GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET Duluth

Neither Side of Wheat is Desirous of Pressing Market Hard.

Cash Demand for Oats is of Liberal Proportions, with Further Export Business Recorded

Each Day.

OMAHA, Aug. 22, 1912.

Neither side of the wheat trade appears willing to press the market very hard. The shorts cover quickly on any show of firmness because of the strong cash wheat situation. There is no accumulation of grain in the public elevators here and there is an absence of hedging sales such as usually give the trade a load to carry at this time of the year. Buyers are very timid because they fear a further drop in cash prices in the northwest as soon as the big spring wheat movement really starts. The northwestern millers claim flour sales recently at terminal and interior mills are equal to 5,000,000 bushels of wheat. The weather map favors harvesting, threshing and marketing and these conditions may act as a check on buying operations. Grain men see nothing to cause any particular change in prices at the present time, but they consider the undertone firm, notwithstanding the local bearish sentiment which prevails. Cash wheat was ½c higher.

Traders in corn are puzzled by the wide difference between cash prices and the leading futures closed as follows:

The market was regarded as oversold, this condition being evidenced to many traders, by the unusually stimulating influences of moderate buying which moved wheat figures speedily up. Crop demy. The cash demand was weak and export business was at a standstill. Cash sales totalled only 25,000 bushels.

At the close prices were about ½c thigher at 93% c. December closed ½c up at 3% c.

Insistent demand for September corn and the cash article gave strength to the market. September le higher at 72½c. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 12½c. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 12½c. %c beneath the high point.

Demand for provisions was good, January closing from a shade to 12½c higher and ribs, $10.92½c 2½c to 55 higher.

Traders in corn are puzzled by the wide difference between cash prices and the new crop futures. The situation is making many bear leaders consider seriously whether there will be any active marketing of the new crop for December immediately following such fancy prices for old corn. So long as the present strength is noted in all cash markets, there will be a cautious feeling on the selling side of the late months if the hig crop matures without accident, the market may present altogether a difmarket may present altogether a dif-ferent appearance. Reports on the crop are very conflicting. Cash corn ic to 2c higher.

HOGS—Good hogs ruled steady to strong and in some instances 5c higher during the first rounds, with packers and ship pers filling orders early. Shippers, as their requirements were small soon bought what suited them and then quit. There was apparently a falling off in the shipping demand, but good mixed and heavy kinds are beginning to meet with a better reception than for saveral weeks back Notwithstanding all this, salesmen had some difficulty in getting Cattle Receipts Light, with Prices Showing Little Change.

Slowing Little Change. pared with yesterday's market. Some choice light hogs were picked up by a packer buyer at $8.35, high price for the day and a nickel above yesterday's best price. Receipts were about 700 head short Receipts were about 700 head short of the supply a week ago, but around 1.000 head more than for the corresponding time a year ago. It was generally ad-mitted that quality was very fair for this season of the year and there was some improvement over yesterday's of-ferings. Most of the holdings were dis-posed of in good season. SHEEP AND LAMBS—Despite the face that the receipts of sheep and lambs on each day this week have been the largest since the opening of the range season, everything was cleaned up in pretty good shape. Another liberal supply appeared here today as, according to first estimates, eight-two loads or in the neighborhood of 70,500 head were reported in. This is about 9,800 head more than a week ago and around 9,000 more than on the corresponding day a year ago. It is the largest run for a Thursday since November 2, 1911.

Packers started out evidently quite able to take good care of the numerous offerings on hand and were not in any handicapped as on yesterday when the receipts were late in getting in. The strong tone to the market that existed in the trade since the beginning of the week, showed itself to better advantage this morning, the market opening in good season and quite a little of the stuff being sold during the first rounds. The first deals included two cars of fat lambs at $8.55 and some ewes at $8.75. Another small bunch of ewes brought $3.55. SHEEP AND LAMBS-Despite the face week, and of 10,000 head as compared with last week, and of 10,000 head as compared with a year ago.

There were no very good beef steers in the yards and nothing to really attract the attention of buyers. The feeling was that desirable killers would have been fully steady with trade reasonably active, but on the common to pretty decent kinds, such as were on sale, the market was still active and a good part of the liberal supply was taken out of first hands comparatively early in the foreign in the common to pretty decent kinds, such as were on sale, the market was apparent in the common to medium cows and heifers, especially on the stocker order, were in very active demand at prices that were strong as compared with yesterday. The fact is that the feeder buyers have been taking so many of the thin cows that they have forced the market on the common or grades upward. On the other hand the medium to pretty decent kinds and nothing to really attract the liberal supply was taken out of first hands comparatively early in the foreign on. Prices on lambs suitable for killers were anywhere from steady to possibly loc higher than yesterday. Very little different, if any, from yesterday's trade.

The volume of feeder trade was much less than on recent days, the market being slow and dull on that class of stuff. It is claimed by some that present prices on lambs, particularly, are too high when compared with the way fat sheep and

It is claimed by some that present prices on lambs, particularly, are too high when compared with the way fat sheep and lambs are selling this week. The demand continues strong and active, however, for feeding stuff and the number of outside buyers at the yards is increasing daily.
