The Doctor's Answers on Health and Beauty Questions

By DR. LEWIS BAKER

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature. Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Hillwood Sts., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Anxious Wife"—Give 10 to 15 drops of the following in water an hour before each meal and your child will soon be cured of bed-wetting: Comp. fluid balsam, 1 oz.; tincture cubeba, 1 dram; tincture rhubarb, 2 drams.

"Le Ros"—For many years I have suffered with stomach and bowel trouble which has been caused by a severe case of catarrh. My blood is also in poor condition. What can be done for me?"

Answer: If you follow the directions given below you will soon be well and strong again. Obtain the following from any well-stocked drug store and mix by shaking well, then take a teaspoonful four times daily: Syrup sassafras, 1 comp. fluid balsam, 1 oz.; fluid extract, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balsam, 1 oz.; fluid extract, 1 oz. Use in connection with the following local treatment: Get a 2-oz. packet of antiseptic powder and make a castor oil emulsion by mixing one ounce of castor oil with a level teaspoonful of the powder and use in the nostrils daily. Also make a wash of one pint of warm water and one-half teaspoonful of Village powder and use two or three times a day until the nostrils are thoroughly cleansed and your trouble will soon be gone.

"Miss M." writes: "I have such short, stringy, straggling hair and my scalp is full of dandruff. Please advise what to do." Answer: The best advice I can offer is simple: Get at a well stocked drug store a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow mayon, directions accompanying and use it regularly. It promotes a healthy, vigorous growth of hair and cures dandruff. It kills scalp, restores hair and stops falling hair. If the hair is harsh and straggling it restores a soft, fluffy appearance and brings back the natural color.

"Miss M." writes: "I would certainly appreciate something that would increase my weight and take away that lagged feeling which I am subject to most of the time. My blood is weak and watery and my appetite is poor." Answer: Your condition is very easily overcome if you will follow the directions given below. Ask your druggist for three-grain hypophosphite tablets and take according to the directions and your weight will increase. These tablets promote assimilation, absorption and digestion, transform the complexion and give energy. They are prescribed by physicians and are perfectly harmless. They should be taken regularly for several months and you can depend upon gaining flesh and that lagged feeling will vanish completely.

"D. E. G." writes: "My rheumatism is getting worse all the time. I am getting so stiff that it makes it very hard for me to get around." Answer: Do not worry about your rheumatism as that can be easily cured by using the following: Get at the drug store the ingredients named and mix thoroughly and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again at bed time and you will soon be entirely cured of that disagreeable disease, rheumatism. Purchase 2 drams of iodine, potassium, one-half ounce of wine of colchicum; 4 drams of sodium salicylate; 1 oz. comp. fluid balsam; 1 oz. comp. essence codon; and 5 oz. of syrup sassafras. This has cured thousands and I am sure it will cure you.

"Maudie" asks: "Can you tell me how to overcome a bronchial trouble which manifests itself after singing, by a tickle in the throat, hoarseness and a slight cough?" Answer: Obtain a bottle of essence mentholene and use it pure, or make into a cough syrup by mixing with ordinary granulated sugar syrup of honey. Directions for use and how to make accompany the package. It makes a full pint of effective pleasant cough syrup and cures all throat and bronchial trouble.

"Mrs. G. B." writes: "I suffer a great deal with stomach disorders. Heavy after eating, heart palpitation, wind and gas on stomach, etc. Am restless and irritable. Afraid to eat a hearty meal. Sometimes great pain. I fear appendicitis." Answer: The neglect of constipation and indigestion is the most frequent cause of appendicitis. It is better to prevent than to cure by an operative and take according to directions accompanying the sealed carton. They are pink, white and blue to be taken morning, noon and night respectively. I think many cases of appendicitis could be prevented by using triopiptone intelligently.

"Mrs. C. C." writes: "Can you prescribe a tonic for this and getting thinner. Have little appetite and am restless day and night." Answer: The following is used for several weeks: It gradually restores and strengthens your nervous system: Compound syrup of hypophosphite, 5 oz.; tincture codonine, 1 oz. (not codonine and mix, shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal.

"Miss C. K." writes: "I am burdened with too much fat and would like a safe treatment prescribed." Answer: I would not recommend the ordinary tablets and pills for obesity, but here is a quick acting formula that accomplishes big fat reductions and never causes ill feeling. Arsenic acid, 5 grains; glycol arbutin; 1 oz. Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after each meal three days. Double the dose thereafter. Continue several days or months as the case may require.

