones
Fox.....	Left.....	Marshall
Quigley.....	Center.....	Holmes
Wright.....	Right.....	Sporer
Lightwell.....	Catch.....	Goldwalt
Cass.....	Pitch.....	Conway
Eisenhart.....	Pitch.....	Corcoran

As customary two excellent games are billed for Farrell park, the first of which will be between the Kiplingers and Hocters and the second between the Farrells and Baums. Up to date the Kips have been going at a fast clip and the Hocters have been doing likewise.

The line-up:

Kiplingers.....	Position.....	Hocters.....
Guinan.....	First.....	Guyer
Nelson.....	Second.....	Webner
Platz.....	Third.....	Lindom
Dineen.....	Short.....	VanOrden
Barr.....	Left.....	Schiffbauer
Abdl.....	Center.....	Shields
Gladon.....	Right.....	Thurber
Dineen.....	Catch.....	Miller
Moran.....	Pitch.....	Beever
Forsland.....	Pitch.....	Winters

Farrells..... Position..... Baums.....

Kemp.....	First.....	Krieger
-----------	------------	---------

Tel Berna, Cornell's sterling distance runner, one of the mainstays of the Olympic team.

LIVELY CONTESTS PROMISED

Amateur Base Ball Nines Warming Up Into Mid-Season Form.

KEEN RIVALRY IN ALL CAMPS

While Several Teams Will Invade the Jungles of Nebraska and Iowa Some Break Ties Will Be Waged Here.

This afternoon's headliner at Rourke park will be the contest between the Storz Triumphs and the Beatrice Mink leaguers. The Advos and Blatz teams will play the first game, which is booked to commence at 1:30 o'clock.

Manager Bradford of the Storz has secured "Doc" Humbach, the best south-paw, whose work with the Council Bluffs Merchants ranks him among the leading pitchers of western Iowa, and will probably use him in the game today. Manager Wisser of the leaguers will use either Beltz, his star left winger, or Dull, whom he secured from St. Joe, to do the slinging. In addition to manager Wisser, formerly of Milwaukee and St. Joe, who plays second base and is known to a great many of the fans, will be such well known players as John Dennison of the Omaha Americans, last season with Shemondah, and Tom Potter, formerly on Lincoln's catching staff. Secretary Smith expects great things of Shortstop Smith, a youngster from Pittsburgh, Pa. who was with Des Moines for part of last season. According to latest league averages he is hitting .387 and stands third among the fielding short-stops.

The lineups:

Advos.....	First.....	Blatz
McGrath.....	Second.....	Kelly
Hollander.....	Third.....	Charnquist
Probst.....	Short.....	McCormick
Bowles.....	Left.....	Minkus
Carmody.....	Center.....	Williamson
Feltman.....	Right.....	Faney
Finagan.....	Pitch.....	Stacey
Coe.....	Pitch.....	Gillespie
Baker.....	Pitch.....	Karbowskie
Madden.....	Pitch.....	Guthrie
Storz.....	First.....	Beatrice
Dunmy.....	Second.....	Wisser
Graham.....	Short.....	Smith
Minikus.....	Left.....	McGrath
Durkee.....	Center.....	Hutchinson
Daugherty.....	Right.....	Dye
Hachen.....	Pitch.....	Williams
Welch.....	Pitch.....	Darrow
Probst.....	Pitch.....	Potter
.....	Pitch.....	Beltz
.....	Pitch.....	Bonham
.....	Pitch.....	Dull
.....	Pitch.....	Culver

The A. O. U. W.'s will go to Nebraska City and do battle with Ducky Horine's Mink leaguers. Two weeks ago the Nebraska City gang walloped the Storz Triumphs; as a consequence the A. O. U. W. tribe is going to do its best to make a better showing than the suds crew. The lineup:

A. O. U. W. Nebraska City

Koran.....	First.....	Drum
Young.....	Second.....	Clair
Brown.....	Short.....	Bush
McCullough.....	Third.....	Jones
Fox.....	Left.....	Marshall
Quigley.....	Center.....	Holmes
Wright.....	Right.....	Sporer
Lightwell.....	Catch.....	Goldwalt
Cass.....	Pitch.....	Conway
Eisenhart.....	Pitch.....	Corcoran

As customary two excellent games are billed for Farrell park, the first of which will be between the Kiplingers and Hocters and the second between the Farrells and Baums. Up to date the Kips have been going at a fast clip and the Hocters have been doing likewise.

The line-up:

Kiplingers.....	Position.....	Hocters.....
Guinan.....	First.....	Guyer
Nelson.....	Second.....	Webner
Platz.....	Third.....	Lindom
Dineen.....	Short.....	VanOrden
Barr.....	Left.....	Schiffbauer
Abdl.....	Center.....	Shields
Gladon.....	Right.....	Thurber
Dineen.....	Catch.....	Miller
Moran.....	Pitch.....	Beever
Forsland.....	Pitch.....	Winters

Farrells..... Position..... Baums.....

