Members of the Omaha Women's Whist club are feeling a little hard toward the powers that be, especially toward the owers that framed City Ordinance 444. his ordinance declares, among other things, that there shall be no gambling or games of cards in the public parks.

The club, composed of some of the most prominent and dignified women in the city, decided about a month ago that it would be pleasant and appropriate to hold its weekly tournaments outdoors during the hot weather. A committee, composed of Mrs. Frank Colpetzer, Mrs. Henry W. Yates and Mrs. John N. Baldwin, was appointed to arrange for the outdoor meetings.

The club met one week at the Country club, next at the Field club, then at Happy Hollow, and last week at Seymour Lake Country club. Having made the round of the country cluis, the committee planned to transfer its activities to the parks, visiting Hansoom, Riverview. Miller park and the others in turn until Jack Frost should interfere.

It was not Jack Frost that interfered, but a big, burly Hanscom park policeman, who is no respecter of persons rere his orders are concerned. When the committee visited the park to plan for a tournament in its leafy confines, they were uncompromisingly refused the privileges of the park for their card sames. "Against the law, madam," declared the bluecoat.

The committee refuses to discuss the matter. But one of the members firmly maintains that playing in the parks would not have been successful anyway; that carrying the duplicate whist board hither and you is too much trouble for a little fresh air; that parks are very nice for these on please bent; that birds and bees and whisperius trees are too distracting when one is trying to concentrate on the serious game of displacete whist.

This week the dubt will resume its meetings in the Continental block. The members are Mesdames Frank Colpetser, Henry W. Yafes, John M. Baldwin, T. M. Orr, W. C. Sunderland, D. Y. Sholes, A. G. Edwards, George E. Haverstick, E. J. Fitzgerald.

Affairs for Visiting Women. The week will be gay with both formal and informal affairs for the large numof attractive visiting women Miss Lois Don of Troy, N. Y., who was entertained at a number of parties last week, will be honor guest at several social affairs this week. Monday after-noon Miss Eugenie Whitmore will give a bridge party for this popular visitor from the east. Monday evening Miss Mar-guerite Stowitts will give a box party at the Orpheum. Tuesday evening Misses Dorothy and Mary Ringwalt will entertain at bridge.

In honor of Mrs. John A. McShane's guests, her sister, Mrs. Josephine A. logan, and niece, Mrs. T. H. Eldridge, both of Memphis, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hosford will give a supper at the Country club this evening. Mrs. Mc-Shane will give a luncheon Monday at the Country club for her guests and Mrs. Kirkendall will entertain at luncheen at her home for them Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Burns antertained at dinner at the Country club last evening. Mrs. Hogan and Mrs. Eldridge will be here several weeks.

For her guest, Mrs. Lester Crane of Atlanta, Ga., Miss Frances Nash will give a luncheon at the Country club Informal affairs are being planned for Mrs. Sue LeCann of Gal- Uni. Club Plans Fine Quarters.
