

J. J. HANIGHEN CO.

Greatest Plumbing and Heating Concern in the West

A Remarkable Record

has been established by the

J. J. Hanighen Co.

It having installed the plumbing and heating equipment of nearly every large building in Omaha.

THE plumbing and heating equipment of a building is its most vital organism. Without these any structure becomes a barren vault - uninhabitable and practically useless.

Plumbing and heating are two of the big factors in modern progress. They afford the people of today comforts which were denied those of a less advanced age. It is a fact, which only a few know, that Omaha leads even the larger cities of the country in modern plumbing and heating construction.

Pictured on this page are some of Omaha's leading and best equipped buildings, and it is in these that the greatest feats in up-to-date plumbing and heating installation were performed.

In every case the work was done by the J. J. Hanighen Co., who earned a record which probably has never been equalled by any plumbing and heating contractor in any city in the United States, and which places the company among the very biggest plumbing and heating establishments in the country.

Recently the J. J. Hanighen Co. has moved into its own modern steel building at 14th and Jackson Sts., and its future growth can only be limited by the building future of Omaha itself, for it is safe to say that with the need of a big plumbing and heating installation will come the call for the J. J. Hanighen Co.

The man at the head of this company is J. J. Hanighen. Quiet and unassuming he conveys no intimation to the stranger of the enormous tasks accomplished under his direction. It was only by leading questions that the writer was able to obtain from him the names of some of the big plumbing and heating contracts carried out by his company in Omaha. However, the accompanying illustrations on this page, tell far more forcibly than words what J. J. Hanighen and his company have done in Omaha.
