Cole Company is in Need of Much Larger Quarters in Omaha

C. J. Corkhill, western factory sales manager for the Cole Motor Car company, and E. E. Butler, the local branch manager, returned yesterday from Indianapolis where they were in conference with President J. J. Cole, General Sales Manager Charles P. Henderson and other officials of the Cole Motor Car company. They are back in Omaha with enthusiasm bursting out all over them and it is predicted that big dolars for the Cole in the middle west are to be put under way at once.

The first thing that will be done by Mr. Corkhill will be to travel among the Cole agents in the middle west and become acquainted with them and their needs. He will see that the service attention is the best. Mr. Butler will get busy on getting a new home for the Cole in Omaha. At present they are housed at 1102-1104 Farnam street. "But," Mr. Butler explained, "we cannot remain there. We have got to get a bigger place and one where we can give service."

Banquet Stories Put Upon an Omaha Man

There were few out of town politicians as much in demand as Victor Rosewater, chairman of the republican national committee and editor of the Omaha Bee, said last Sunday's Chicago Tribune in the story-telling column. Among the dozens of banquet stories he told the following may be cited:

"My friend," Mr. Rosewater said, addressing the toastmaster, "if you had heard what the toastmaster said to me last evening you would never call on me. When it reached my turn he said, 'Victor, are you ready to make your speech now or shall I let these happy people enjoy themselves a little while longer?'"

Not satisfied with this story for a speech he was asked for a real story. He said: "So much has been said about the republican convention, and the men in it I have little to say. Whenever I think of the game of politics and how men should act when playing the game, I like to think of the story Mayor McClellan told after he had been elected mayor of New York. After the election some of his friends grasped him by the hand and exclaimed, 'Heartiest congratulations.'"

"Thank you," answered the mayor, "because I know, boys, you never did anything to help elect me." His audience insisted on getting a story about the steam roller, Mr. Rosewater said:

"The other evening when the Roosevelt followers met at Orchestra hall, one of your most prominent lawyers got into the hall by wearing a policeman's star. A colored delegate from Arkansas chanced to be sitting next to the lawyer and said, 'Who are you?' 'I'm a policeman,' came the reply. 'I don't see what you are doing here,' remarked the delegate. 'I don't think we shall need policemen.' 'The lawyer then took his turn and asked the colored man, 'Who are you?' 'Quickly came his answer, 'I was a steam roller, but you see I was pushed out of the other convention into this.'"

SCHOOL AND WATER CONNECTIONS PROMISED

Members of Creighton's First Addition Improvement club met Friday night and R. Beecher Howell, water commissioner, and Dr. E. Holovtchiner, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee of the Board of Education, promised schools and water connection for Creighton's First addition. The promises, the speakers said, would be fulfilled as conditions warranted, the school being erected first to relieve the children who have to walk a long distance to the Windsor and South Omaha schools. W. T. Bourke, secretary of the Board of Education, and C. J.

Anderson, former member of the legislature, also spoke. The next meeting will be held in two weeks.

Expansion Follows Satisfaction

TEN YEARS of making good at a fair price forces the expansion of the Marion Motor Car Company. We built our first cars well. We built better cars each succeeding year. Now we have plans for the greatest Marion of all. Marion age, Marion quality and Marion reputation have combined to make up an increased production. We recently announced our plans. They are nearing completion. Numerous men of national prominence as producers are now with us. Factory facilities are broadened. We are ready to make the greatest Marion of all. To buy because of low price is unwise. To pay more than necessary is to yield to pride. The Marion is the medium. It is a good car at a fair price. It performs constantly and economically year after year. It doesn't have to be "traded in." Ten year old Marions are doing valiant duty today. This year's models all have the Marion sturdiness and efficiency of old, but they also have every refinement and improvement automobile engineers have produced since. In other words, the MARION is a good car, a time-proven car, a modern car. It is sold at a price that suits the man or woman who demands a genuinely good and serviceable automobile in exchange for the exact amount of cash it is worth. Send us a wire, letter or postal asking for our literature, or see the nearest Marion dealer.

COLE 122-inch Wheel Base $1,885 Cole Horse Sense and Cole Horse Power. It is one thing to develop certain horse power in a motor. It is quite another thing to apply that horse power to the rear or driving wheel. If it doesn't get there it might as well be on the moon as in your motor. The unit power plant of the Cole is exactly what those three words mean—a one-piece power plant. The motor, clutch and transmission are enclosed in an aluminum case, balanced on three points. This protects your power plant from the jolts and wrenching of rough roads and eliminates faulty alignments. The driving shaft goes straight to the rear axle—no power is lost in needless universal joints. The rear axle is the Timken full floating. The generated power of the motor reaches the rear wheels, with practically no friction loss. Self-starter, dynamo electric lighting system—the sort used on a Pullman sleeper, demountable rims, Bosch magneto. This indicates the sort of equipment used. It is merely good horse sense to build and sell you an automobile which will not only please you this year, but next year as well. Honestly, you can not buy as good a car or as handsome a car at anywhere near the Cole price—$1,885. Believe us. Come and see The Cole—the more you know about automobiles the more enthusiastic you will become over the Cole. COLE MOTOR COMPANY Telephone Douglas 3811 1102-04 Farnam St., Omaha, Neb. C. J.
