Record of Water Pumped in Bluffs

Nearly 10,000,000 less gallons of water was pumped by the city water plant last week than was required to meet the demand for the corresponding week a year ago. The cause was chiefly the difference in the kind of weather that prevailed. Only a little more than 17,-000,000 gallons was pumped last week and nearly 27,000,000 was pumped a year ago. Dodge Memorial Church Dedicated

An audience that completely packed the church at all of the services witnessed yesterday the dedication of the new Dodge Memorial church, Thirty-second street and Avenut C. Among those present at the principal services were General Grenville M. Dodge and daughter, Mrs. Letta Montgomery, and Mrs. N. P. Dodge and daughter, Miss Caroline The full dedication service of the Congregational church was used. The dedication sermon was preached by Dr. T. O. Douglass of Grinnell. A chorus of forty voices furnished the music. The church was beautifully decorated with flags and flowers and follage plants. A huge floral center piece in parallelogram form, bearing in its center the word, "Welcome," occupied a conspicuous place on the altar. It was the gift of the Wilcox florists. The report of the building committee showed that the church, which was built almost entirely from material contained in the old First Congregational church. had cost $5,961.54 to date. All of this cost had been paid with the exception of $1,150 and $500 of that was on hand.

Prominent Bluffs Pioneer Woman Passes Away at Hospital.

FAMILY WELL KNOWN IN CITY

Funeral Will Be Held Tuesday Aft ernoon at Residence and Rev. Dr. McClure Will Officiate.

Mrs. L. C. Empkie died Sunday mornng at the Jennie Edmundson Memorial hospital, where she was taken a few moments after being seriously injured almost in front of the hospital two weeks ago. Her death was due to heart sixty-five miles of the river, where the failure and exhaustion. Mrs. Empkie's condition had been critical for several days. She suffered frequent sinking spells, but quickly rallied. giving encouragement to her friends to hope for ultimate recovery. On Friday evening she appeared to be greatly improved, and the hope of her friends was strong. An hour later she was seized by a sinking spell and at 2 o'clock Satur day morning her relatives were advised that the end might be expected mo-mentarily. She again rallied and Saturday forenoon regained her former promising condition and was resting comfortably. The final relapse came late Satur day night. Her health had been frail for several years. Mrs. Lorina Margaret Empkie was 6 years old. She had been a continuous resident of Council Bluffs since 1868, and was one of the pioneer women who impressed their personalities upon the growing town. The dominant traits of her character found expression in earnest and for those with whom she came into conreligious activities. She was one of its a zone of 150 miles radius from Keokuk, oldest and most helpful members, taking and chiefly along the Missouri river, if work. Mrs. Empkie was born in Hillsboro. O., on February 1, 1849. Before comine to Council Bluffs in 1868 she lived with her relatives at Bloomington, Ill. Her marriage to Mr. Empkie occurred in Council Bluffs in February, 1870. Her father's family, the Van Pelts, were prominent in three states. Mrs. Empkie was the last surviving daughter. She is survived by her husband and three sons, E. L., C. A. and F. D. Empkie, all prominent in local business circles. The only other near relative is her niece, Mrs

Harnessing the Idle Mississippi Promises Vust Benefits to Local Industries.

G. Walter Barr, editor and proprietor of the Keckuk Standard, and a lecturer on scientific subjects, writes of the proposed harnessing of the Mississippi at Keokuk in the Review of Reviews. After referring to the fact that Keokuk fles in the central part of the great agricultural area of the United States, he goes

"It is in this environment that there is being developed 225,000 kilowatts of power, the equivalent of over 300,600 mechanical horsepower. At the same time, in an automobile accident that occurred without a cent of cost to the public, there is insured deep-water navigation for Mississippi is in its maddest mood, and the Des Moines rapids stretch for a dozen miles an impassable barrier, which is flanked by a government canal costing which, with its appurtenances, is the longest monolith in the world, with its length over all of 9,006 feet. The powerand will contain the largest installation of turbines and electric generators ever built, thirty duplex units of 7,500 kilowatts each. The lock provided for steamboats to pass the dam is greater than any one lock in the Panama canal, having the same width and a lift of forty feet, compared with the maximum lift of only thirty-two feet on the isthmus; the Keokuk lock is 400 feet long, and there is also a large dry dock for the use of the United States government. All these structures are of monolithic concrete, and they involve several unparalleled engineering features. This one power-house has an output tact. She was an earnest and practical generated by all the companies, on both Christian woman, with her chosen church, sides of the international boundary, at the First Presbyterian, the center of her Niagara Falls. It will be used within a leading part for years in all of its present plans do not miscarry; it is desirable to use the power near the site of the dam and power-house-not on account of loss in transmission in these later days so much as on account of the cost of maintaining transmission lines and the necessity of buying right of way for these lines as wide as a railroad re-> "St. Louis, 135 miles distant by air line, has contracted for 60,000 horse power for ninety-nine years. The current will be taken there by a transmission line now building, which will carry 110,000 volts, the highest electric pressure ever used to transmit power. A better comprehension can be gained of the magnitude of this new hydro-electric development in the agricultural center of the country by some comparisons. The power developed at Keokuk is about three times that now used in manufacturing in the state of Iowa; more than is now used in the state of Missouri; and one-third that now used in the state of lilinois, including Chicago and its environs. It is onefifth of all the water power now harnessed in the entire United States, which census figures. "The three states of Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, at the junction of which is located this Keokuk Installation, used in manufacturing only 983,211 horse power in 1905, the date of the last census data on this subject, and this is only a little over three times the output of the electric generators going in where these three states meet in the middle of the Mississippi. Figures for 1911, made by careful factoring of percentages of gain before and after 1905, show a large increase in Illinois to about 1,150,000 horse power now used for manufacturing in that state, as against 651,578 horse power in use in 1905, when the census was taken.

"As regards the more immediate vicinity of this new and great power devalop. ment, statistics of the zone with 150-mile radius are as follows: Within this zone is a population (1910) of 4,205,919; factories capitalized at $590,085,000, and turning out annually products worth at the factory $712,437,000; the population within the zone includes from 45 to 47 per cent of the population of the states segmented, excluding Chicago, and includes nearly half the countles in each state, with an average of 57 per cent of the most densely populated counties of the three states And in the center of this zone is being created a combination of dam, turbines and generators which will nearly quintuple the amount of manufacturing done within the 160-mile radius from the plant." The capital of $27,000,000 required to carry out the project was furnished chiefy by English and Boston capitalists The federal bill authodizing the water power development provides that the dry dock and lock shall be deeded to the government on their completion. Why take chances if you are having trouble with your eyes. See our experienced optician. Lefferts'