Kemp.....	First.....	Krieger
-----------	------------	---------

For games with the Kiplingers address William Paul, 2588 Pratt street or Buzz Webster 2599.

The Council Bluffs Cubs are looking for out-of-town games. Address George Futnam, 2702 Avenue A, Council Bluffs, or telephone F 1281.

Captain Benson of the Hanscom Parks says the wind always blows his way when his team hooks up with the Luxus, formerly the Americans.

For games with the Shamrocks call South 1583 and shout for George Kennedy. They are especially anxious to hear from the Storz Triumphs.

Captain Benson, the leader of the Hanscom Parks, is looking for an out-of-town game for July Fourth. Call him over Douglas 6672 or Douglas 7434.

Marion Gibson says playing base ball is like a tough conundrum. We all have to give it up. He had to quit because one of his optics was put on the hummer.

On July Fourth the Workmen will play at Woodbine, Ia. A grand celebration is booked at Woodbine, so the Workmen are assured of a good game.

The Council Bluffs Elks have organized a Sunday team composed of the Rowing association crowd and the new rowers ready to meet all the speed merchants.

Fisher Goes to Oklahoma. Des Moines has sent Pritchard Fisher to the Holdenville club of the Oklahoma league.

NINE CLUBS ENTER TOURNEY

Golfers of Nebraska Will Play Here Last of June.

WILL CONTINUE FOR FOUR DAYS

About Two Hundred Followers of the Sport Will Be Seen on the Several Golf Courses in This City.

Attention is now being turned by Nebraska golfers to the eighth annual tournament which will be held at the Omaha Country club links June 26, 27, 28 and 29. A total of nine clubs have entered, including the Omaha Field club, Happy Hollow club, Miller Park Golf club, Omaha Country club, Fremont Country club, Hastings Country club, Overland Country club, Lincoln Country club and Council Bluffs Rowing association. About 200 followers of the gutta percha game will take part.

The big tourney will open at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning, June 26, when the qualifying round will be started. From then until Saturday afternoon, June 29, the Country club links will be busy both in the morning and afternoon.

Prizes Are Awarded. Prizes for the tournament were announced by Frank J. Noel, secretary of the Nebraska Golf association, last week. A gold medal will be awarded for low score in the qualifying round, a silver trophy cup for the team winning the championship and a trophy cup to the winner of the amateur championship and the winner in the consolation class. Prizes for the runners-up will also be awarded.

Suitable trophies will be hung up for the winners and runners-up in the directors' and secretary's classes and handicaps.

With the exception of the Field club none of the local clubs have yet made up their entry list. Following the Field club entries as arranged by William Clarke, professional at the club last week: James Abbott, J. W. Noel, James Allen, Jack Hughes, E. M. Baird, Harold Johnson, O. D. Kiplinger, D. V. Sholes, M. H. LaDouceur, Ed Murphy, J. B. Lindsey, A. O. Nichols, James Blakney, E. E. Palmatier, Albert Cahm, J. B. Porter, W. N. Chambers, Foye Porter, W. G. Cundiff, Sam Reynolds, Selwyn Dousherly, J. W. Wilson, H. J. Dunn, J. W. Williams, H. C. Greenstreet, H. C. Sumney, E. E. Hamilton, J. W. Wilson, E. A. Higgins, G. T. Wilson.

SACRED HEART PARISH TO CELEBRATE ANNUAL FEAST

Sacred Heart parish will celebrate solemnly Sunday the feast from which it takes its name. There will be a solemn high mass procession of the blessed sacrament. The celebrant of the mass will be Rev. C. Collins, assistant pastor; deacon, Rev. P. J. Judge; sub-deacon, Rev. Thomas Kelly, S. J. The sermon will be preached by Rev. A. J. Tallmadge, S. J., of Creighton university.

The satisfaction you receive in a perfect fitting suit amply repays you for any trouble you may have in finding what you want. You absolutely avoid all trouble when you come here.

It is immaterial to me how many suits you look at before you buy. Your satisfaction is my ultimate aim and any service I can render in helping you choose just the right suit will be gladly given.

It is my special service coupled with my splendid values that have in a few short months made Mort's Clothes Shop a rendezvous for the critical well dressed men.

$20 to $25

Mort's

CLOTHES SHOP

107 South 16th Street. Successor to Vollmer.

Ride a Yale, They Never Fail

The amount of service you get from the article you buy denotes quality. The Yale is the quality motorcycle.

Immediate Deliveries

VICTOR H. ROSS

Yale and Harley Davidson Motorcycles
2703 Leavenworth Street