

Boys' Clothes That Are Different

Father used to take the "ad" man to the dry goods store and buy enough goods and trimmings for a boys' suit, then to the tailor we went and the tailor "ad" man was duly measured; in a day or two this boy would get the job from the tailor and carry it over to a sewing woman and in the course of events he had his new suit.

So different today—economies are worked out all along the line—better boys' clothes are to be had at half the cost—with distinctive styles for boys of every age.

Boys' Knickerbocker and Norfolk Suits in classy woollens which will stand lots of use and some abuse—$5.00, $6.00 and $7.50.

ROOSEVELT PASSES THROUGH NEBRASKA ON HIS VOTE HUNT

At 2 o'clock Mr. Roosevelt appeared, escorted by Governor Aldrich, Don L. Love, Frank P. Corrick, George W. Norris and others. He was introduced by Mr. Love without any preliminaries.

Mr. Roosevelt began his speech by saying that he made up his mind last spring that of the people at the primaries decided against him he would quit, but if the politicians decided against him he would have something to say, and he was saying it. He spoke of the "ex"-republicans as being those loyal Abraham Lincoln republicans, who were now in the progressive party.

"Unfortunately in the theft of the republican party Nebraska furnished one of the culprits, Victor Rosewater, and when I say theft I mean theft." He seemed to take great delight in alluding to Mr. Rosewater as the man who was to arch-demon in the "dishonest" methods used by the national committee.

"They intended to steal the nomination and it was necessary to have ninety delegates to steal it. If they had needed 100 delegates they would have stolen 100 delegates," said Mr. Roosevelt.

The greater part of Mr. Roosevelt's address was devoted to the "dishonest" methods which defeated him. He asked the audience to compare the characters of the men with "us" with those of the men who stole the nomination from "us."

Mr. Roosevelt paid a tribute to the governors who are "working for the people." "Governor Johnson is one of them and I also have been a governor," said he, but he did not mention Governor Aldrich, who sat immediately behind him.

He spoke strongly of those "ex"-republicans who compose the bull moose party, he utterly failed to give any credit to the bull moose republicans who are sticking to the old party and at the same time upholding him, notwithstanding several of them were on the platform with him.

Before the close of his address he turned his attention to W. J. Bryan and said that he was accusing the progressive party of stealing the democratic platform.

"Why," said Mr. Roosevelt in the high falsetto voice he sometimes used, "we wouldn't take the democratic platform as a gift."

He paid considerable attention also to Woodrow Wilson, democratic candidate for president and intimated that Mr. Wilson was just the kind of a man Wall Street wants for president.

Before the meeting was over many people had left the Auditorium.

Comparing Mr. Roosevelt's speech today with those made here in former years indicates that for some reason he has seen a great light and that the men for whom he vouched as honest before are now nothing but "thieves and rascals."

One thing which Mr. Roosevelt seemed to want to impress upon the audience was expressed in the following: "If we win we will smash both of the two old parties," and what was peculiar about it was the satisfaction which such remarks seem to give those on the platform who still call themselves republicans and refuse to go to the new party.

"It is time that all decent men left the old parties and came over to the only progressive party," he said.

A newspaperman with the Roosevelt party said that for the last two weeks the meetings have been a frost and certainly the Lincoln meeting would bear out the statement, for while the crowd was large the enthusiasm which has prevailed at former visits of Mr. Roosevelt was conspicuous for its absence.

BOSSSES TURNING TO WILSON. Colonel Says They Know Taft is a Dead Cook in the Pitt.

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 20.—Assailing the republican leaders in general and Victor Rosewater of Omaha, former republican national committee man, in particular, Colonel Roosevelt opened his campaign in Nebraska today.

"We have grown to look for leadership in Nebraska," said Colonel Roosevelt in his speech here. "I think we're going to do our part in the east. We are waking up in the east.

