CHILD MARRIAGE IN INDIA

Evidence of Awakening to Evil of the Ancient Institution.

STRONG INFLUENCE AGAINST IT

Examples of Economic and Social Loss that Follows the Practice and Statements of a Leading Hindu.

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

A California lady, Mrs. Caroline Wallace, has spent many years in India hoping to awaken the minds of the people there to the evils of child marriage.

At first the efforts seemed almost hopeless, for only a few of the educated and progressive men were interested in her ideas; but with the assistance of another American, Miss Carrie Tennant, she kept on in her work.

Every year the movement has grown; and in a letter just received Mrs. Wallace says: "All India is waking up to all the modern ideas of progress. Every time one of India's great men, its educated, rich and powerful men, speaks on these subjects, it makes a profound impression on the masses."

India has the foolish custom of many other Oriental countries, of spending much money on ceremonies supposed to better the condition of dead ancestors. And it uses extravagant sums in marriage ceremonies for its girls; girls of five or ten years of age oftentimes. Children of that age do not usually live with their husbands; but the expense of the wedding is no less because of that. Girls of ten frequently do become actual wives, however, and actual mothers at twelve and thirteen.

And the infants born of these early marriages are weakly, and many die early; and that is why India has degenerated as a nation in the last few centuries.

The evils which are entailed by these child marriages are to innumerable to mention. Only education can do away with the custom, which originated with the Mohammedan invasion of India, and which was not sanctioned by their own religions, yet has been allowed to exist in spite of them. Here is one story of an early marriage in India which can be duplicated by the hundred thousand. The young bridegroom is referred to as "A."

A is the oldest son of his father, who worked in a merchant's office at Calcutta on a monthly salary of 50 rupees, and lived in a rented house at Kallighat. A passed the entrance examination in the first division and got a scholarship. He was admitted into the Presidency College and went on very well.

One day his father's mother urged on his father to get him married, as she must see the face of her grand-daughter-in-law before her final departure for Benares. A's mother also joined in the prayer. A's father at last agreed, and A was married to a girl of 10 while he was only 15 years of age, and got a handsome dowry. Within a year of the marriage, when the wife was 11, she gave birth to a daughter, and at the age of 13 she was mother of three children.

The parents of a wife are expected to bestow handsome presents on the parents of the husband; and this wife received insults and coldness and disagreeable treatment because her parents were not able to do this. And the young husband failed in his examinations through his home worries, and lost his health before. Nevertheless, his bigoted grandmother urged the early marriage of his brother and a similar condition followed. Hal Sahadur Chandra Ghose, one of India's brilliant men, raised these stories in a lecture, and continued as follows: "It is indeed the highest folly to marry before you are competent to take care of yourself and family. Economically speaking, early marriage is a great blunder, for as soon as you get married you take many great responsibilities on your shoulders. With the Hindu the burden is heavier, as he is generally a member of the joint family. To an outsider it may seem just otherwise, but that is not so. By marrying you create certain necessities which had no existence before.

upon the family and the early-married youth, compelled to seek means for supplementing the income of the family. In our country there is hardly any occupation for a half educated youth in the technical or industrial sphere. He has no money to start with on a trading venture. Consequently he must have to secure a post in some office on a poor monthly pittance.

"Thus you see how our young men are taken away from their books so early and compelled to hug the trammels of service. There, in the dark cell of his office--the grave of his aspirations--fearfully overworked, the young enthusiast is doomed to pass the rest of his days in endless misery and gloom."

Only a few years ago no man in India would have dared make such a speech and so defy and accuse tradition. There is hope for India now its thinking men are awake, and a few of its women. All will awaken in time.

Corn is Catching Up With Itself Again

"There is no portion of South Dakota or Minnesota that has not had seasonable showers and an abundance of rain during the past month," says General Manager Watters of the Northwestern, who just returned from an extensive trip. "The result has been that crops have pushed ahead as never before. One of the biggest crops of small grain ever harvested, has been secured and now corn, pushed by moisture and warm weather is growing as it never grew before. It has fully reached the normal condition for this time of year and now it looks as if a bumper crop is certain. The pastures and the meadows are fresh and green, looking much like they did in May. Fruit trees are loaded with fruit of all kinds and everywhere the apple crop indicates that it is going to be the heaviest in years. Potatoes and all kinds of vegetables are abundant everywhere and the quality is as good as I have ever seen.

"The conditions noted do not apply to any one section, but are general the country over."

ALTERATIONS ARE BEING MADE AT BROWNELL HALL.

