COUNCIL KICKS ON BOND FEE

Members Say They Will Pay But Half the Charge Made.

WILL NOT HELP PAY FOR SEWER

More Telephones Placed in City Hall—Charges Against Morrison Dismissed—Other Petitions Brought In.

Six city commissioners unanimously agreed at a meeting Thursday that they would pay bonding companies not more than $250 per $1,000 for official bonds. Bills for these bonds at $5 per $1,000 have been held up in the department of finances and accounts and bonding houses will be notified that the commissioners will refuse to pay more than $250.

Commissioner Butler said he had investigated in other "commission form cities" and $250 per $1,000 was the average price. This was also the price here under the Aldermanic system. Commissioners have given official bonds in the sum of $5,000 each.

Commissioner Butler objected to paying J. H. Christiansen, an electrical inspector, out of the electrical fund, saying he had been compelled to let out two men during the month because economy demanded it and that he would have to be shown that Christiansen's services were needed. An opinion from the legal department stated that such payment was sanctioned by law.

City Council Notes.

Corporation Counsel Baker gave it as his opinion that the city was unable to pay part cost of a sewer built by the Paxton estate, which was purely a private undertaking.

Request of firemen and engineers for an eight-hour day was referred to the department of public affairs.

Another petition was received relative to the establishment of a moving picture theater at Twenty-fourth and Davenport, this one coming from property holders, who said they had no objection to the theater.

T. R. Schreier, secretary of the League of American Municipalities, invited the council to send representatives to the league's meeting in Buffalo. The invitation was placed on file.

City Purchasing Agent Grotte was authorized to have two more trunk telephone lines connected with the central department at the city hall.

Charges against Ed Morrison, former police officer, were dismissed and the city clerk instructed to notify S. B. Dighton, who brought the charges. Morrison has resigned.

The council decided to transact business that comes before it as a board of fire and police commissioners after ordinances on third reading have been discussed.

Farmers Are Not Rushing Grain to Market This Year

Delay of the harvesting season and the postponement of shipping by the farmers has caused a drop in the grain receipts at the Omaha market. While shipments began to arrive the first of July a year ago, this year the market did not become active until July 15. A break in the price of wheat also made the farmers timid this year with the result that the receipts for July were 2,000,000 bushels as compared to 4,000,000 bushels a year ago.

What sold on the local market today around 6 cents and 6 1/2 cents a bushel.
