

ELECTORAL MIXUP IN KANSAS IS PRESENTED TO COURT OF APPEALS

Right of Roosevelt Men to Hold Place on Ticket Argued Before Judge Sanborn in Denver.

MANY QUESTIONS FOR COURT

Can Names of Taft and Roosevelt Be on Same Ticket.

POSITION OF THE PLAINTIFFS

BULL MOOSERS ALLEGE FRAUD

Two Electors File Affidavits Saying That Taft Was Nominated by and They Cannot Support Him.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 2.—At the opening of the case of the Kansas Roosevelt electors seeking to hold their places on the ballot in the United States circuit court of appeals here today, Judge Sanborn of St. Paul announced he would hear the arguments, leaving to Judges John E. Garland of Washington and W. H. Minger of Omaha other cases to be considered.

The suit came before the court in a petition for an injunction against the Kansas secretary of state restraining him from placing the Roosevelt electors on the ballot in Kansas.

D. R. Hite, for the plaintiffs, argued that so long as the names of eight electors were obtained by irregular methods they had no right to be placed on the regular republican ballot.

John Dawson asked the court for an opinion as to whether the names of Roosevelt and Johnson and Taft and Sherman could be placed on the same ticket.

L. W. Kepling, representing the eight Roosevelt electors, read an affidavit by J. M. Dolley, chairman of the republican state committee, in which Dolley declared it was his belief that Taft and Sherman were nominated at Chicago by fraud and they were not the regular nominees of the party, that the Roosevelt faction represented the republican party of Kansas and the eight of the ten electors who declared for Roosevelt should be placed on the regular republican ticket.

Pat Crowe Shoulders the Curse of Drink

Pat Crowe was arrested last night at 9 o'clock by Motorcycle Policemen Emery and Wheeler, who charge him with vagrancy.

The famous old crook was intoxicated when brought to headquarters, but when he was shoved behind the bars he sobered quickly.

When asked concerning the anti-liquor pledge he had championed only a few months ago, Crowe turned his head and laughed. "Booze is the capital D in the word degradation. I drink it to save others from committing the sin." Then he turned away and a few moments later was snoring lustily.

Pat was given ninety days in the county jail. He was given a ninety-day suspended sentence by Police Magistrate Foster a month ago, when he visited Omaha, with the understanding he would serve it in the county jail if arrested again.

POSTOFFICE CLERKS MEET IN SALT LAKE CITY

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 2.—The National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, in annual convention here, received this message today from Senator La Follette:

"I admire your grit. Through you we won this last fight."
Oscar F. Nelson, president of the federation, said it was organized to educate the clerks and the public to better working conditions through legislation and to co-operate with the American Federation of Labor. He rejoiced that "gag rule" had been removed by recent action. This was the "fight" to which Senator La Follette's message alluded.

Officers of Wyoming May Clash With Uncle Sam Over Water Order

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—The Wyoming authorities have thrown down the gauntlet to the Interior department of the federal government, and unless Secretary Fisher recedes from the position he has taken in the matter of distribution of water in the Wind River Indian reservation, in central Wyoming, there will be a real clash. The Interior department charges that the Wyoming authorities have not been distributing the waters of Owl creek equitably among government users, and has instructed its special agents in the field to disregard the Wyoming laws and the orders of state officials. State Engineer A. J. Parshall has notified the Interior department that any interference with headgates and the distribution of water upon the part of federal officials will result in the arrest of said officials.

The state of Wyoming granted water rights on certain streams in the ceded portion of the Wind River reservation in 1906 for the irrigation of various Indian lands. On Owl creek such water right was granted to the Duncan allotment, but on the same stream prior rights have been granted to other settlers previous to the year 1894, or eleven years prior to the government application, and in accordance with the Wyoming laws these prior holders were entitled to the first use of water.

California Moosers Are Trying to Steal Republican Emblem

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—The first primary election involving the ultimate selection of the presidential electors under the new California primary law, will be held tomorrow. Interest centers around the contest of the Taft and Roosevelt supporters for control of the republican party machinery of the state.

Governor Hiram W. Johnson's political ally heading the state organization of the progressive party, contend that if they succeed in nominating presidential electors pledged to Roosevelt, they will be entitled to the party designation on the ballot in the November election. The Taft adherents take the ground that the action of the republican convention in nominating President Taft committed the state to the choice of electors pledged to their candidate.

Four Are Killed in Omaha Train Wreck Near Douglas, Wyo.

