COUNCIL SORE AT THE BOARD

Commissioners Ask Education Directors for Accounting.

FINE REMITTANCE STARTS ROW

Board of Education insists that Fines Have Been Suspended and It Has Been Deprived of Funds Belonging to It.

What looks like the beginning of a big fight between the city council and the Board of Education was the adoption of a resolution by the commissioners, submitted by Dan Butler, instructing the city comptroller to examine the records of the board relative to the moneys expended in the erection of schools during the last three years.

The action of the council is simply a "come-back" on the Board of Education, which on Monday night passed resolutions asking that the action of the mayor in remitting certain fines of persons convicted in police court be investigated. The board held that the action of the mayor was unlawful and that many of the persons whose fines were remitted were well able to pay the fines, and that if the fines had not been remitted the money would have gone into the school board fund.

Dan Butler made no explanation of his resolution when it was submitted, but it evidently had been previously discussed by the members of the council, as it was passed unanimously without any question. Following is the resolution:

Resolved, That the city comptroller be directed to examine into the records of the Board of Education for the purpose of furnishing this council with the names of all contracts with said board for the erection of school buildings, or for warming, ventilating, furnishing or repairing same; also to furnish list of school buildings erected during the last three years, the amount of each contract and the name of each contractor, and to make this report not later than August 1.

The Smoke Nuisance. In addition to the above resolution, the council adopted another relative to the great amount of smoke being emitted from chimneys of factories, office buildings and plants. The resolution, which was submitted by Dan Butler, holds that Omaha cannot be a city beautiful as long as the smoke nuisance is allowed. The building inspector was instructed to visit the various factories and buildings in Omaha and get the names of persons who own them and demand their appearance before the city council to explain why great volumes of smoke is permitted to issue from smoke stacks on their buildings.

If satisfactory answers are not forthcoming the old smoke ordinance will be repealed and a new one drawn up and passed which will be far more stringent than its predecessor. Mr. Butler says he has received complaints from a large number of persons in the business district who claim they cannot open their office windows on account of the excessive amount of smoke.

The council agreed to place an arc lamp in Riverview park and one at Thirtieth and Howard streets. A special meeting of the council will be held Tuesday night, when the property owners on Twenty-fourth street, between Fort street and Florence boulevard, will be heard relative to the kind of paving they wish placed in front of their property. The members of the council took a recess until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, when Mayor Dahlman is expected to be present.

Beatrice is After an M. P. Extension

Beatrice and Virginia are going to work for the extension of the Missouri Pacific road for all their worth. Intimated J. C. Everett of Virginia, who is stopping at the Merchants. "Considerable talk has been going the rounds for several weeks and the Commercial club of Beatrice is figuring out the best inducements it can give. Outside of the excursion of business men to Kansas City in an effort of having the road extended dollars and cents will be forthcoming to bring the road to Beatrice. As far as Beatrice needing the extension is concerned, there is no other town in the state that is so much in need of a road. It is but ten miles and Virginia is a mere hamlet. The road, I wager, is a loser, but it would make good profits if it comes on to Beatrice. It is also up to the towns to offer a proper inducement in the way of concessions, I suppose."

Kansas in Need of Many Harvest Hands

The wheat harvest is on in Kansas and reports coming to the Rock Island, Missouri Pacific and Burlington roads from the great grain belt of that state are to the effect that while the crop is not a bumper, it is far ahead of last year and somewhat better than an average. With the beginning of the wheat harvest, the cry for men has been warded up from Kansas. Local officials of the Rock Island have advised from their tributary to the company lines 5,000 men are needed, beginning next week. All local labor agencies have been notified of the demand for help and there is a scurrying about to find men for the harvest fields. The Kansas wages range from $2.50 to $3.50 per day and board.

Swedish Societies Have Picnic at Krug Park on Saturday

Plans are now under way for the erection of a $30,000 Swedish home at 1900 Chicago street, the directors of the Omaha Swedish Building association having already purchased the lot on that site at a price of $7,500. Through the directors' efforts during the last two months an additional $10,000 has been raised. The first floor of the new home will be used for club rooms, the second for lodge meetings and the third as a hall for entertainment purposes. It is the purpose of the new home to unite all the Swedish organizations of the city and make the new building their common meeting place. John Larsen is president of the Swedish Building association. All Swedish societies of Omaha will unite today in a picnic to be given at Krug park, the proceeds of which will go towards the fund for the new building.

Gaines Brings Suit to Recover on Policy

Frank H. Gaines has started suit against the Michigan Mutual Life Insurance company for $2,370 on a twenty-year endowment policy, alleging that the company has refused to keep an agreement to pay him $2,370, or else give him $4,900 paid up insurance at the end of twenty years. It is alleged that the company, though posing as a mutual concern, is a stock company and has sufficient surplus to keep the agreement. The agreement under which Gaines asks $2,370 is written on a slip of paper and attached to the policy. The company offers to pay a smaller sum, but refuses the amount prayed, alleging that the slip is not part of the policy and is not binding upon the company. It alleges the agent or some other person attached the slip to the policy and the company knew nothing about it until Gaines made his demand for payment.