The board of trustees will spend $5,000 in preparing the building for the coming season. Contracts were let this week by C. C. George, a member of the board, for the outside repair work. The school will be ready for the opening in the fall.

JUNE LIVE STOCK MOVEMENT

Receipts at Western Markets Show Further Declines.

CATTLE SCARCER THAN EVER

Fewer Hogs and Sheep Sent to Market Than in June of 1911, but the Stocks of Meat Are Heavier.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The aggregate live stock receipts during June, 1912, at thirteen western markets show a decline when compared with the receipts a year ago, according to reports received at the bureau of statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor. In this comparison Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, St. Joseph, St. Paul, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville and Wichita show a decline, while Sioux City, Denver and Fort Worth show an increase in the receipts of live stock. Each of the classes of live stock which comprise this aggregate, namely, cattle and calves, hogs, sheep and horses and mules, shows a decline in June, 1912, when compared with 1911. The live stock receipts for the first six months of the present year, however, show a slight increase when compared with the receipts during the same period a year ago. The aggregate increase at these markets was more than 4 per cent over the first six months of 1911 and about 22 per cent over the same period in 1910.

Cattle and Calves. The aggregate receipts of cattle and calves show a decided decline in June, 1912, when compared with the receipts in June, 1911 and 1910. The thirteen markets reporting show an aggregate of 192,292 head of calves and cattle in June, 1912, as compared with 249,777 head in June, 1911, and 279,889 head in June, 1910, a decline of 17 per cent and 19 per cent, respectively. Cincinnati, Denver, Fort Worth and Louisville report increased receipts in June, 1912, over 1911, while each of the other markets reports a decline. The receipts of cattle and calves during the first six months of 1912 at the thirteen markets were slightly less than during the same period in 1911 and 1910, namely, 4,948,519 head in 1912, as compared with 5,217,000 head in 1911 and 5,644,677 head in 1910, a decrease of 5 per cent and 6 per cent, respectively. Cincinnati, Denver, Fort Worth, Indianapolis, Louisville and Wichita show increased receipts.

Hogs. The hog receipts at the thirteen markets were 17 per cent less in June, 1912, than a year ago, but 8 per cent greater than in June, 1910. They were 2,129,377 head in 1912, 2,567,296 head in 1911 and 1,975,296 head in 1910. Increases are shown in the June receipts of hogs at Omaha, St. Paul, Sioux City and Louisville, and decreases at the other nine markets. The receipts of hogs for the first six months of the present year at the thirteen markets were 7 1/2 per cent greater than for the corresponding period in 1911, and 39 per cent greater than in 1910, the six months' receipts being 14,438,009 head in 1912, 13,438,306 head in 1911 and 10,406,671 head in 1910. Eight of the thirteen markets show an increase during the six months' period, the exceptions being Kansas City, St. Louis, Fort Worth, Indianapolis and Wichita.

Sheep. The aggregate sheep during June at the thirteen markets were 1,030,701 head in 1912, as compared with 1,222,175 head in June, 1911, and 937,498 head in 1910, the sheep receipts having increased at St. Joseph, Fort Worth and Wichita, and declined at each of the other ten markets. The receipts of sheep during the six months' period of 1912 show an increase of nearly 7 per cent over the corresponding period in 1911, and of 3 1/2 per cent over 1910. All the markets show an increase of sheep receipts during the six months' period when compared with the corresponding period of the previous year, except Kansas City, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Denver and Louisville.

Horses and Mules. The receipts of horses and mules at the twelve interior markets show a decline in June and during the first six months of the present year, when compared with the corresponding period in 1911. They were greater, however, than during the corresponding period in 1910. The total receipts were 36,309 head in June and 294,947 head during the first six months of 1912.

Live Stock at Atlantic Ports. The total receipts of food live stock at the four leading seaport cities of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore were 907,861 head in 1912, 921,805 head in 1911 and 819,754 head in 1910. The aggregate receipts at these four cities during the first six months of the year were 4,784,231 head in 1912, 4,432,679 head during the same period in 1911, and 3,885,300 head in 1910.

Packing House Products. The packing house products shipped from Chicago in June, 1912, amounted to 158,074,300 pounds, a material decrease when compared with the June shipments in 1911, 214,992,900 pounds, and in 1910, 174,830,550 pounds. The total shipments for the first six months of 1912, 907,628,775 pounds, were also less than the year before, but slightly more than during the corresponding period in 1910.