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wyo., Sept. 2.—Four persons were killed in the wreck of train No. 10 on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad, which a wash-out caused by last night's cloudburst, threw into the Lemonweir river, near Camp Douglas today. Twenty-six other persons were injured, six seriously.

EATON CLAIR, Wis., Sept. 2.—A message from Altoona City, says the engineer Ralph Thompson of Altoona, was killed; Fireman Abraham is dead or dying, and some passengers were injured when passenger train No. 10 ran into a washout near Camp Douglas today. A wrecking train was sent from Altoona with physicians.

The train was flagged at a tunnel on account of a washout just west of Elceoy and later was ordered to back up to Camp Douglas so that the passengers might breakfast. The high bridge and the banks on both sides of the Lemon river were washed out and before the engineer could be warned the train plunged into the whirling body of water below. That so many escaped death, in view of the fact that every coach plunged into the river, is considered miraculous.

VEIL IS DRAWN FROM STATUE OF LINCOLN

Ceremonies at Capital for Dedication of Monument Take Place on State House Plaza.

CROWD LISTENS IN THE

Orators Deliver Speeches During Prolonged Drizzle.

BRYAN MAKES ADDRESS OF DAY

Pays Tribute to Genius of Great President of Republic.

INTRODUCTORY BY GOVERNOR

Executive of State Presides at Exercises, Which Mark Turning of Shaft Over to People of Nebraska.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special Telegram.)—The unveiling of the statue of Abraham Lincoln in the state house grounds in Lincoln this afternoon, took place before a large crowd on the plaza at the north entrance to the state house. The exercises were opened with a medley of patriotic airs by the Nebraska State band before a crowd of several thousand people, who waited patiently while a drizzling rain was falling, for the speakers to take their part on the program.

A motion picture machine set up in the center of the plaza for the purpose of taking Mr. Bryan in his characteristic attitudes, attracted considerable attention.

William J. Bryan, the speaker of the day came on the platform escorted by Governor Aldrich and was met with that hearty welcome always given Mr. Bryan by his neighbors.

Secretary of State Addison Vail, as presiding officer, made a few introductory remarks and presented Rev. D. J. F. Roach, of St. Paul's church, who delivered the invocation. Following the invocation the St. Paul chorus rendered the "Hallelujah" chorus accompanied by the Nebraska state band.

Acting Mayor T. C. Pratt, president of the city council, in the absence of Mayor Armstrong, delivered the address of welcome in behalf of the city of Lincoln, giving a short history of the location of the state capital at Lincoln.

Governor Aldrich, in behalf of the state of Nebraska, welcomed the people to the state house on such an important occasion. He spoke of Lincoln as the man whom every American citizen could well take as an example. Though as tender and sympathetic as a child, yet when occasion demanded, firm and immovable as a rock. Few men with the possible exception of Andrew Jackson, regarded such vicious surroundings, as Abraham Lincoln, rise to be great leaders and successful men.

In closing the governor said: "The only and deepest significance that this occasion has, and that this monument yonder stands for, is that we of another generation have not forgotten America's greatest figure; that we still love and are devoted to the principles for which Abraham Lincoln lived and died, that it is our duty to keep still ringing in the ear of the citizen of tomorrow the full and deepest significance of Abraham Lincoln's life and character."

"As citizens of today, we cannot too often bow before the shrine of this great commoner, because from his life and his writings every citizen from the highest to the lowest gets encouragement and the guidance to patriotism and justice."

"The monument we dedicate today will be corroded by time and eventually crumble to dust, but the life work that he here review will live on and the orbit of his influence send its brilliant rays into the dark byways of the future, throwing its light into the dungeons of tyranny and holding aloft forever the torch of truth showing men that there is a better way to live—a nobler conception of life."

"Selections from the speeches and writings of Lincoln should be in every public school in the land."

Mr. Bryan's Tribute.
As Mr. Bryan was introduced, he was obliged to mount a table to make the large crowd hear.

He paid tribute to Lincoln and referred to the words spoken by Governor Aldrich. "If there ever was a man selected by Providence to do a great work surely it was Abraham Lincoln," said Mr. Bryan. "He was a great man and had that stability of character needed to carry out the great work he accomplished. Washington had a great task, but Lincoln had a greater one. The enemies of our country in Washington's time lived across the ocean 3,000 miles away, but Lincoln had to meet his enemies all about him, and in winning the battle he accomplished a greater task than did the father of our country."

