

MISENER DIES ON STREET

City Building Inspector Drops Dead of Heart Failure.

DISPUTE WITH FRED SCHROEDER

Two Men Meet Several Times During Evening and Misenor Falls Trying to Deliver Blow of Fist.

Angered, following a quarrel he had with Fred Schroeder, former councilman from the seventh ward, Walter Misenor, city building inspector, attempted to strike Schroeder and dropped dead at Fifteenth and Howard streets last night at 10 o'clock. Heart failure was the cause of Misenor's death, according to police surgeons.

The two men met several times in the evening, during which they had taken drinks at the same bar. Schroeder resented slurring remarks made by Misenor by slapping the building inspector's face on two separate occasions.

About 9:30 o'clock Schroeder passed the Boquet hotel on Fifteenth street between Harney and Howard streets and again encountered Misenor.

Strikes at Schroeder. Walking up to him he extended his hand to Misenor and said, "Come on, let's go home. Wait, you know I am your friend. Let's forget all about this little trouble." Misenor apparently fell in with Schroeder's idea, and walked up to Howard street arm in arm. As the owner he turned upon Schroeder and struck at him with his right arm. Schroeder dodged and Misenor fell full length upon the sidewalk. When picked up he was dead.

W. A. James and James Donaldson of the Boquet hotel, and Victor Nelson, 1023 Pierce street, were eye-witnesses. All three gave the same version of the proceedings, which led to Misenor's death.

John E. Reagan, who was with Misenor and Schroeder shortly before the fatal moment, declares that Misenor had a weak heart and that he has been unable to secure insurance on that account. He also stated that during the time he was with the two men they were quarreling only in a friendly and good natured way.

Schroeder was released upon $5,000 bonds, furnished by Charles Fanning, coroner Crosby took charge of the body and will probably hold an inquest.

Lived Here Thirty-Two Years.

Walter T. Misenor was born in Niles, Mich., September 10, 1866. He was 46 years of age. Beside his wife, Sarah, he leaves a father, W. S. Misenor; a sister, Ada S. and a brother, John W., manager of the Crane company at Tacoma, Wash. Mr. Misenor has resided in the city of Omaha for the last thirty-two years, the last five of which he was the senior member of Misenor & Stockman, architects, until he resigned to become city building inspector, to which position he was appointed May 11, of this year.

Carver, juvenile officer, last evening on the charge of stealing a watch from Joe Gorofolo, 1215 Pacific street.

Kouma admitted stealing the watch. He gave it to Roy Davis, 12 years old, colored. It was found in Davis' possession last night. Young Kouma was released. He will probably be brought up before the juvenile court.

Bellevue College Plans to Have a New Gymnasium

A new gymnasium to cost in the neighborhood of $18,000 and a larger faculty for Bellevue college were some of the things decided upon yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the executive committee.

Bellevue college owns 350 lots in the village of Bellevue. They have been placed on sale by G. G. Wallace of Omaha. From the sales it is expected to raise enough money to build and fit up the gymnasium, the plans for which are drawn. The gymnasium is to be two stories high, 100 feet long and about sixty feet wide. A marble swimming pool and men's and women's departments are to be the principal features.

In the list of new members of the faculty is included Rev. Alexander Corley, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Wayne. He has been offered the chair of Greek, and although he has not yet accepted, it is believed that he will. Other new members will be Prof. Vernon C. Harrington, head of the English department; Prof. Julian M. Gist, head of the Latin department; Paul Evans, professor of chemistry and physics and Miss Sarah Bailey, domestic science. Miss Luella Carter, formerly head of the German department has returned from a year in Germany and will resume teaching.

Shippers Refuse to Pay and Road Sues

Refusal of shippers in Omaha and Nebraska to pay demurrage to the Burlington railroad and to pay rates established by the Interstate Commerce commission has caused the company to start several law suits. The sums involved will aggregate $10,000. In other states similar actions are to be commenced.

