Runaway Girl in Boys' Clothes is herself to be a man and thought it would be nice to run away from home.

Neal Philbert, aged 17, also of Marion, was to be her traveling companion. They boarded a passenger train and yesterday evening they arrived in Omaha.

The problem of sleeping for the night had never occurred to them, but when they tried to get two rooms at 412 North Eighteenth street the proprietor became suspicious. "Why don't you boys room together?"

e asked. Pearl could think of no suitable answer and the boarding house man called in Patrolman McDougal, who questioned them closely and found his suspicions correct. At the police station she cried when Captain Dunn in the role of a kind father told her how naughty she was.

The captain then telegraphed the parents of both runaways and turned them over to the care of Mrs. Gibbons, police matron. Pearl Glover is the only daughter of an official of one of the express companies at Marion and Philbert is the son of a prominent citizen also.

The two came to Omaha with the intention of becoming electricians and seeing the country. They say they have seen all of the world they care to for a while and that they don't think they want to become electricians after all. The mothers of the two adventurers ar-

Three Persons Die When Strope Auto Collides with Train

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 30 .- Three persons were killed and four injured, one possibly fatally, near here tonight when an automobile of G. W. Strope, a retired merchant, collided with a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul passenger train. Mrs. Strope is among the dead.

The others killed are Mrs. F. F. Ferguson, daughter of Strope, and her 7-yearold daughter, Shirley. Strope was seriously injured and now is in a hospital here. Ferguson and a young daughter of the Stropes were badly hurt, as was the chauffeur, Jerry Rogers.

The party at the time of the accident was returning to Kansas City after a day in the country. It is said they did not see the approaching train.

China Rejects Terms of Proposed Loan

LONDON, June 30 .- The Pekin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that China absolutely rejects the demands of the six-power group, which were that the loan must be $300,000,000; that three European financial supervisors must be appointed, and that the group must have its financial agents in China for five months during which time there should be no issue of bonds and no business of any kind involving the pledging of China's credit without the supervisors' signature.

China's counter proposal is simply for $50,000,000 loan. The correspondent strongly protests that the group is making a deliberate attempt to secure a monopoly and using the supervisors as a mere blind, and says that the whole business discloses many unpleasant features.

The Goldstomes of South Omaha have hanged their name to the Grocers, and this evening all over Cneyenne county, under the new name defeated the Polish Athletics Saturday. The Poles made a grand rally in the ast inning scoring four men but were unable to win. Ryan, of the Grocers, pitched a fine game, holding the Athletics to four hits, until the eighth inning when he began to weaken and McGuire came to his rescue. Score: Bring Out Heavy Selling of Corn.

Prevails Has a Tendency to Wheat on Decline.

OMAHA, July 1, 1912. Reports of good rains in the Canadian northwest started wheat lower. Just how heavy the rains were or how beneficial they were will determine the further ac-they were will determine the further action of the market.

Indications are that the new winter wheat will soon begin to move to market in large quantities and this should prove a big factor in sending values lower.

The fact that the whole corn belt is having ideal growing weather and that the crop is making excellent progress has a tendency to bring out heavy selling. Should weather conditions continue good values should work lower.

Wheat ruled weak and lower; selling

Wheat ruled weak and lower; selling was heavy on reported rains and less damage news. Cash wheat was it lower. Fine weather and liberal receipts coupled with the decline in wheat eased the corn market. Cash corn was it lower. Primary wheat receipts were 408,000 bu and shipments were 206,000 bu. HARRY WOLF'S MACHINE CRASHES INTO A BANK

Harry Wolf, real estate and insurance man, had a narrow escape from serious injury at 1:30 o'clock vesterday afternoon when the brakes of his automobile failed to work. The machine ran up on the Seventeenth street sidewalk and crashed into the Omaha National bank building railing surrounding an areaway. Mr. Wolf was on his way home when he attempted to slow up his machine near Farnam street and the brakes refused to work. He turned the car towards the bank building, hoping that by striking the curbing the little machine would stop. Hitting the walk the machine kept on going. Mr. Wolf jumped. The car crashed into the railing, shattering it and sending it down the areaway. The sudden impact stopped the engines and the car hung partly over the pit. Mr. Wolf escaped with a slight shaking up. The front of the car was demolished.

Quinby at Miller Park.

Laurie J. Quinby, editor of the Chancellor, fired shots at the Omaha water case and condemned the Omaha city council's proposed occupation tax at the "Good Citizenship Day" meeting at Miller park. Mr. Quinby declared for equal suffrage, saying we never can have government of, by and for the people until women are given the ballot.

City Councilman John J. Ryder presided: Rev. Carl G. Bader and Rev. Thomas M. Evans, originator of "Good Citizenship Day," offered prayers and Isaac Carpenter spoke for higher citizenship. He urged obedience to the ten commandments, Sabbath observance and religious conviction as elements of good citizenship and said nothing should be ing Saturday morning. A number of citizenship and said nothing should be names have been suggested as additions allowed on Sundays which will tend to draw people away from church. citizenship. F. S. Baxter presided and

Rev. J. S. Ebersole pronounced the invocation. "Every person in the country can become a good citizen, no matter what his or her standing may be," said Mr. Graff. "I think the greatest citizen the United States ever knew was Abraham Lincoln. He was a man born in poverty and raised in poverty, but by continuous struggle rose to be the greatest man the United States has ever known. His motto was 'I do the very best I can, the very best I know how.' How many men of today can safely and truly say that he does the very best he can?" Mr. Woodrough broke from the usual talk on national citizenship and spoke on city citizenship. He said: "Every great problem is worked out in the cities. Every city has its own problems and good citizens are needed to solve these problems. The brains of the country are in some cases discovered in the small towns, but the ideas are brought to the big cities to be worked out. My idea of one of Omaha's best citizens was E. J. Cornish. Reflection.

