hand, packers were a little slow about taking hold and they started out bidding no better than steady prices and they succeeded in getting quite a good many hogs on that basis. Still the demand was good and they were forced in some cases to raise their hands a little, so that it would be safe to quote fair to good pack-ing hogs as steady to 5c higher than yesterday. Rough packing hogs and old packing sows, even of pretty fair qual-ity, were very hard to move even at bot-tom prices. The trade on light and butcher hogs was active, and while not so active on the packing hogs, there was still a fair movement and everything sold in good season.
