(Continued from First Page.) campaign, but it will be hotter after November 5. was the signal for a demonstration that lasted nearly twenty minutes. That portion of the platform referring to President Taft reads as follows: "We here utter solemn protest against what has been done at Chicago and Baltimore in two national conventions, and against what has been done and is being done at Washington by a president who has proven recreant to the trust imposed in him, and who long ago definitely and completely abandoned the cause of the people to go to the bidding of the bosses." Frank Randall was temporary chairman.

Aunt Sally's Advice to Beauty Seekers

K. C. F. asks: "Will you tell me how to get my hands white and soft? They have become rough and are so dark in contrast to my arms. The method mentioned in reply to Elsie will bring the desired results; wear gloves to prevent soiling the bed linen. D. N. A. writes: "How can I reduce a double chin? Also how get rid of crow's feet? Use a wash lotion prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered axolite in 1/2 pt. witch hazel. This tightens the skin, tending to disperse wrinkles as well as flabbiness about the chin or elsewhere. Elsie says: "My freckles are worse than ever this year, made doubly conspicuous by a pallid complexion. Is there any cure? Ask your druggist for an ounce of mercuric wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing in the morning with warm water. As the wax gradually absorbs the lifeless cuticle, not only will the freckles vanish, but the new and younger skin which appears will have a healthy color. Probably you will need to continue treatment a week or more." Woman's Realm.

NAME McDONALD CHAIRMAN

Republican Committee Chooses Kearney Man to Open Convention.

UNANIMOUS VOICE ELECTS HIM

Experience on Executive Committee Qualifies Him and Faithful Work Entitles Him to Honor.

N. P. McDonald of Kearney will be recommended for temporary chairman of the republican state convention at Lincoln July 30 by the executive committee of the republican state central committee. McDonald was chosen by unanimous vote at a meeting of the executive committee at the republican state headquarters at the Millard hotel Tuesday night. The executive committee members present were A. W. Jeffers of the Second district, Jesse C. McNish of the Third, N. P. McDonald of the Sixth and J. L. Kennedy, chairman.

Edgar Ferneau of the First district was not present and was not represented by proxy, although Chairman Kennedy said Ferneau had said that he favored McDonald for chairman. M. W. Demery held the proxy of Anton Dredla of the Fourth district. C. W. McDonough of the Fifth district was not present and had no proxy. The committee had not heard from him as to his choice for temporary chairman.

Kennedy Praises McDonald. Chairman Kennedy of the state committee said after the meeting: "We decided upon Mr. McDonald because we knew he has had experience as a member of the executive committee during the last year in handling the problems that necessarily arise, and it was largely due to his faithful work in the committee that we won the glorious victory in the state last year. We believe he is the best man for the temporary chairmanship. What we want is harmony, and if there should be a rupture in the party the executive committee does not expect to be responsible for it." Mr. McDonald said: "I appreciate the responsibility that has been placed upon me in this choice and I realize that the party is facing a crisis. I shall expect to use good judgment and proceed deliberately. The state is republican. If we are united we will have no difficulty in carrying the state and nation. If I act as chairman I shall see to it that all interests of the party are treated fairly and that no faction of the party will be given an unfair advantage while I am acting as temporary chairman."

A. W. Jeffers said: "During the last campaign Mr. McDonald as a member of the executive committee had much to do with the inside management of that campaign that brought him to face with questions that required careful consideration and brought him into conferences with those who looked upon questions of the party welfare from different standpoints, and he managed so well that the state was carried by the republicans by a magnificent majority." Clyde Barnard of Table Rock was chosen temporary secretary of the convention. Mr. Barnard was secretary of the state committee three years ago, and has had similar experience as clerk of the house of representatives in the legislature.