At 7 o'clock Colonel Roosevelt's day began early, for he was awakened by a lamp at Oxford. He hastily put on his clothes and appeared on the platform in time to shake hands with some of those in the crowd before the train started. At Minden he was greeted by another crowd. He made a short speech in which he gave a talk on the Rosewater brand of politics.

Aldrich and Norris Join Party. FAIRMONT, Neb., Sept. 20.—Governor Aldrich and Representative George W. Norris boarded Colonel Roosevelt's train to accompany him on the run to Lincoln. The colonel, the governor and the congressman held a conference on the Nebraska situation. Whenever the train stopped Colonel Roosevelt was called from his car to make a speech.

At Fairmont a large crowd was waiting for him and he talked for ten minutes about the platform of the progressive party.

At Sutton the colonel renewed his attack on Mr. Rosewater.

"If we are fit to rule our lives," he said, "we want to cast our own vote and not have Mr. Victor Rosewater cast them for us. I came out here in the primaries and fought fair and square. We carried Nebraska and Mr. Victor Rosewater cast the vote of Nebraska against us. In the Chicago convention Mr. Rosewater allowed the ninety contested delegates to vote on each other's right to seats. How long would you have criminals left in a penitentiary if you allowed them to vote on each other's rights to go free? The criminals in the penitentiary are no worse offenders than Mr. Rosewater and his allies, for the theft of a nomination is worse than the theft of a purse."

Cool Reception at Minden. MINDEN, Neb., Sept. 21.—(Special Telegram.)—Burlington train No. 2 stopped long enough at Minden to give the school children and others a look at Theodore Roosevelt. Aside from a faint cheer from a few of the school children there was absolutely no enthusiasm. It was the coldest reception that has ever been given a presidential candidate in the city of Minden. There was one faint call for a speech, to which the candidate commenced a response, but the train started and he was not allowed to finish. G. W. Norris appeared on the platform with him. There was no call or general recognition for him.

WHISKERS ON YANKEE DOODLE. Older Than Many Old Nations and Popularized by the Youngest.

It is very good proof of the abiding sense of humor in the American people that in those troubled and positively dangerous days (of the revolution) they were able to see and enjoy the ludicrous side of the warfare. Not infrequently they seized upon the very satires of the enemy and hurled them back in his teeth.

"Yankee Doodle," for instance, has for itself just such a history. The tune of this popular ballad is older than most of the existing nations. In the twelfth century it was used as a chant in Catholic churches of Italy, and when played slowly doubtless served very well as a sacred air.

But the melody was too easily learned to remain in such a limited sphere and after 2,000 years we find it gradually working its way into the daily life of the ordinary peasant. It became a most popular vintage song in Spain and Southern France; reached, northward, into Holland, where, as a reaper's song, it acquired the words, "Kanker duude, doodle doo," and at length entered England, where, before the reign of Charles I. it was a widely known nursery rhyme with the words:

Lucky Locket lost her pocket, Kitty Fisher found it— Nothing in it, nothing on it, But the binding round it.

In the days of the Puritan rule the Cavaliers wrote a song in ridicule of Cromwell, who, it is said, once rode into Oxford, mounted on a small Kentish horse and with his small-plumed tent into a knot:

Yankee Doodle came to town, Upon a Kentish pony, He stuck a feather in his cap And called him Macdonal.

"Macaroni," it should be remembered, was a term frequently applied to London dudes.

Thus the song had served in many capacities when Dr. Richard Shuckburg, a surgeon in the British army, seeing the raw New England rustics gazing in open-mouthed wonder at the English cannon and soldiers, suddenly conceived the idea of writing new words to the old tune to apply to the patriots. Many lines of the poem easily betray its origin:

And there we see a thousand men, As rich as Scythia David; And what they wasted every day, I wish it could be saved.

And there I see a swamping gun, Large as a log of maple, Upon a detached little cart, A load for father's cart.

