UESDAY EVENING at Happy Hollow, I was very much interested in watching three little girls who were much impressed by the personality of Madame Ragna Linne, the well known soprano of Chicago. It was their first experience in meeting an opera singer and they were quite awed, but at the same time a little curious. One little girl said to Madame Linne, the former Metropolitan opera singer carried pink roses. who gave the song recital at the club, "Did you ever sing alto?" "Yes, dear, when I was a little girl," replied Madame Linne. "I wish I could sing," said the little girl, longingly.

Following the recital, the three little girls again sought their new found idol. "Well, you certainly can sing," declared the first of the trio of chil- City on their wedding trip and they will dren. singer was going home in an automobile. Madame Linne, who has a striking personality and hair as white as snow, is quite a remarkable linguist as well as singer. She spent her early girlhood in Norway and studied in Paris, London and several German cties, and speaks fluently English, German, French, Danish, Italian and Norwegian.

Tuesday evening Madame Linne sang in four different languages and A. the artistic program was enjoyed by a large audience.