"Poor H." writes: "My health is very poor, on account of a long standing constipation. I have used pills or something all the time. Can you prescribe something to take that will cure chronic constipation." Answer: Constipation is probably the cause of more illness than any other thing. Most remedies only relieve the trouble and never cure. I always prescribe three-grain suppository tablets (not suppository tablets), and have found them most reliable and gradually curative. They act pleasantly and do not irritate the bowels and liver, without purifying the blood.

FLASH OF WAR AT BANQUET Handsome Maiden Swindles Dealers

Webster and Brown Take Issue with Hitchcock.

GEN. WOOD'S PLAN FOR ARMY

Would Train More Men to Be Soldiers, Do Away with Small Posts and Centralize the Forces.

Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Nebraska's junior senator, opponent of the arbitration treaty that was killed in the United States senate, cast international peace prophecies at a banquet at the Omaha club Friday, at which Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the United States army, was honored guest, and was sharply, though not directly, criticized by his colleague, Senator Norris Brown, and General John L. Webster, the toastmaster, for preaching peace and voting for war.

"Philosophers have dreamed of peace, but wars are the history of man. However, I am one who believes war is going to be eliminated," said Senator Hitchcock. "The people of England are ruling almost as absolutely as do the people of America. Russia has a Duma. A reform party has arisen in Turkey. Portugal's king has been expelled. The Reichstag of Germany has taken more and more power from the kaiser. There is a tendency all over the world toward self-government, and with the coming of self-government in all nations war will disappear."

Senator Hitchcock's speech followed an address by General Wood, in which he advocated the military training of a larger force of men and denounced the policy of retaining men in the regular army for thirty years or more. The senator sought to refute the general's argument.

Peace Not Yet at Hand. General Webster's criticism came promptly and Senator Brown's followed, none the less effective because delivered in polite and polished language.

"In 2,500 years we have had but 250 years of universal peace," said the toastmaster. "And it may be but a question of time before the colored races of men may make war on the whites. I believe in a strong government and a strong army to support it."

Senator Brown said that while such men as General Wood had been "working," saying nothing about war or peace, had built railroads and industrialized the possessions of the United States, the legislative branch of the government had, like Senator Hitchcock, just talked.

Referring to the arbitration treaty, which the junior senator opposed, Senator Brown said that while these men who fought and defeated the measure were not "objectors to peace, they objected to this plan of securing it."

"These objectors to peace, pretending to favor peace, defeated the measure by two votes. Senator Brown then attributed to Senators Lorimer and Dixon the credit of casting the two votes that defeated the bill.

A policy approximating universal military service for American men was advocated by Major General Wood in an address in which he maintained that our regular army could be utilized as an instruction corps, its officers as permanent teachers with the male population of arm-bearing age as pupils, much in the manner employed by the republic of Switzerland.

An army of 600,000 trained men is necessary, the general believes, to protect our frontiers in case of a war which may come at any time "like a bolt out of the blue, with an act of war the only declaration of war."

"We want to use to the best advantage the highly trained and intelligent officers we have," said General Wood, referring to his plan of training soldiers, "and I think I can put the matter up to you on a business basis.

"It costs about $1,000 a year to maintain a soldier. Instead of keeping a man in the service for thirty years and retiring him on a pension of $67.50, wouldn't it be better to train seven or eight men at little additional cost and then turn them back to civil pursuits? We would enlist men for seven years, four years to be spent in active service and three as a reserve."

By proper supervision of the training of the militia General Wood believes that after a while the number of men fit for active service in case of war could be increased from about 90,000, the strength of our standing army, to at least 500,000 with 35,000 or 40,000 officers.

Explaining the plans of the staff the general said it was the intention to spend the $7,000,000 or $8,000,000 appropriated for the maintenance of the militia in a manner that would make the militiamen "thoroughly efficient." To do this he would extend the instruction in rifle shooting and military practice and commission graduates of good military schools.

General Wood said that many military posts will have to be abandoned, and that while most of the posts in the middle west will be given up the readjustment will leave a few. Three strong garrisons on the Atlantic border, two or three on the Pacific and about as many in the middle west, is what will result from the readjustment, believes the general.

