DONAHUE SUCCUMBS AFTER A PROLONGED AND HEROIC BATTLE

that the secret of his success was that he had the good will of every man under him. Every one on the force was willing and ready to do and dare for him.

John J. Donahue was born on September 15, 1857, on a farm near Iowa City. The farm was owned and cultivated by his father, who came to this section of the country when redskins were his next door neighbors.

In 1884 the lure of the brass buttons and the policeman's "billy" overcame him and he was appointed patrolman on the small Creston force.

It was at Creston that Donahue first sprang into prominence during the big Burlington strike in 1888, when the switchmen and engineers tied up the road.

On November 2, 1898, Donahue was appointed captain of police under Chief Martin White. While held the following year after a brief illness, and Donahue was appointed chief of police November 13, 1899.

During his regime Chief Donahue handled several large strikes and gained the highest esteem of everyone with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Donahue was married to Anna Fitzgerald in Iowa City in 1888. To them were born three children, who are still living. They are Frank J., John J., Jr., and Mrs. Joseph Brothoff, all of whom live in Omaha.

A general air of depression was felt at the police station when the news of the chief's death was received. All the officers, to a man, heard with sorrow that their chief had passed to the great beyond and would no longer be able to fight for their rights.

Mayor James C. Dahlman.—The death of Chief Donahue is a great loss to the community. I had known him for many years and always found him a careful, efficient official, level-headed and cool.

Wappich Eulogizes Chief. Chief Donahue stood at the head of all the chiefs of police of the country," said William F. Wappich, member of the last board of fire and police commissioners.

"In dealing with strikes he was always a man of judicial mind, hearing both sides of the cases and bringing his results without partiality.

"I have known Chief Donahue for twenty years. I knew him as a patrolman and came in still closer contact with him after I was elected a member of the board of police commissioners, and in all that time he displayed his efficiency, his kindness and good judgment.

William J. Hunter, chairman of the last board of fire and police commissioners, was deeply touched by the announcement of Chief Donahue's death.

DROP RIDER FROM ARMY BILL

Conference Committee Strikes Out Section Aimed at Wood.

PRESIDENT WINS HIS POINT

Taft Let It Be Known that the Bill Would Be Voted Again if the Provision is Again Left In.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Under virtual notice from President Taft that he would again veto the army appropriation bill if it contained any "riders" affecting the tenure of office of General Wood, chief of staff, the house and senate conferees today struck from the bill a contemplated provision to that effect and presented a report free from the features upon which the president based his first veto.

The provision of the house for a five-year enlistment was modified to provide for a seven-year term, four years of which shall be active service and three years' reserve. All the army posts would be retained as they now exist. The house receded in its attempt to reduce the cavalry strength to five regiments.
