OMAHA. July 2, 1912. The most radical change in feeling took place in the wheat market today, and the bearish sentiment carried values lower. The change was due entirely to the change was due entirely to the change was due entirely to the change in weather and crop conditions all over the northwest. Some heavy rains were reported and scattered showers, with more moisture predicted, relieved the crop deterioration scare, and the dumping of long wheat on the market was followed by heavy short sales. In corn as well as wheat there was decided weakness and a decline in prices from opening to close took place. Cash corn at primary points showed heaviness and prices declined. CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS Features of the Trading and Closing

Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Sentiment turned overwhelmingly bearish today regarding wheat. The basis was the general rainfall covering the spring crop country last night and this morning. The decline extended to each of the other pits, corn fusishing &c to 46% down, oats corn finishing %c to 46%c down, oats off %c to 1%c and provisions less costly by 2%c to 10c.

All talk of crop shortage northwest had

All talk of crop shortage northwest had to stop for the time being as a result of moisture in the Dakotas and Minnesota. Besides, there were predictions of further showers in the same section tonight. Longs unloaded freely. Considerable short selling was done until the market became to result with the heat. began to react owing to fear that the har-vesting and the crop movement southwest would be delayed by wet weather.

Prospect of a big increase in the world's available supply helped also to rally prices to some extent. During the day September fluctuated between $1.03 and $1.04% with the close $1.03%, a loss of %6%c. compared with twenty-four hours before Corn weakened in consequence of the ine weather and the meagerness of ash demand, as well as because of the setback to wheat. September ranged from 76% to 71%671%c, closing steady One under last night at Tive. No. yellow was quoted at 756764c. Heavy liquidation in July formed the chief feature in the oats trade. Opera-tors reported increased offerings from the country. September swung between 38%c and 35%c with last sales %c net ower at 384c.

A heavy increase in the world stock of lard counted against provision prices. As an outcome of the day's transactions. nearly all deliveries were cut 714c to 10c

Profit Taking Later Wipes Ou Gains, but Strong Undertone is Maintained to End of the Session. NEW YORK, July 2-Stocks made further upward progress today, the early movement having more snap and breadth than any of recent days. A very con-siderable part of the trading was in the industrials, United States Steel resuming its old time leadership at a smart ad-

Other shares that participated prominently in the rise were the local trac-tions which reflected the more favorable phase of the subway situation, brooklyn Rapid Transit rising to its best price in some years. Shares of the electrical and equipment companies also figured impor-tantly, but tobacco stocks were inclined to react after their phenomenal raise of the last few weeks.
As the session wore on standard shares participated in the general rise, with gains most marked in Reading. Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohlo and Missouri Pacific. Profit taking later wiped most of the advances and business came to a standstill, but the market's strong undertone was maintained up to the last hour, when some heaviness followed the news from Balti-more. The close was irregular. A local feature of interest was the heavy gain of the local banks, resulting largely from payment to the govern-ment incident to the close of the fiscal year. It exceeds $13,000,000 and probably will increase despite reports from the in-terior. There was no appreciable change of rates for time money. Total sales Bonds were irregular. Total sales were $2,475,000. United States government bonds were unchanged on call. Number of sales and leading quotations

It Looked Like a Crowd. Big Bill Roberts, who holds the traffic post at the corner of Dey and Broadway, saw a taxicab approaching the other day, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. Inside were two men, quarreling violently. As the cab came to a halt, in obedience to Big Wil-liam's semaphoring, Mr. Roberts observed that both gentlemen were preceptibly pickled. They looked and acted as if they had been running the Demon Rum into holes for a couple of days and then prodding him out again. "Hey," said Po-liceman Roberts, "what's the matter here?"

The largest of the two gentlemen preserved his dignity. "Nossin's marrer, offisher," he explained, laboriously. "On'y zish cab's too crowded. Some of us gotter Policeman Roberts thrust his head

Policeman Roberts thrust his head through the open window and looked them over. Then he expressed his surprise. "Why," said he, "there are only two of you in there."

The dignified gentleman looked at him fixedly for a moment. Then he, with some difficulty, withdrew his glazed gaze from the officer's eye and carefully looked about the interior of the cab. "Ish zhat right, offisher?" he asked, plaintively. about the interior of the cab. "Ish zhat right, offisher?" he asked, plaintively. Policeman Roberts assured him on the sacred honor of one of Commissioner Waldo's most fixed posts that he had told the truth. "On'l two of ush here, hun?" said the dignified person. "Well, zen, the driver can drive on. But it looks like more."