FIGHT AT BULL MOOSE MEET

Committee of seven to select a county committee was named as follows: John O. Yeiser, Harry Hackett, E. A. Benson, W. J. Broatch, W. T. Graham, E. E. Kimbrey and Dr. W. O. Henry. C. D. Hutchison, E. M. Seyfert, Byrd Miller, L. J. Healey and Dr. W. H. Mick were appointed to report on delegates, the list of which had been prepared. Shanahan Asks Hearing. It was following the report of the committee appointed to recommend the order of business and while the list of delegates was being read that Shanahan insisted on being heard. "This is a mass convention and I came here at the invitation of the man who called this meeting," he said, "and therefore have a right to be heard." "Sit down! Sit down!" yelled several men. Dr. Young ran up to Shanahan and told him to sit down. Shanahan paid no heed to the request and Young shoved him. In an instant half a dozen men sprang upon Young and he was beaten back to the foot of the stage. Others joined and the house was in an uproar. A. H. Bigelow was reported to have been injured in the fight in one corner of the room and several others, fighting on their own account, were knocked to the floor. An attempt was made to turn out the lights, but each light was guarded and the attempts resulted in a fight under each light. Yeiser attempted to quell the riot, but failing, called for a session of the delegates on the next floor, but few followed him out for none had heard the names. In the rush for the door Yeiser lost his hat. Shanahan secured comparative quiet and announced that he nor any of his men were responsible for the fight. "What you have seen here is not our work," he said, "and we are in no way responsible for it. We came here as republicans to take part in a meeting to which all republicans had been invited. We have a right to be heard, but that right has been refused us." After Yeiser's departure the meeting was orderly and adjournment had been taken when two policemen entered the room. They made no arrests.

MASS MEETING ORGANIZES

As soon as Yeiser had withdrawn and quiet was restored there were calls for Shanahan and he took the platform, disclaimed responsibility for the disorder and suggested that the meeting, which in the call was designated a "mass meeting of republicans," proceed with its business in an orderly manner. Shanahan was named temporary chairman and M. J. Greedy temporary secretary and upon motion they were unanimously named permanent officers of the meeting.

Chairman Shanahan then read the call of the regular republican convention and the list of delegates named by it. Several simultaneous motions were made to approve the list as named, and instruct for President Taft. The motion carried without a dissenting vote. An attempt was made to prevent the reading of resolutions endorsing the county central committee and approving the delegates as named. Two or three men began to turn out the lights. The stage lights were doused and Shanahan and Greedy came down to the convention floor. The disturbers were put out of the hall and the resolutions read and adopted without protest and Shanahan declared adjournment.

YEISER DELEGATES

Following is the list of delegates prepared by Colonel Yeiser and declared selected by the mass meeting before Chairman Henry left the platform:

- Anderson, J. A. Hutton, J. H. Barker, P. F. Healey, L. H. Byers, C. E. Hutchinson, C. D. Brady, T. E. Hall, Stacy M. Barker, George E. Hazen, George Beebe, Walter Hackett, Harry Benson, E. A. Henry, W. O. Blackwell, W. S. Hyppes, G. N. Broatch, W. J. Irwin, O. W. Best, F. C. Johnson, R. W. Burbank, E. G. Knudsen, Jacob Cray, W. H. Kerr, J. Fred Caramella, Bart Klingenberg, G. L. E. Clariden, Alvin E. Crow, Joseph Keyes, J. L. Denney, C. D. Lillery, Alex. Detweiler, J. O. Logasa, M. Dickinson, C. T. DeYoung, G. R. Edwards, R. F. McAllister, H. S. Flaide, Ezra McDonald, James Genau, H. H. Martin, Frank A. Goss, C. A. Miller, E. F. Gure, L. V. Mancuso, Sam Trouton, John Mick, W. H. Thorson, N. T. Merriam, Nathan Thorson, A. C. McCulloch, Bruce Thomas, B. F. Neeley, H. P. Truesdale, Blaine Nason, A. W. Van Ness, Ralph Olmstead, R. H. Williams, G. R. Patterson, D. C. Westberg, John Finland, E. T. Westfield, E. H. Palmer, John E. Yeiser, John O. Pierce, A. S. Zimmerman, E. E. Rait, J. E. Dickerson, John E. Rogers, Frank S. Jerpe, J. P. Claggs, Ben Johnson, C. O. W. Seybert, E. M. Pratt, C. O. Richardson, James Sandall, G. A. Simeral, E. W. Serlino, R. Quick, Martin