The chief-of-staff believes we "are likely to find ourselves in a war that is a real war" and since we "have never met a first class power prepared for war" the outcome would be in doubt.

In case war broke out now there would be a "perfectly ridiculous panic," and while we would "probably win," to make the outcome sure the nation needs more trained men and a scheme of centralizing the army on the threatened frontier.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Posing as a daughter of Governor Foss of Massachusetts, wife of various wealthy men and doing other bad acts, a girl in her early twenties swindled Boston and New York firms of several thousand dollars' worth of finery, according to a confession, the police declare she made today. She had represented that her name was Frances Holander, child of wealthy parents and a pupil in a Baltimore convent.

Her "baby stare" bespoke this role, but according to the alleged confession she was better acquainted with the reform school at Lancaster, Mass., than with the Baltimore convent and had a string of a half a dozen aliases.

ULSTERITES SHOW FERVOR

Three Thousand Sing National Anthem Following Speeches.

DETERMINATION IS APPARENT

Report Made that Third of Officers in British Army Ready to Resign and Lead Ulster in Arms.

BELFAST, Sept. 28.—The singing of the national anthem by a crowd of 3,000 persons, comprising every organization of Belfast's great industrial, mercantile, civil and religious community last night, brought to a close a great anti-home rule meeting in Ulster hall, which was held in the city on the eve of the anti-home rule convention of 1912. The meeting renewed the adoption of the resolution passed at that convention protesting against a home rule parliament for Ireland.

The supreme dramatic moment of the memorable gathering tonight was the unfurling and presentation to Sir Edward Carson, the chief propagandist against home rule, of the flag carried by King William at the battle of Boyne. The flag was greeted with frenzied cheering, contrary to expectations.

No new announcement of unionist policy was made at the meeting. The Ulster watchword is "We will not have home rule," but none of the various speakers nor letters of the influential unionist leaders attempted to reveal the plan of resistance if such a plan exists, should King George sign the home rule measure.

Less Talk of War. In comparison with the demonstrations held elsewhere during the last week the absence of talk of armed resistance was noticeable. Also there was less distaste for the military spirit today in Belfast. The day, however, gave a remarkable illustration of Ulster's determination not to accept home rule, expressed in an orderly and enthusiastic manner which can hardly fail to provide the government with food for serious reflection.

The Weekly Outlook tonight makes the startling announcement that one-third of the officers in the British army are Irishmen, that over 90 per cent of these are Union Protestants and that they are now considering how to resign their commissions in order to lead Ulster in arms against home rule.

Hours before the time set for the meeting a vast crowd had congregated about Ulster hall. In the absence of the duke of Abercorn, who was unable to attend, Lord Londonderry presided. Among those on the platform were Sir Edward Carson, the marquis of Salisbury, Baron Willoughby de Broke, Lord Charles Berford, the earls of Kilmorey, Clanwilliam, Erne and Leitrim and Frederick E. Smith and many other unionist members of Parliament.

"Premier Asquith and John Redmond (loud hooting) will learn," said Lord Londonderry, "that Ulster is not bluffing. The covenant will be something that they cannot ignore."

Many letters from prominent unionist leaders were read expressing sympathy with the objects of the meeting. Andrew Bonar Law, the unionist leader in the House of Commons, wrote:

"Victory, in my opinion, is certain. As the leader of the largest party in the House of Commons I am in a position to assure the people of Ulster that in this struggle they do not stand alone, but can rely upon the support of the whole unionist party."

There was a dramatic scene when Sir Edward Carson arose to speak. The entire audience stood and cheered him for several seconds and then burst into the refrain, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

President Receives Some Unusual Gifts

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 28.—President Taft motored to Maiden today to become the guest of the city and to help it celebrate home-coming week. He returned to Beverly tonight a richer and happier man. He brought back, with him one sweater, one pair of rubber boots, one pair of golf shoes, one pair of suspenders, one silver loving cup, several jars of honey, many bunches of roses and a big box of candy for Mrs. Taft. He brought back also the conviction that not in many months has he appeared before crowds that were more demonstrative. He made three short speeches.

The president left Beverly just after luncheon and at Lynn picked up Senator Lodge. It was at the Maiden Industrial exposition that the city played Santa Claus to a president. The president spoke on Ferry Way green to a crowd that cheered his words with vigor. Later he made a short talk in Auditorium and wound up the day with a visit and a third talk to members at the Kenwood club.