A Warning. A prominent woman lawyer of Boston said recently at a fashionable club lunch that the divorce ring which western women have inaugurated is vulgar. "It is vulgar," she said, "because it is an advertisement of the fact that the an advertisement of the fact that the wearer is a divorced woman."

Sipping her black demi-tasse Miss Acton added, reflectively:
"I may be wrong, though, in condemning the divorce ring—it perhaps serves some very good purpose. The number of our divorces is really alarming. We seem to be approaching that state which prevailed in old Roman times when divorce was so frequent that on the tomb of an undivorced woman was inscribed:

"Here lies a good wife, who had but one husband."

BRYAN ONCE FAVORED CLARK

Sensation Caused by Speaker's Supporters Who Display Banner.

BRYAN EXPLAINS THE WORDS Admits He Endorsed the Speaker Endorsed the Speaker Warmly Two Years Ago-Principle

By EDGAR C. SNYDER. BALTIMORE, Md., July 1 .- (Special) Telegram.)-"I have known Champ Clark for eighteen years. He is absolutely incorruptible and his life is above reproach. Neither in all these years have I known him to be on but one side of a question and that the side representing the people."-W. J. Bryan, 1910. It was near the close of the thirtythird ballot when the above quotation upon a banner ten feet long was suddenly brought into the convention hall. It was displayed at the head of the Missouri delegation first, carried by two stalwart men, and then they turned it around so that the delegates in all sections might read the legend and then to the galleries as well. Cheers went up from the Clark contingent, hurrahs for the delegates voting for the speaker, and shouts from the galleries, whose sympathy had been for the gentleman from Pike county, Missouri.

Balked by Nebraska,

Encouraged by the reception, two men bearing the words which Bryan uttered in 1910 started down the main aisle of the convention hall, hoping to create a stampede to Clark. But they were stopped in their adventure when the Nebraska delegation was reached. Matt Miller interposed an objection, but Matt was pushed off his feet. /

C. J. Smyth was next met, and he showed fight after he had read the inscription. He tackled the man who held the forward end of the banner and it looked as if there would be a mixup. Felix McShane also butted into the mixup and it looked as if a free-for-all fight was imminent. The banner did not get beyond Nebraska's line.

Started an Uproar. I need not speak of the confusion that the display of the banner created. Two camps vitally antagonistic, striving for supremacy, did not hesitate to show their appreciation or their contempt for the legend. But the banner was flaunted in the face of Colonel Bryan as he sat on the end chair, where George Loomis usually sits as chairman of the delegation, and he squirmed as he read the words. Then Colonel Bryan rose to a question of personal privilege and Senator-elect Ollie James, permanent chairman, recognized the "peerless leader" from Nebraska. Bryan was accorded an ovation as he moved from his seat on the floor to the platform. He stated the question of personal privilege and began to talk about the inscription on the banner. But James was obdurate. He could not see how Bryan was affected and ruled against him. It was the first fight Bryan had lost since he was defeated for the temporary chairmanship.

Bryan's Version of Affair. Now I want Mr. Bryan to tell the story and the reasons for his attempt to get before the convention. He says:

"When they came down the aisle with past, but they stopped. It at once created congestion and I told one of the carriers to take it back. He refused to do so. "I then told him that if he did not take it away I would go to the platform and reply to it. "When I reached the platform there was so much confusion that I could not be heard. I went to the Missouri delegation to ask the chairman if the banner had been brought into the hall by their authority. The chairman was not there. I went back to the platform and asked privilege. "I called upon others of the delegation. and asked them whether the banner was their creation, but no one answered the question.

recognition for a question of personal

"Then Senator Reed of Missouri objected to my question of personal privliege on the ground that it was not privileged.

Disclaimed by Dockery. "As I passed by the Missouri delegation

Governor Dockery assured me that they were not responsible for the banner. "You know we were not responsible for it,' he said. "The sentence quoted was taken from speech in behalf of Clark two years ago, and I have not withdrawn anything I then said. My contention is that Clark's failure to take the progressive position in the chairmanship fight weakened his strength and Tammany's support of his candidacy, coupled with his willingness to accept the same, would, in my judgment, jeopardize his success if nominated. I believe more in the success of the progressive cause than in the nomination of any particular candidate." Party Ranks Riven.

"The friendships of years have been broken in this convention," said Matt Miller of David City tonight, as the vote for Woodrow Wilson was climbing over the 500 mark and yet 200 shy of a nomination. "No man can tell what the outcome of expectations and its results will be felt in every hamlet in the land." You can't go forty ballots without engendering hatred that will last through years, and that is what the democratic this contest will be. It has exceeded all