And every time they shoot it off, It takes a wing of powder, And makes a noise like father's gun, Only a nation louder.

I went as high to one myself As Slah's underpinning; And father went at night again, I thought the deuce was in him.

And there was Cap'n Washington, And great folks about him, They say he's grown so 'farnal proud He will not ride without 'em.

He's got him on his meeting clothes, Upon a slapping stallion; He set the world along in rows, In hundreds and in millions.

But he laughs best who laughs last. The colonists liked the song, sang it as their own, and later, as they shot down the retreating British from behind walls and trees, they whistled at with such mocking vim that Cornwallis is said to have exclaimed:

"I hope to God I shall never hear that damned tune again!"—"The Wit and Humor of Colonial Days," by Carl HOLLaday.

Reflections of a Bachelor. A man might as well burn money up recklessly as to take it home carelessly. Reform makes more noise and does less business than about anything else in the world.

Every man who was willing to write his wife if he couldn't find a postage stamp for the letter.

Any man can have genius enough to make his wife proud of it by never forgetting to bring her home something for her birthday.

Dakota Taft Men Threaten to Vote Democrat Ticket

MITCHELL, S. D., Sept. 19.—(Special Telegram.)—That Taft men of South Dakota propose to rebuke what they call the fraud and deception of the Huron convention was evidenced tonight at the state mass convention here. They will do so by voting the democratic ticket at the November election.

A half dozen speakers, including Senator Gamble, George W. Egan, George A. Sibley, Judge Plovman and Chambers Keller, and others, denounced the outrage, as they termed it, and that a lesson should be taught the bull mooseers if the republicans of this state are to be denied the right to vote their choice of a presidential candidate. The denunciations of the bull mooseers and the chief bull moose were most bitter and the epithets were of a virulent character.

The resolutions adopted tonight recognize Burke and Martin for congress, G. W. Abel for lieutenant governor, H. B. Anderson for state auditor and Frank Glanzer for secretary of state as the only republicans on the ticket, and it is to be left to the individual voter whether he will support the rest of the ticket or rebuke the bull moose candidates for their conduct.

The action of Senator Crawford, Governor Vasey and Committeeman Thornton for supporting Roosevelt was condemned. The convention endorsed a resolution demanding that the chairman of the national republican committee demand the removal of Thomas Thorsen as national committeeman and the appointment of a republican for the position, recommending J. F. Halliday for the place.

A new state organization was effected by the convention and the following men were named to look after the success of the campaign which is to be inaugurated and calculated to rebuke the bull mooseers: J. C. Simmons, Aberdeen; T. J. Spangler, Mitchell; T. B. Roberts, Pierre; R. O. Richards, Huron, and J. F. Halliday, Iroquois.

Fully 100 republicans from all parts of the state attended the meeting. George W. Egan of Sioux Falls named Charles M. Day of the Sioux Falls Argus Leader for temporary chairman. Egan and Day have been bitter political enemies for the last year.

Nicaragua Rebels Capture San Jorge

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, Sept. 20.—Nicaraguan rebels yesterday attacked and captured the town of San Jorge, on Lake Nicaragua, five miles east of Rivas. While the rebel gunboats bombarded San Jorge, another force of insurgents furiously attacked Rivas, cutting telegraph wires to San Juan Del Sur, and gradually forcing the government troops to fall back on the town of Cuarte.

When the rebel attack slackened the government forces captured a rapid-fire gun and used it with such deadly effect that the rebels were obliged to retreat.

The fight lasted five hours and both sides suffered many casualties.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—A delayed cablegram from Rear Admiral Sutherland, dated Managua, September 17, indicates that a skirmish has been fought between the American naval forces and the rebels at Barranca, fourteen miles south of Managua and an equal distance from Granada, which the naval expedition was seeking to relieve. The bluejackets and marines were fired upon by the rebels. Their leaders refused Admiral Sutherland's demand to open the way southward, and he sent for reinforcements from Managua.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—Nicaraguan government troops yesterday captured the courtel at Masaya and liberated 300 prisoners, according to private cable messages received here today.