After the convention Colonel Yeiser declared that "he had fooled the men" who had come to his meeting prepared to present President Taft's cause. He told gleefully of the narrow escape of some of the participants. A small party, among whom were Henry Genau and G. L. C. Klingebiel, gathered at his office to discuss the outcome of the meeting and were apparently not displeased that a riot had been started by the refusal of the chair to recognize any republican who was not pledged to the support of the ex-president.

In discussing the outcome, Yeiser said his hope rested on the fact that the republican convention at Lincoln on Tuesday will be largely pro-Roosevelt and will be inclined to take his delegation in place of the delegation named at the regular convention last week. He admitted that all details of the meeting, even to the selection of the delegates, had been carefully attended to in advance, so that the routine could be pushed through without interruption. Nor does he claim that the list of names selected by him represent other than a faction of the party in Douglas county. He relies on his hope that the state convention will be so narrowly partisan as to unseat the regularly chosen delegation in Yeiser's "rump" selection.

Mr. Bigelow, discussing the assault made on him, said that he had gone simply as "an onlooker and didn't care much what was done." Somebody, he said, told him to turn out the light and he reached for the chain, when somebody sprang at him and began to fight "in about a minute thirty-five or forty were after me," he concluded.

IOWA DEMOCRATS

Fight for Place

CEBAR RAPIDS, Ia., July 24.—Cheered by predictions of success at the polls in November, Iowa democrats are assembling here in large numbers for the state convention which will be called to order in the city auditorium at 11 o'clock tomorrow forenoon. Practically complete delegations will be present from nearly every county in the state. The business of the convention will be to nominate supreme court judges, adopt a platform and plan the state campaign. Harmony will be the watchword of the convention, leaders stated today. V. R. McGinnis of Leona, will be temporary chairman. His address will sound the keynote and give strong endorsement to the national democratic candidates and progressive principles. S. C. Huber of Tama county will undoubtedly be made permanent chairman, according to hotel lobby gossip. Candidates for the supreme judgeship have been announced numerously, no less than ten aspirants being in the field. O'Connor of Fort Dodge, Reed of Des Moines, Theophilus of Ankeny, Sager of Waverly, Wilson of Greenfield and Redmond of Cedar Rapids, are the leading candidates.

Much interest centers in the probable makeup of the new state central committee. Both Chairman Reed and Secretary Dalton are opposed for re-election. Their friends claim they will be victorious. Persistent Advertising is the Road to Big Returns.

IOWANS PLAN REPRISALS

Seek to Get Bill Giving Rail Commissioners More Power.

NO SPECIAL FAIR RATES

Railroads Refuse to Make Concessions in Two-Cent Fare States, Hence Agitation to Secure More Power.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Ia., July 24.—(Special Telegram)—A bill to give the state railway commissioners the same power in regulating passenger rates that they now exercise in the regulation of freight tariffs, will be fostered during the next session of the Iowa legislature by commercial organizations of Des Moines, Sioux City, Waterloo and other Iowa cities. The movement is the result of the recent refusal of the Western Passenger association to grant requests for special passenger rates by the Iowa state fair and other fairs.

Scott Nominated in Eleventh Iowa

LEMARS, Ia., July 24.—George C. Scott, a Sioux City lawyer and politician, today was nominated by the republican congressional convention of the Eleventh district, to fill out the unexpired term of the late E. H. Hubbard, and for the full term which will begin March 4, 1913. Mr. Scott's nomination over State Senator Leslie Francis of Spirit Lake, his only opponent, was decisive. The only ballot was for the short term candidacy, Mr. Scott receiving seventy-five and a fraction, and Senator Francis, forty-five and a fraction. The nomination for the full term was by acclamation. Senator Francis was cheerful in defeat. He addressed the convention and pledged his support to Mr. Scott in the campaign.
