People cannot enjoy life and health with a mouthful of decayed or loose teeth. They are an important factor in the first process of digestion. Nine out of ten cases of chronic stomach trouble are due to improper mastication of the food.

Dental work, properly inserted in place of offending members is the only safe and permanent remedy.

Dr. Todd has patented and perfected teeth which are giving comfort and satisfaction to hundreds of patients whose names will be supplied to anyone. They are beautiful in appearance, have strength and durability, and resemble nature's own more closely than anything yet discovered by the dental fraternity.

PRESERVING FILES DIFFICULT

Old Newspapers Kept at Library Will Wear Out in a Few Years.

PROBLEM IS A PERPLEXING ONE

It Has Been Suggested That Papers for Files Be Printed on Special Paper, But This Would Be Impossible.

The most valuable volumes in the public library are the newspaper files—not the most valuable measured in dollars and cents if they were to be sold, but rather because impossible to replace if they should be destroyed. That is why the preservation of the files of local newspapers in the Omaha public library almost time, rough usage and disintegration is one of the perplexing problems confronting the library authorities.

"In ten or fifteen years our papers of thirty and even twenty years ago will be unfit for use," says Miss Edith Tobitt, librarian. "The significance of this lies in the fact that the daily newspapers are the chief source of Omaha history. It is to the Omaha newspapers that historians of the state and the general public go for data on local events. What is happening to our old files will be true with our papers of the future unless something is done to prevent it. The only files available for the public when these are gone, will be those in the Congressional library in Washington, D. C."

The Omaha library did not begin saving papers until it became public in 1871. So the early papers on file there are well preserved because they have been given by private individuals and have never been in general use. Among these old papers are the Omaha Arrow of 1844; Omaha Times, 1847; Omaha Nebraska, 1853; Omaha Weekly Bee, 1873.

Rapidly Going to Pieces. The papers of these years are still white and firm because they are not out for general use, but the papers used constantly by the public have almost gone to pieces. The oldest paper in use is a Bee of 1878. The paper is turning dark and is torn at the edges. All the files of the last twenty and thirty years are in the same condition.

H. A. Senter, head of the chemistry department in the high school, says that the light and dampness cause a chemical change in the paper which make it yellow and brittle. He says that the only way to save the papers is to keep them in a dark, dry place.

On a recent visit to eastern libraries Miss Tobitt discovered a librarian in Duquesne, Pa., who had solved the problem of preserving newspaper files for the future. He has induced the local papers to print one copy each day on a durable linen paper especially for library files.

Miss Tobitt discouraged. Miss Tobitt recently addressed inquiries to the publishers of Omaha dailies to ascertain whether it would be possible to have a special copy of each day's issue likewise printed for the library upon linen paper, but has not received much encouragement. One answer was that it was possible to do so, but only at an expense that would be prohibitive. The reason is because the method of printing the newspaper today on rapid-fire presses has superseded the old plan of taking flat impressions, one side at a time, by which alone a linen paper copy could be had, and in addition the constant and rapid changing of pages in a daily newspaper office would leave no opportunity to make a special print.

Chicken Show is to Have Entries from Thirty States

Two men appointed by the managers of the Omaha Chicken show to be held in the Auditorium during the Ak-Sar-Ben week, will be sent to the state fair at Indiana September 2 to 6, where they will advertise the Omaha Chicken show and will enlist entries. Two men have been working at the Iowa State fair in Des Moines during the last week and although they have not returned with a formal report it is understood they are meeting with success in getting promises of entries for the Omaha show. Two men will go to the Nebraska State fair at Lincoln this week to do the same kind of work there. It is expected that entries will be received from as many as thirty states.

A committee here is working on the premium list and expects to have it completed by the end of the week. Liberal premiums offers have been coming in from various manufacturers of chicken foods and others. Local business men have also been liberally contributing to the movement.

Fall Activities to Start Soon at Commercial Club

HEAVY POLICE COURT FINES SWELL THE SCHOOL FUND

The school fund was swelled to the extent of $3.90 by fines taken in last month in police court. This is an exceptionally large amount for one month, and was due to the many fines imposed upon proprietors and inmates of disorderly houses. The police pension fund received all the bonds forfeited, which amounted to a neat sum.

BURGLARS HAVE PENCHANT FOR WEARING APPAREL

Burglars Friday night entered the homes of J. H. Hill, 2404 Capitol avenue, and J. W. Wilkie, 111 North Thirty-first street. In both instances clothes were taken and from the nature of the robberies both were probably committed by the same persons. In the Hill home the property taken is valued at $13 and the Wilkie loot $23. In the latter place the thieves also took a watch.