"I believe that in the death of Lincoln the south lost a great friend than did the north. Lincoln loved the south, but he hated slavery, and in the fight for national unity he always regretted more than you or I may know the loss the

PROGRESSIVES IN BATTLE

Sharp Factional Fight Develops in Missouri Convention.

DIVISION OVER HEAD OF TICKET

Delegates from Kansas City and Western Section Backing Judge Norton—He Will Be Temporary Chairman.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2.—Although the opening of the first progressive state convention in Missouri is yet one day off, already what promises to become a bitter factional fight has developed between the forces that are supporting Arthur N. Sager, of St. Louis and Judge Albert D. Norton, of the St. Louis court of appeals, also of St. Louis, for the head of the state ticket.

The first session of the convention will begin at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. It is probable that no other business will be done, following which the welcoming and address of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, the party's presidential candidate, will take place. Colonel Roosevelt arrives here at 3 o'clock and will address the convention an hour later. In the evening he will address the city club.

Judge Norton was today selected as the temporary chairman by the state committee. It is anticipated that he also will be the permanent presiding officer. The delegation from Kansas City is backing him from the gubernatorial nomination while the delegates from St. Louis and the eastern end of the state are behind Sager, who was formerly circuit attorney of St. Louis.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 2.—Men and women who toil and their children have a champion in the progressive party.

The governor's first appearance in Kansas since he was nominated for the vice presidency; Bandana battle flags were much in evidence and as the mercury has broken altitude records in seven out of the last nine days and today appeared to be going after a new mark, the insignias proved useful as well as ornamental.

"All over the country today thinking men and women are groping about trying to solve the great human problem," the governor said. "It is the great human problem to which the progressive party, under the splendid leadership of Theodore Roosevelt, is dedicated; the problem of bringing the underman a little nearer to his more fortunate fellows by a little greater effort, sympathy and aid; the problem of giving a chance to victims of misfortune and want, the opportunity of life that God meant for us all; the problem of lightening the load of the overworked woman and of lifting the overburdened man from despondency and darkness."

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Colonel Roosevelt was up before daybreak today and by 8 o'clock was off in his automobile for New York, where he was to catch an 8 o'clock train eastward bound; with Hartford, Conn., as his first stop. His program called for speeches at Hartford and Springfield, although the latter stop was not originally planned.

WILSON ON MOOSE PLATFORM

Governor Discusses It in Labor Day Address at Buffalo.

MINIMUM WAGE IDEA IS BAD

Says Federal Regulation of Monopolies Looks Like Economic Control of Lives and Fortunes of Workers.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Governor Woodrow Wilson today analyzed the third party platform in its relation to the laboring man. The occasion of his speech was a Labor day celebration under the auspices of the United Trades and Labor council.

It was the first expression from the democratic candidate on the merits of the progressive platform. The governor said that while on the one hand was to be found "warm sympathy with practically every project of social betterment," that part was merely "a proclamation of sympathy," while the real program lay elsewhere, "where the tariff and the trusts are spoken of."

The governor assailed the minimum wage idea, declaring that employers would take occasion to bring their wage scale as nearly as they could down to the level of the minimum permitted by the law.

With the idea of a federal commission to regulate monopoly, the governor took emphatic issue. He declared that the plan suggested not only would legalize monopoly, but give the chief employers of the country a "tremendous authority behind them."

Governor Wilson pointed out that it always had been the policy of "the masters of consolidated industries" to undermine organized labor in a great many ways, and that a plan of new party, "systematically subordinate workmen to economic mastery over the very lives and fortunes of those who do the daily work of the nation."

Governor Wilson interrupted his public reception to address the delegates to the Catholic Young Men's National union in convention at another hotel. Upon his return half an hour later the reception was resumed.

Health Commissioner R. W. Connell will lay off all health inspectors for at least a month, this being necessary because of a shortage of funds in the department. There is now $9,419 in the fund out of which these inspectors are paid. The appropriation for paying health inspectors was $77,000.

BRIDGE MYSTERY UNSOLVED

Supposed Victims of Foul Play Return Home Safely.

MURDER THEORY DISCREDITED

Police Believe Now That Articles Found on Bridge Were Dropped by a Joyriding Party.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Luebke and their son of Yankton, S. D., who the Council Bluffs police thought were the victims of foul play on the Douglas street bridge Saturday morning, arrived home safe and sound Sunday night. The search for the Luebke family by the police followed the discovery of torn bits of letters, a woman's hat, a wisp of woman's hair and a suitcase on the east end of the bridge Saturday morning.