It is believed here that General Zelaya and the revolutionary forces have retired to Granada, the revolutionists stronghold on Lake Nicaragua, where it is thought a decisive battle will be fought within the next few days.

According to the informant the child was playing around a wagon that was heavily loaded with tiling. The team started up and the child fell beneath the wheel and its passed over him. Automobile Causes Shotgun Discharge Injuring Three Men

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 20.—(Special Telegram.)—An accidental discharge of a shotgun in an automobile last night injured Third Baseman Joe Smith, of Hastings' base ball team, Carl Jungerman, a baker, and J. C. Hersey, an employe in a clothing store. The gun went off when the car struck a bump in the road. The shot struck Smith under and below the right shoulder. It next penetrated Jungerman's left shoulder and one shot glanced striking Hersey on the left temple and flattening out against his skull. Smith and Hersey were in the front seat and Jungerman was in the rear, but all wounds were inflicted by the one discharge. Although the wounds are serious all are expected to recover. Smith, however, may lose the use of his arm for base ball.

Proposed Raise in Grain Rates Held Up

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The Interstate Commerce commission today suspended freight rates on grain, proposed by the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroads from points in Iowa to Chicago and the east. Some time ago the roads were directed to readjust their Iowa grain rates to conform to the rates from other parts of the middle west. In readjusting the rates, the roads proposed increases varying from 10 to 50 per cent a hundred pounds. The new tariffs were to have become effective today, but at the last moment the commission suspended them until January 13, 1913, and ordered an investigation.

Unconventionalities.

"You're a sort of forty-second cousin of mine, are you? Well, I never lend money to relatives. Close the door as you go out, will you?" "Binks, the only things I dislike about you are your looks, your actions, and your conversation." "We'd get along most amicably, old chap, if you would hibernate in the winter and go to the north pole in the summer." "What I admire in you, Squinchey, is the easy, natural, unaffected manner in which you can swear to a lie." "Muggleton, I don't wonder that you and Gormley are not friends. He's a gentleman."—Chicago Tribune.

Mystery Surrounds Death at Hastings

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 20.—(Special Telegram.)—Emory Kinney, a houseowner, was found dead under peculiar circumstances in the loft of his barn at noon today. The body was hanging by a rope and the feet were touching the floor. In the kitchen were found pools of blood and there were finger prints of blood on the wall. Kinney was seen in several saloons yesterday. A deep wound on the back of his head and blood on the kitchen stove suggest the theory that he fell against the stove and then committed suicide. Coroner Beightol said death resulted from strangulation. The man's wife was out of town, not returning until after her husband's death. She declares that her husband did not commit suicide. Sheriff Cook thinks the man was murdered. Kinney's son committed suicide a year ago.

Brewers Are Facing a Famine in Barley

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—A million dollars a year awaits the farmers of every grain-growing country in the United States in return for more scientific and business-like management of the farms, said the crop improvement committee of the United Brewers' association in its report today at the association's fifty-second annual convention. Brewers are facing famine prices for raw material because of increasing demand for malting barley and decreased production due to soil exhaustion and the withdrawal of land from cultivation, said the report.

TRYING TO STRAIGHTEN OUT PENNSYLVANIA MIDDLE

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 20.—The republican state committee met here today for the purpose of cleaning up the electoral mixup in Pennsylvania involving Taft and Roosevelt electors. If an agreement entered into last week by the Roosevelt and Taft supporters is carried out all the Roosevelt men on the republican electoral ticket will withdraw and go on the Washington party ticket by which name the progressive party in Pennsylvania is known. The vacancies in the republican ticket will then be filled with Taft men to be selected by the republican state committee. A subcommittee was instructed to report on the matter of the Taft and Roosevelt electors to the full committee not later than September 30.