The stocks of meat on hand at the five principal markets in June, 1912, 51,124,606 pounds, were greater than in June, 1911 or 1910.

being only 18,346 head, as compared with 41,131 head in June, 1911. The most marked decline was in the exports of cattle, which were only about one-tenth the number reported in June, 1911, the exports being 2,580 head in June, 1912, and 25,172 head in June, 1911. The exports of hogs and sheep were also less than a year ago. The exports of food live stock during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, 281,807 head were slightly greater, however, than during the preceding year, 280,143 head, due to larger shipments of hogs and sheep. The cattle shipments during the fiscal year just closed, which show a decline, were 105,506 head in 1912 and 150,100 head during the preceding fiscal year.

Exports of Meat Products. The total value of meat products exported during June, 1912, $9,309,547, was considerably less than in June, 1911, namely, $13,734,558. The value of the meat exports during the fiscal year ending June 30, was $151,997,617 in 1912, and $146,105,921 in 1911, an increase of 4 per cent.

MIKE'S SOCIALIST DADDY KEEPS HIM OUT OF ARMY

Mike Booker of Hamburg, Ia., does not like the socialists because his father is one and will not give Mike his consent to join the army. Mike is only 17 years old and when the recruiting officers at the local station refused to take him without the consent of his father, Mike said: "Dad is one of these socialists and they don't love the army. He would never give his consent. But say, can't you fix me out for 21 years old? I've got $4 left and I could spend that to get into the army." The recruiting officers refused to be bribed to raise his age on the application sheet and he left with a sad heart. Mike said his father was J. W. Booker of Ballytown, Tenn. When the recruiting officers refused to be bribed Mike explained that he only had $4 left because he had given 50 cents to every blind man and crippled pencil salesman he had met on the street since he came to Omaha. "I figured on having a little time in Omaha before I left," he said, "but I have given my money to these fellows until I only have $4 left."

KIMBALL COUNTY HAS BIG YIELD OF WHEAT

Kimball county has prospects of the finest crop this year that it has known for years, according to Ralph Brown of Kimball. "The spring wheat there, according to the opinion of experts," says Mr. Brown, "will run between ten and twenty-five bushels to the acre. That is extraordinary for that section of the country, and especially for spring wheat."

An Engineer Will Succeed Misener

City Commissioner Withnell, head of the Department of Fire Protection and Water Supply, will appoint an engineer to the position of building inspector, left vacant by the sudden death of W. T. Misener last night. Mr. Withnell will himself inspect buildings, the engineer simply passing on the construction methods employed by contractors. The commissioner has decided on this course because there are so many concrete buildings being constructed, the safety of which cannot be determined except by an engineer, says the commissioner.

HER HANDS AND ARMS MADE MARVELOUSLY BEAUTIFUL IN A SINGLE NIGHT

FREE PRESCRIPTION DID IT

Grace Benson says: "Had anyone told me such wonderful results could be accomplished so quickly, I positively could not have believed it. My arms and hands were covered with freckles; my neck and dark and wrinkled from the use of high collars; my hands were rained and the knuckles red. All these defects were removed by one application of a free prescription, which I am pleased to give to anyone. It's just as simple as it is effective. Go to any drug store and get an empty two-ounce bottle and a one-ounce bottle of KuluX Compound. Pour the entire bottle of KuluX into the two-ounce bottle, add one-quarter ounce of witch hazel and fill with water. Prepare this prescription at your own home, then you know you are getting it right. Apply night and morning. It makes the skin soft and beautiful, no matter how rough and ugly your hands and arms are. One application will astonish you. I have given this prescription to thousands of women and they are all just as enthusiastic as I am. Try it on your neck and shoulders and you will be agreeably surprised."

To Overcome Sunburn, Tan, Freckles, Wrinkles

(From Outdoor Life.) If you are freckled, tanned or sunburnt, dab a liberal amount of mercurized wax on the face and allow it to remain overnight. When you wash off the wax in the morning, fine, flakey, almost invisible particles of cuticle come with it. Repeating this daily, the entire outer skin is absorbed, but so gradually, there's not the slightest hurt or inconvenience. Even the stubborn freckles yield to this treatment. The underlying skin which forms the new complexion is so fresh and youthful-looking you'll marvel at the transformation. It's the only thing I know to actually discard an aged, faded, muddy or blechy complexion. It is also good for arms, hands and neck. One ounce of mercurized wax, procurable at any drug store, is sufficient in most cases. If sun and wind make you squint and frown, you're bound to cultivate wrinkles and crow's feet. To overcome these, dab the face in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel.