Explaining the situation, Duncan M. Vinsonhaller, who filed the suits, said: "These cases have been accumulating for a long time. The shippers have not paid demurrage in many cases, holding the demurrage charges to be unreasonable. The roads have not pressed the shippers for payment, the amounts being trivial in comparison with the total volume of business. In other cases the contracting freight agents have given rates which later were found to have been lower than those fixed by the commission. The shippers have stood on the rates first given by the agents and have refused to pay the rates fixed by the commission."

The most important suit filed so far is against the C. W. Hull company for $387.23. The petition enumerates 308 separate causes of action, each a specific instance of nonpayment of demurrage, or fixed rates.

Other defendants and the amounts for which they are sued are: Allen Bros. company, $44.68; Nebraska Bridge Supply and Lumber company, $11.91; Omaha Broom factory, $33.01; H. F. Cady Lumber company, $281.62; C. J. Shea Roofing company, $7.

Army Men Talk to Boys' Aero Club

The Boys' Aero club of the Young Men's Christian association held its regular meeting Friday evening. The boys were expecting a talk from Major Carl F. Hartman of Fort Omaha, but on account of the illness of his wife he was unable to come. He sent in his stead Lieutenants C. F. Leonard and Karl Truesdell. Lieutenant Leonard is an aeronautical expert at Fort Omaha and Lieutenant Truesdell recently made a long distance flight in a balloon during the school of aviation. Lieutenant Leonard spoke of his experiences in aviation and showed the boys a number of pictures. Lieutenant Truesdell spoke of the future of balloon navigation. He showed a series of pictures of Omaha and vicinity taken high in the air while on a balloon trip.

The next meet is to be held August 3 at 5:30 p. m. at the parade ground at Fort Omaha. The club decided to buy a small engine to place in a club model, hoping thereby to break all model records. A special meeting is called for next Friday night, August 3, to lay definite plans.

BURGLAR ALARM CALLS TO LIBRARY BOARD SESSION

Ding-a-ling went the bell at the police station connected with the burglar alarm at the city library last night. In quicker time than it takes to tell the emergency wagon was standing outside the library and four officers of the law and also Joe Hill had surrounded the building, because the entire upper floor was ablaze with light, which streamed forth into the night from every window.

Quietly opening the front door, the officers, headed by Hill, crept up the stairs to the top floor prepared to rush in upon the thieves and capture them red-handed.

Despondent because she was unable to earn enough money to support herself and 3-year-old baby, Mrs. Bessie Davenport, chambermaid at the Star hotel, Thirteenth and Leavenworth streets, attempted to commit suicide last evening at 6 o'clock by taking bichloride of mercury tablets. Police Surgeon Vanderhoff succeeded in saving the woman's life. Mrs. Davenport came to Omaha several months ago from O'Neill, where she left her small son with friends. Her meager salary was not sufficient to provide a decent living for herself and baby. Worry over this prompted her to attempt to take her life.

ALDEN MAKES A STATEMENT

Financial Secretary of University of Omaha Tells of Redick Deal.

NO MORTGAGE TO BE FORECLOSED

All Property Purchased from the Redicks is Held Free of Any Incumbrance.

Redick to foreclose a mortgage on the property of the University of Omaha, and the statement from Mr. Redick regarding the matter, quoted in the evening papers, C. A. Alden, financial secretary of the university said last night: "Speaking for myself alone, I will say that we would agree with Mr. Redick that it is desirable to reach an amicable statement of the matter. Later there were negotiations with Mr. Redick concerning certain lots, but these negotiations were never pushed to a conclusion."

Army Council Ends Two Weeks' Sessions

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The army council, called by Secretary Stimson to determine the needs of the army, completed its two weeks of sessions today.

Secretary Stimson expressed himself as gratified with the condition of the army, which reviewed the condition of the army and formulated suggestions for bettering the service. The secretary asserted that through executive and army orders, steps would be taken to inaugurate such of the reforms suggested as can be initiated without congressional action.