OMAHA, June 30,-To the Editor of The Bee: Jufe is a delightful month for travel. The weary office man from the city thoroughly enjoys a trip into the country. Seated at a car window, he gazes out over an expanse of green, and temporarily forgets the city-its heat and noise-its dust and dirt. Life in its fullness is all about him; in the very air i.e. breathes, and the voice of nature speaks to him. He sees some of the cattle quietly grazing on the luscious grasses, while others are resting contentedly in the shade of trees.

In the fields, the horses are working, yet not over-exerted, and evidence the best of care. Their drivers dressed in comfort for the work they perform, ap-The train rushes on past many farm houses large and roomy, with spacious lawns. At one there is a barefoot girl going toward the barn and swinging a pail; every movement denoting freedom, health and naturalness. The man's eyes travel back to the "right-of-way," where the wild roses grow in profusion and are in keeping with all he has been looking at. He which laws are enforced there. Those gives a sigh and a look of sadness conies over his face as he thinks of the city and its people back there, and of how different from the country. The majority of city homes with their cramped surroundings: the men and frequently deprived of sunlight and pure air; horses urged to the height of their endurance, under a scorching sun and over rough pavements that often give pain at every hoof beat. Somehow when he comes to the partfoot girl he associates her with the wild rose. Perhaps on his desk in the city he has admired the beautiful, cultivated rose and enjoyed its perfume, but he reslizes now that it lacked something that its modest little sister, the wild rose, roseses. The florist may have given the city rose much care and attention, but the other, down among the grasses, fostered by nature, reaches up to great the sun and develops color, form and beauty that excels the cultivated rose. A closer view would have shown a glow in the eyes, and on the cheeks of the country girl is a flush like that of the pink side of a sun-kissed peach. nature for her teacher she knows little if anything of the artificial world, its habits and ways. She is indeed a flower and fit companion for the wild rose that grows on the "right-of-way." With a feeling of pity he thinks of the average city girl, whose apparel indicates discomfort and verges on the lines of immodesty. Unless thickly powdered, her features look pale, and she moves with languor. Circles soon form around her eyes, the result of meetings on downtown street corners, often as late as midnight. She does not think so, but she lacks much that the country girl has. Their pathways of life lie far apart and there's much between. Presumably no amount of persuasion could change-the life of the one-more is the pity-but of the other, may we hope that she will always follow the lines of nature, and never know the day that leads to life under the archlight of a big city.

Make Your Desires Known. OMAHA, June 29.—To the Editor of The Bee: Acting upon the invitation as set forth editorially in The Bee recently to inform the city commissioners when and where attention was needed to the streets or otherwise, your correspondent can say that in two instances where the privilege was exercised prompt response was giver to the request. In less than twenty-four hours from the filing of information matters complained of were remedled and eye-sores to a cleaner and better Omaira completely and satisfactorily removed ... It is felt that the commissioners desire to do all that is possible to remedy existing defects. They are not, however, ubiquitous and must be shown where to apply their energies. There are many spots all over Omaha that need the attention of those in authority and the com-missioners, as set forth in The Bee, are ready to act promptly if the public will point out to them the particular locality needing attention. Let every one be a connoisseur of his surroundings and anything is found wrong that the commissioners can right give information the fountain head and rest in the assurance that relief will be promptly forth

KENESAW, Neb., June 29.—To the Editor of The Bee: The situation in Nebraska politics is peculiar at this time and profably it is not too much to ask our present governor to show his colors. If Mr. Ald rich is a republican he should come out with it, so we know how he stands. If the governor is going to oppose the tickel nominated by the regular republican convention at Chicago, he should state so. I am only one of the many who wish to know. We want to know if we are going to vote for a republican for governor of some one who belongs to a new party not even now he comes to this city to help as yet named. Some of us are from Missouri. ing forces with the other six governors to defeat President Taft, but we ought to forgive him if he will just work for tile interest of the party nominating him. The nature to forget what has been going of in the past, provided things are made right. If the governor wants to go back to office he had better come across and republicans in Nebraska are not al Roosevelt crazy, but yet of a forgiving let bygones be bygones.

SPEAR SEEKS TO GET GIRL FROM RESCUE HOME

Joseph Spear, a business man from somewhere in Nebraska, started a habeas corpus proceeding in county court yesterday to obtain release from the Home of the Good Shepherd of Miss Lulu M. Dubry, a 20-year-old girl. Judge Bryce Crawford issued a writ, upon service of which the authorities at the nome permitted the girl to go into court. Hearing was set for Thursday. The nome probably will not contest the case. According to F. W. Fitch, attorney for Spear and the girl, she is in love and will be married shortly. Neither Fitch nor Spear would name the girl's ftance and the girl refused to talk. When asked if he himself would marry her Spear smiled and refused to say he would not. Spear's petition alleges that the girl 's being kept in the home against her will and unless the court orders her release she will continue to be kept there doing sewing for certain factories.
