Pruitt says he reached the conclusion that it was not, and went into the Ogden hotel with the intention of making a spectacular finish. He was equipped with a 38-call-ber revolver and a 'two-ounce bottle of laudanum. He planned to take the narcotic and then shoot himself. The immediate cause of the resolution to end it all was said by Pruitt to be the refusal of a young woman employed as a domestic at the hotel to marry him. Pruitt told the police that she not only returned to another young man and wasted a wealth of affective two wasted as wealth of affective two wasted as wealth of affective the convention hall and the headquarters at the Grand hotel

The strength of the opposition was indicated by the presence in the city of E. B. Evans of Des Moines, grand master Workman of Iowa, and every deputy in the state, shrewd and deeply skilled in the arts of politics. They arrived without the knowledge of the grand officers of the woman's auxiliary and took apartments in the Grand hotel Monday night. Arnold Pruitt was sent to the county attention as he swaggered through the hotel and police officers were called. Although considerable time transpired neither the polson nor the bullets were appealed to. The police department has been trying to encourage Pruitt to adhere to resolutions announced last winter when he became one of the converts at the Hart-Magann meetings. The youth was sent to the county jail for twenty days.