On last Monday Luebkes left Yankton with his family in an automobile and arrived in Omaha Friday. They left early Saturday morning for Yankton, and Omaha friends thought they might have met with foul play on the bridge as no word had been heard from them since that time until this morning.

Vice Combine Buys False Affidavits

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—District Attorney Whitman believes he has sufficient evidence to warrant indictments for a plot by head of the so-called "vice trust" to discredit by false affidavit several of the prosecutor's assistants who have been investigating the graft phase of the Rosenthal case. Word of the plot came to Whitman yesterday, and it is said several conspirators already have fled the city. Having failed in this attempt, it is now said that the leaders of the under world will confine their attention to hampering Mr. Whitman at the trial of the alleged Rosenthal murderers and, if necessary, will attempt to spirit "squealers" out of the city.

ORGANIZED LABOR TAKES A DAY OFF AND ENJOYS ITSELF

Monstrous Parade, Marching to the Music of Bands Passes Along Streets During the Morning.

THOUSANDS OF MEN ARE IN LINE

Annual Labor Day Picnic is Held Out at Courtland Beach Park.

MANY ORATORS ON THE PROGRAM

Principal Speakers Are Candidates for Office on Party Tickets.

CAUTIONED TO ESCHEW POLITICS

Stick to Text Proposed by the Chairman, But Get Up ear as Forbidden to Cross.

Organized labor had its outing yesterday, the members of the unions and crafts taking a day off. They put on their best clothes and from early morning until late at night, together with their wives and children, enjoyed themselves. The occasion was Labor day which has come to be recognized as a holiday and observed to a great extent as Independence day, or any of the holidays.

In the morning there was a monstrous parade, one of the largest that has passed over the streets of the city in years. When this parade broke up, marchers went to Courtland Beach, where their families had preceded them and where early in the afternoon numerous basket picnics were held. At these picnics in some instances several families joined, forming neighborhood groups, but the greater number were little family affairs.

Beginning at 3 o'clock and continuing until 5 there was a regular talkfest, the speakers being candidates for political offices for the most part, but being cautioned to eliminate politics from everything of a political nature, getting as near the deadline, however, as possible. J. J. Kerrigan was the chairman and introduced the speakers in a manner that was pleasing to them, as well as to the vast crowd that assembled in the shade at the east end of the pavilion.

Of the speakers who were making a bid for the labor vote were, C. O. Loebeck, present congressman and candidate for re-election; H. H. Baldrige, republican candidate for congress; J. H. More head, democratic candidate for governor; H. B. Fleaharty and John E. Resgan, democratic candidates for the legislature. Besides these, there were Mayor James C. Dahlgren, D. E. E. Jenkins, president of the University of Omaha and a member of the Central Labor union; R. F. McCaffery and Carl D. Thompson.

Following the speaking there was a good program of athletic events, the program closing with an address by Governor Aldrich in the evening.

Along the Line of March

Laboring men of the several unions, in an army 5,000 strong, marched in line of parade through the business section of the city yesterday and disbanded at Eighteenth and California streets, and then gathered at Courtland Beach for a big picnic in the afternoon in celebration of Labor day.

In the parade each workman carried a banner and members of each union wore the insignia of their trade. The line of march extended from Thirteenth and Douglas streets, where it was formed at 10:30 o'clock, for nearly a mile along the route.

Two brass bands furnished martial music, one leading the parade and the other bringing up the rear. Big flags were carried by many organizations, and each union bore a silk banner with the name of the union upon it.

Thousands of citizens lined the sidewalks and watched the parade go by. George E. Norman, marshal of the day, and H. Wilson and H. F. Sarman, aides, kept perfect order, and the program agreed upon by the Central Labor union was carried out unchanged.

The Central Labor Union led the parade and following were the building trades and the miscellaneous trades and the Union Pacific shop federation and unions of Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs.

Boys in the Parade

A corps of small boys, sons of the laboring men, took part in the parade, marching side by side with the grown-ups. They were barefoot and without coats, but none of them lagged in the march, although they had to take two steps to their elders' one.

As the parade swept around the corner of Eighteenth street and headed down Farnam street the workmen took off their hats and cheered Mayor Dahlgren, who watched the parade from the city hall steps. This was the only demonstration during the parade.

After leaving the Labor temple, going east on Douglas, south on Eleventh, west on Farnam, south in Sixteenth, thence on Sixteenth north to Harney, west on Harney and north on Sixteenth, then west on California to Eighteenth the paraders quietly disbanded.