Mrs. Norton believes that friendly rivalry for the possession of this flag will be active and that it will result in bringing the state membership up to the 1,000 mark. There are at present nineteen chapters in the state of Nebraska and 800 daughters, an increase of six chapters and nearly 200 members the last ten months.

LINCOLN TO STORM THE DEN

SAMSON IS LAYING FOR THEM

Towns Anxious to Have Special Nights Must Wait—All Dates Are Filled—Next Monday Omaha Night and Last.

Despite the fact that Monday is Lincoln day at the Nebraska state fair and also that it is the date set for the unveiling of the Lincoln monument and a few other ceremonies, more than 200 Lincolnites will abandon their lively home city to come to Omaha as candidates for initiation into the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben.

A committee of twenty has been working in the capital city to muster 300 recruits for his majesty, King Ak-Sar-Ben XVII, and according to recent reports there may be a greater number than they had anticipated. A special train will leave there at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon filled to the brim with Ak-Sar-Ben enthusiasts and arrive in Omaha in time for the big circus at the Den. A special committee will meet them at the depot and they will be taken in chartered cars to the scene of revelry.

Leading the aggregation will be Mayor Armstrong of Lincoln and the Lincoln city council. They are coming in one hilarious body. Along with them Governor Aldrich's staff in full uniform will be mustered out. Some Special Stunts. The board of governors of Ak-Sar-Ben has been preparing the celebration at the Den tomorrow night to be the biggest and best of the year. A number of sensational additions have been made to the circus and concert. It is said, and special equipment for seating and feeding has been installed at the Den.

As Lincoln night is next to the last night, the circus promoters are working up the performance so that there may be considerable momentum when the grand climax, a week away, comes. The last night at the Den, a week from tomorrow night, will be the greatest in the history of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben without a doubt. Preparations for it have been in the planning throughout the summer and it is expected something unusually surprising will be sprung.

At Krug park dancing and riding the dip-the-dips held highest favor with crowds last week. On account of excellent opportunity for dancing offered at this picturesque place, followers of this pastime are fairly taking the large hall's capacity. This extensive structure is built with steep inclines that accelerate fast moving cars and give passengers thrilling and enjoyable rides. Its popularity is evidenced by the enthusiasm of riders. Various other attractions that extend entertainment are the old red mill, penny arcade, billiard parlor and free moving pictures. Krug park will not close Labor day, but will continue open until cool weather puts a stop to summer pleasures.

Stamp Window to Be Closed Sunday. For the first time in forty-one years the stamp window at the Omaha post office will not be open today. Stamps will not be sold at the postoffice on Sundays hereafter. All deliveries by carriers will be discontinued on Sundays. The postoffice appropriation act for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, provides that hereafter postoffices of the first and second classes shall not be open on Sundays for the purpose of delivering mail to the general public, but this provision shall not prevent the prompt delivery of special delivery mail. This does not include special delivery mail, and a sufficient force of clerks will be on duty Sundays to handle the special delivery mail promptly. The change is expected to cut down the force required to handle the mail.

City Electrician Michaelson reports that electrical inspection work for the month of August was heaviest since he came into office nine years ago. Three inspectors made more than a thousand inspections, 264 permits being issued, and each permit requiring inspection of the work from two to six times. These permits cost the property owners $749.57. The usual revenue derived from issuance of permits does not exceed $600 and the average number of permits is about 150.

The greater number of the permits were issued to builders of small homes, less than half a dozen big contracts for electrical work being awarded during August. As usual the unions, who will march 3,000 strong in the morning, will hold their annual picnic at the beach. Governor Aldrich will speak at 8 o'clock in the evening. During the afternoon Mayor Dahlman and others will talk. There will also be a big athletic program in the afternoon. Valuable prizes will be given to the winners. ACTION AGAINST CHINESE DOCTOR AWAITS ANALYSIS

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 31.—Action by the district attorney leading to the prosecution of the Chinese physician who was giving Louis Potter, the sculptor, treatment for a dermal malady when he died in a cheap hotel here yesterday, rests with the coroner's office, it was announced tonight. After a day's investigation Prosecutor John F. Murphy said he believed a criminal charge of malpractice or practicing without a license could be brought, but that no formal action would be taken until he received definite word from the coroner to go ahead. Coroner J. C. Snyder said he was waiting for the chemical analysis of the stomach and of the blood before proceeding.
