TIMELY REAL ESTATE GOSSIP

Alterations Being Made in Connecting Murray to Paxton Hotel.

Special Organisation Holds Optiona on Several Choice Lots and Probably Will Decide on One Soon for the Building.

Probably within a few days the an nouncement of the location for the new Labor Temple will be made. It is said several options on lots in choice locations about the city have been secured and a provisional organization of Omaha labor men is now trying to decide on the best place.

The new building will be three stories in height and 100 or 150 feet square. The officers who will have charge of finding the site and the construction of the building are W. A. Chrisman, secretary-treasurer of Nebraska Federation of Labor, president; J. W. Light of the barbers, vice president; David Coots of the stonemasons, secretary; C. I. Shamp, general secretary of the stationary firemen, treasurer.

The new building will be made entirely modern throughout. Arrangements are now being made to pay for it by the laboring men in installments through a period of years. A plan will be devised whereby the money may be raised for the annual installments.

Carpenters and interior decorators are now working in the old Murray hotel to make it a part of the Paxton and the largest hostelry in the city. The office and lobby already have begun to lose their identity and take on that of storerooms. ---ere will be six stores in the first floor of the Murray ilding, one of which already has been leased to the Jetter Brewing company for a bar. The first floor will not be connected be joined by bridge promenades over the alley connecting each floor of the old pleted merely proof that this man could Murray with the floors of the Paxion afford to build something beyond the Murray with the floors of the Paxton. The contract for this work has just been award

The kitchen and dining room of the Murray have been closed since the property went to Ralph and Richard Kitchen. New furniture for the old Murray has been ordered and probably will be ready by the time the bridges connecting the two buildings have been put in place.

Home building continues to increase through the summer. During the week a great many lots were bought by persons who intend to build homes.

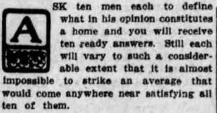

Dundee grows in popularity every day and many home builders are seeking sites about the various parks and on the boulevards.

S. J. Weish, the wholesale coal dealer, a few days ago .ought a lot in Virginia Place, south of Hanscom park on the oulevard, on which he will start the erection of a home. The lot is 50x127 feet and cost him $1,500. The purchase was made from E. C. Sutton through the Glover Realty syndicate.

What Constitutes a Home? By Arthur C. Clausen

To a young man home is a cozy little cottage surrounded by shrubbery and flowers with but few rooms, most of the modern conveniences, but everything suggestive of the simple, sentimental home life.

To an older man it is a home containing attractions for children, such as a play room or nursery, sometimes a gymnasium, a little study room on the second floor and sometimes a breakfast room. To the man of means with grown sons and daughters having social ambitions it is a home with all arrangements for entertainment on an elaborate scale with many rooms for guests, a ball room, music room, drawing room and all of the things which go with a strenuous social

To still another man it is an immense marble palace built with little regard for the home-like atmosphere, elegant in with the hotel. The upper floors will all its details representing an enormous expenditure of money and when commeans of his wealthy rivals.

To the fifth man it means a home the mission style.

To the sixth man it means a home in the colonial style.

To the seventh a home in the English domestice style.

To the eighth a hillside home modeled after the Swiss chalet.

To the ninth a plain two-story, square frame house and to the tenth a bungalow.

quarters are sometimes from the main living apartments. In the northern states and throughout Canada this would be impractical. In the southwestern states seismatic disturbances teach that the one story home is the most practical, hence the picturesque California bungalow. But in New York City where property is valuable, a lot sometimes costing several times the cost of the house built upon it, they build homes looking more like buildings three and sometimes four stories, in height not including the base ment and sometimes the sub-basement built beneath the surface with a roof garden on top-cliff dwellers we call them in the west.

The modern tendency is toward more simple homes with fewer rooms, better building materials and surrounded by more spacious ground.

When a home is so large or so elaborate that its upkeep becomes a burden, the true home spirit is lost. While the average architect is always willing to plan palatial homes and seldom discour ages their erection, owing to the enrichment of his pocketbook, from this source when building his own home it is a noticeable fact that it is always built along simple lines and that full partner ship is made with nature in enhancing by God's handiwork the beauty wrought by man.

A simple home in good taste is beyond criticism; regardless of its size, and never goes out of style.

Interstate Veterans' Reunion Off for Year

The first annual reunion of the Interstate Veteran association has been called off for this year for several reasons chief among which is the inability of General Grenville M. Dodge to attend, owing to his having been ordered to Hot Springs for his health.

The association was formed and comprised of civil war veterans of the states of Iowa and Nebraska. The time set for the reunion was August 13, but Mr. Wallace of the Council Bluffs Commercial club has been out of town and could not get out the notices. The date for the reunion was then changed until August 26, and the camping ground chosen was Lake Manawa. The camp was to be named Grenville M. Dodge and the general promised to be present. But the street carnival at Council Bluffs necessitated the calling off of the reunion until the first week in September, but as Manawa closes the last of August the undertaking was abandoned until next year.

The Kewanee Garbage Burner is the key to clean, healthy homes. If every residence, in every flat and apartment building in this city had one of these garbage burners in it the percentage of disease and misery would be decreased more than half. Rats and mice and disease vermin would be driven from the residential sections to spots where they can do no harm. The percentage of infant mortality would be reduced wonderfully-the percentage of tuberculosis would be cut in two-the atmosphere would be as pure as is possible in a great city and the health authorities would have mighty little work to do.

The Kewanee Garbage Burner isn't a great, big, unwieldy affair. It is a compact steel chamber of medium size and it will fit comfortably in the smallest basement. It not only burns the garbage, meat scraps and debris but all this matter is turned into fuel and heats the water in the hot-water tank. This reduces your fuel cost from 30 to 40 per cent. It burns fresh garbage while it is wet-burns it without a particle of odor. And the burner will outlast your building. It is economy and health and cleanliness. Why should any man hesitate to put it in ?

The cost is not great. Write for the garbage burner pamphlet. It gives information and illustrations. It will open your eyes as to the possibilities of a city that has been in the grip of garbage collectors.

Charles E. Williamson received word this week of the death of Judge Firestone, one of the large eastern owners of Omaha property and a pioneer citizen of Ohio. Judge Firestone was a notable lawyer and banker of his state.

He was owner of several additions about Omaha, principally in the north part of Omaha. He was owner of the Firestone subdivision and the Charlesew Heights and was represented in Omaha for many years by the Charles E. Williamson company

Judge Firestone was an officer in the civil war and was one of the 40,000 who went to Mexico under Phil Sheridan after the war.

The Commercial Club Journal a week ago made the same complaint against the istom of withholding the actual consideration in realty sales from the records as was volced in The Bee April 28.

Omaha could receive some excellent advertising if property owners and property buyers did not insist upon keeping secret sales of lots and houses. Each one, however, seems to have some excuse for it, although most are nonsensically trivial. Probably some day Omaha or Nebraska will follow in the footsteps of other cities and states and make publicity imperative.
