MARTIN TALKS TO TEACHERS

Tells Them Man Who Molds Character Shapes Destiny of Nations.

HORSE JUDGING IS TAUGHT

At Noon Teachers Attending Institute Assemble at the Home Hotel, Where an Elegant Luncheon is Served Them.

Paul L. Martin, dean of the college of law of the Creighton university, delivered a lecture on "Service" before the Douglas County Teachers' Institute this morning at the high school building. "He who molds clay," say the speaker, "is not without honor, but the molder of character shapes the destiny of nations. Next to the home the school exerts more influence upon the child than any other agency and renders a corresponding degree of service. We may well boast of our modern architectural triumphs, our skyscrapers, our bridges, our canal, but these are merely for the day—tomorrow they are pushed aside in the march of progress by some new achievement in comparison with which they dwindle into insignificance."

Continuing on the subject of service, Dean Martin came down to the subject of the founding and permanent endowment of the Creighton university and referred to it as a wonderful service rendered by the Creightons here. He spoke of the merits of the school and of its relation to Omaha. He pointed out that the students annually spent $200,000 in Omaha. Of this he said the expenditure for shoes alone was $10,000; for suits and overcoats, $50,000; confections and tobacco, $10,000; laundry, $15,000; hats, caps and haberdashery, $30,000; books, stationery, instruments and apparatus, $30,000; drugs, jewelry, sporting goods, engraving, printing, catering, taxicabs, etc., $25,000; railroad fare, $25,000. He then said that a manufacturing establishment employing 1,000 men would be justly prized as a very valuable asset to the city, and an educational institution with 1,000 students is not to be ignored.

Horse Judging. H. J. Grasmich gave a demonstration in horse judging to the teachers. Horses were taken on the hill just south of the high school building where the teachers stood in the lines of five lines and took notes on the day's program.

Contractors Are Told to Continue on the 28th Avenue Main

Although Twenty-eighth avenue property holders will ask the courts for an injunction enjoining the Water board from laying the forty-eight-inch water main down that avenue, the board, through Water Commissioner Howell, has instructed its contractors to keep steadily at work on the big main.

Mr. Howell says the contractors probably will not be ready to begin work on Twenty-eighth avenue for three weeks and by that time the question ought to be settled.

Construction of the north half of the main will be started with a large force of men as soon as pipe arrives. The contractors are under $2,000 bonds to complete the work by December 1, a penalty of $50 a day being attached for each day the main remains uncompleted after that date.

Woman and Child Have Narrow Escape When Auto Hits Them

Mrs. M. E. Anhurst, 4036 North Thirtieth street, South Omaha, and her 1-year-old baby miraculously escaped serious injury and possible death when they were struck by an automobile driven by W. Broadrick at Sixteenth and Harney streets yesterday morning at 10:30. The accident was unavoidable on the part of Broadrick. The traffic officer motioned him to proceed, and as he started the machine Mrs. Anhurst, who was hidden from view by a large dray wagon, stepped directly in the path of the slowly moving car. Broadrick applied the emergency brakes, but did not succeed in stopping the car until it had struck and violently thrown Mrs. Anhurst and her baby, which she was carrying in her arms, to the pavement. With the exception of a few minor bruises neither was badly hurt.

Broadrick was arrested and released upon $100 bonds, which he furnished himself. He is a saloon keeper in South Omaha and a neighbor of Mrs. Anhurst.

SUGAR IS TAKING HURDLES

Fruits for Preserving are Now Down to Nominal Price.

CANNING SEASON OPENS SOON

Crabapples are Now Beginning to Go Up and California Pears are Ready to Take a Jump.

Sugar again has entered the hurdle races, this time to take the 10-cent jump. In the last week an advance of 10 cents was made and the commodity is now priced at nineteen pounds for $1.00.

As the same time grapes, tomatoes and peaches for the canning and preserving season are down to a nominal price. Grapes have dropped from 25 cents to 15 cents a basket, and Colorado and Utah peaches at 55 cents and 75 cents a crate will begin to arrive on the local market next week.

The canning factories will begin operation in a week or so and it is expected that tomatoes will be in good demand and the price will rise considerably. House-
