Omaha Girl Makes Sad Mistake.

An Omaha young woman, who arrived home yesterday morning after spending the summer in Europe, had a number of interesting experiences, some of which were very amusing, especially to her companions and relatives who were traveling with her.

Upon boarding the steamer, the young woman went directly to the writing room, and, seeing a well groomed young man with a yacht cap and a navy blue uniform, decided he must be the library steward. So she walked up to him and said "I want two two-cent stamps, please."

The young man simply glared at her, so she hastened away to the deck, where some one informed her that she had been talking to the English lord. The uniform was his yacht cap. The story soon spread among the first class passengers and the young woman was teased considerably. Alas, the young