Following the recommendations of a majority of the officers of the council the army will be divided into three complete divisions and will be so assigned to posts throughout the country that each division may be readily mobilized as a complete fighting unit with the proper proportions of each branch of the service.

Several subjects, among them the length of term of service, the creation of a standing reserve and other matters calling for legislation will be brought to the attention of congress and changes in the law recommended, probably next winter.

WOODMEN DRILL FOR MEDALS

Three Companies Before the Judges and Five More to Come.

INDIVIDUAL DRILLS TO FOLLOW

Hundreds of Men Take Part in the Exercises Being Held Daily at Krug Park, Near Benson.

Three of the eight companies of the uniform rank, Woodmen of the World, that are to take part in the company competitive drill, were drilled yesterday afternoon at the camp in Krug park. The other five companies will drill this afternoon. The companies that drilled yesterday were: L of the First regiment, South Omaha; F of the Twenty-seventh, Sigourney, Ia.; M of the First regiment, Benson. The Benson company got the greatest amount of applause and the most favorable comment was heard after the drill concerning the remarkable uniform team work of this organization.

The companies that are to compete this afternoon are: C of the First regiment, Omaha; C of the Seventy-seventh, Lincoln; A of the Eleventh, Sioux City; B of the First, Omaha; L of the Eleventh, Council Bluffs.

The judges for the entire schedule of competitive drills are: Major George F. French and Lieutenant Clarence H. Farnham, both of the Fourth infantry, regular army, Fort Crook, and Lieutenant Lynn of Fort Omaha. No winners, of course, can be announced until all the companies entering have drilled, as the judges are taking points scored by the various competing companies.

Individual Drills Follow. The individual competitive drills will follow immediately after the company drills have been completed. The competitive work begins at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and lasts until 5 o'clock. Six gold medals await the winners in the various competitive events. The medals were designed by Colonel C. L. Mather of Benson, who is in command of the camp. They differ slightly in details, but each is a shield with a base-relief stump, surmounted by a neat pair of crossed axes. "The boys are crazy about these medals," said Colonel Mather.

The hospital tent and equipment has already served a good purpose. Some of the boys of Company L of the First regiment of South Omaha indulged in the usual camp sport of tossing members of the company in a blanket yesterday morning. They dropped Edward Heavey of their company to the ground accidentally and broke his nose. Dr. J. W. Parsons of Benson, in charge of the hospital, dressed the injured member. Other records of the hospital show a mashed finger for Harry Cary, Company F, Twenty-seventh regiment, Sigourney, Ia., and a mashed thumb for Loyd Eroman of the same company from Sigourney, Ia. Brigadier General John W. Geiger from Cedar Rapids, Ia., in command of the Third brigade, Department of the East, made his official call at the camp yesterday. Today Major General John T. Yates, commander of the Department of the East, will make his official call, probably accompanied by his staff.

Summer Foods Often Cause Dyspepsia

Their Effect on the Digestive Organs Responsible for Many of the Season's Ills.

Summer should be the period of perfect health, but impure water and milk, unripe fruit, and the tendency to indulge in acid foods and iced drinks, produces a contrary condition in many people. The effect of the average summer diet is to constipate even normally regular bowels, and this results in disarranging the entire digestive system. When the bowels are choked with the stomach's refuse, indigestion is almost sure to follow, and the waste matter that should pass out through the bowels, not finding passage, ferments in the stomach and the poisons are forced into the blood, causing much distress and often serious illness. To keep the bowels free, there is no more effective remedy than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a pleasant-tasting bowel stimulant and laxative tonic that is very gentle in its action, bringing relief in an easy, natural manner, and without discomfort. A spoonful of Syrup Pepsin will quickly check summer diarrhoea by cleansing the bowels and removing the foreign matter that irritates and inflames the tissue. It is sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle; a large family size, considerably more than twice the quantity, costs a dollar. If you have never used Syrup Pepsin and would like a free trial bottle, postpaid, write to Dr. W. H. Caldwell, 406 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.
