"Ted" Meredith (top), Melvin Sheppard (left) and Ira Davenport, who finished first, second and third, respectively, in one of the greatest races, if not the greatest in athletic history. Each of them broke the former world's record for the event. Meredith, the Mercersburg academy boy, made the time of one minute 51 9-10 seconds, while Sheppard and Davenport were both clocked at one minute, 52 seconds. The race proved conclusively that Sheppard has not lost any of his fleetness, for he improved upon his time at the London Olympiad in 1908, when he made the mark which for the last four years has stood as the world's record. It also proved Meredith to be one of the greatest middle distance runners of all time. This boy has a great future in store for him. It is expected that he will enter the University of Pennsylvania.
