MURDER MYSTERY SOLVED

Convicts at Fort Madison Tell Who Shot Edward Gressor.

DEATH DUE TO WALTER SCOTT

Man Who Killed Woman and Himself Now Said to Have Shot Farmer Seven Years Ago.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, July 3.—(Special Telegram.)—The mystery of the murder of Edward Gressor near this city has been cleared up since the death of Walter Scott last week and it is now regarded in police circles that Scott was the murderer. Gressor, a farmer, was found dead south of the city seven years ago, having been shot by someone from a distance. Now two of Walter Scott's pals, Frank Hart and Hugh O'Donnell, both in prison at Fort Madison, unite in saying that Gressor was killed by Scott for money, and that Scott told them about it. They claim they had never told the story while Scott was alive for fear of him. He had killed Morris Shea, a saloon keeper, a some years ago. Last week he killed a woman and then himself.

Local democrats have called a meeting to arrange for a celebration in honor of Wilson's nomination and have sent urgent invitations to Bryan to be present. They expect to have a state-wide meeting here

Absorbs Offensive Perspiration!

"Absorbitt" Keeps Every Stitch Dry

"Oh, glory! Perspiration troubles me no more! No more sticky stockings—no more wilted collars—no more soaking wet spots at the armpits! 'Absorbitt' has stopped all that. I can wear any weight clothing now—in any weather—in any indoor atmosphere. I can mingle with the crowds without being conspicuous—in street cars, theater, at the dance, anywhere."

Fight Over Justice's Fees. Polk county will lay claim to about $6,000 due from justices of the peace as the result of investigation made of unpaid fees chiefly by two of the justices. One of them is now on the city council. The county discovered that large sums in fees had never been turned over.

ANDREW RESIGNS FROM TREASURY

tion has been similar. Although I have supposedly been the representative of the secretary in his dealings with nineteen different bureaus and divisions of the treasury, I have not been allowed in the aggregate a total of more than one hour's conversation with him, including private interviews and conferences in the presence of others, during the entire last year. Meanwhile I have sent him hundreds of letters and memoranda, asking a decision in regard to matters urgently pending. On very rare occasions I have received a reply within a short time; in a few cases the reply has come only after the lapse of a month; in many cases only after a lapse of several months. (When not infrequently the matters had already settled themselves); but in the majority of cases I have received no reply at all. Yet, like the other officials mentioned, who have refused any opportunity for personal conferences, I have been promptly criticised for any decision made or action taken.

Department is Demoralized.

"The conduct of business in a department under such conditions is, of course, impossible. The energetic young men whom Mr. MacVeagh was wise enough to select as heads of various divisions have been hampered and discouraged at every turn by his idiosyncrasies, his astounding capacity for procrastination, his incapacity for decision and the peculiar moods of suspicion and aversion to which he is constantly subject."

"There has never been a time since I have been in the treasury when he has not labored under the delusion that some of those who were working loyally and conscientiously for him were in a cabal conspiring against him. This has led him to treat some of his most efficient aides with harsh ingratitude and with a lack of consideration that was little short of brutal."

Mentions Other Officers.

"My experience in these matters is only the familiar experience of the majority of treasury officials. Mr. McClung, the treasurer of the United States in April of the present year, found the delays, indecision, distrust and complaints of Mr. MacVeagh so intolerable that he brought the matter to Mr. Hill's attention in the hope that you might offer some method of relief. Mr. Ralph, the director of the bureau of engraving and printing, and Mr. Murray, the comptroller of the currency, have on several occasions with difficulty been dissuaded from an intention to resign, due to no other reason other than their lamentably unsatisfactory relations with Mr. MacVeagh. I am told the same is true of Mr. Cabell, the commissioner of internal revenue."

"For the foregoing reasons, whereby the transaction of all business pertaining to my office has become practically impossible, I beg with infinite regret to place my resignation as assistant relations with Mr. MacVeagh. I am in his letter to Secretary MacVeagh the assistant secretary plainly tells his chief his reasons for resigning. He says in part:

"Your disposition, methods and point of view are such as to render impossible any real co-operation or any satisfactory transaction of the government's business. Until recently I have continued to hope of the treasury in your hands."

Resignation Was Requested. The White House today made public a statement written by President Taft:

"Mr. Andrew's resignation as assistant secretary of the treasury was requested, submitted and accepted in view of his failure to obey orders given him by the secretary."

House Proposes Investigation. A congressional investigation of Secretary MacVeagh's administration in the Treasury department is impending as the result of a row of long standing between the secretary and one of his assistant secretaries, A. Platt Andrew, which culminated today in Andrew's resignation.

Wall Street Much Surprised. NEW YORK, July 3.—Wall street was taken completely by surprise at the announcement of the resignation of Assistant Secretary Andrew.

I write shorthand. I have written it for forty years. I taught myself how when I was 15 years old. Wilson Congratulates Marshall. The governor today sent the following telegram to Governor Marshall:

"Sincere congratulations. I shall look forward with pleasure to my association with you. The governor also gave out the following statement: 'Governor Marshall bears the highest reputation both as an executive and as a democrat and I feel honored by having him as a running mate. He is, I am happy to say, a valued personal friend of mine as well as a fellow democrat.' Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, wired: 'Permit me to extend my hearty congratulations. Your nomination means a great democratic victory.' William J. Connors of Buffalo wired: 'A splendid fight won the right way. I congratulate you and the democratic party upon your nomination.' Perry Belmont: 'My sincerest congratulations. Under your leadership a progressive democratic party will triumph over the president and his predecessor.

Old classmates from near and far sent messages of good will. Some were bubbling with enthusiasm. 'Hooray,' wired one ecstatic follower. 'School has begun, and thus endeth the first lesson.'
