Addresses Stockmen and Workmen from Packing Houses—Shallenberger Tells of Things He Did While Governor.

Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, democracy's choice for president of the United States, talked for an hour yesterday afternoon to an audience that nearly filled the Auditorium.

The New Jersey governor stepped to the edge of the stage and began his speech in a conversational tone. Cries of "Louder!" "Louder!" sounded from all parts of the house and the speaker hesitated, then told the crowd that he had left most of his voice in Indiana, but that "it would come back in a minute."

TELLS OF AWAKENING

Continuing, the visitor described his awakening to the fact that there were bosses in New Jersey, and that these bosses were in control of the government and were in a conspiracy to give the people anything except what they wanted.

The nation has been using only a part of its brains, he asserted, and the country is full of great unused forces, like labor and lawyers and commercial club members.

PAYS RESPECTS TO MOOSEERS

Mr. Wilson paid his respects to the third party movement. By its platform it professes to desire government by the people, when the fact is, it would legalize monopoly, accepting the conditions as they really exist now.

THIRD PARTY HOPELESS

Although attacking the republicans and the third party adherents the governor said he sympathized with the progressive program and subscribed to it, but that it would be hopeless to carry out this program in the manner proposed by Mr. Roosevelt.

IN CLOSING HIS ARGUMENT, MR. WILSON SAID THE PLAN IS TO BUILD A NEW GOVERNMENTAL STRUCTURE, REINFORCED WITH THE

DEPALMA SERIOUSLY INJURED

Car Overturns in Desperate Finish of Grand Prix Auto Race.

CALEB BRAGG FINISHES IN LEAD

Wealthy Young Cincinnati Driver Wins International Heavy Car Contest After Sensational Last Lap Brush.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 5.—Caleb Bragg, a wealthy young Cincinnati driver, today won the fourth International Grand Prix automobile road race with a Fiat car after a sensational last lap brush, in which Ralph DePalma's Mercedes car was overturned and DePalma and his mechanic, Tom Alley, were seriously injured.

Bragg captured the race from a field of twelve starters, which included the country's most widely known drivers of heavy cars. Only six of the twelve starters finished.

Bragg's speed average for the race was 67.3 miles an hour, as against the late David Bruce-Brown's average of 74.45 miles an hour in last year's Grand Prix even at Savannah, Ga. He covered the distance of 469 miles, 4.58 feet in five hours, fifty-nine minutes and twenty-five seconds.

With the elimination of Tetzlaff by a minor accident to his Fiat car at the 24-mile post, the race settled to a driving duel between Bragg and DePalma. The latter led Bragg for only four laps. However, when DePalma jumped into second place with Tetzlaff's withdrawal, he was eight minutes back of Bragg. He trailed at about that distance for more than eighty miles. Then in the last fifty miles DePalma started at a terrific sprint which resulted in his car being overturned in the last five-mile stretch of the race.

The winner drove a heady, consistent race, never being further back than third place at any stage of the long grid. He was in the lead through thirty laps of the fifty-two-lap contest. For the first eighty miles Tetzlaff led the field, but Bragg and DePalma were almost on top of Tetzlaff all the time.

After a hurried examination at one of the hospital tents on the course, surgeons said DePalma and Alley had suffered broken legs and severe bruises, but that neither seemed to be in a fatal condition. The injured men then were taken to Trinity hospital.

At Trinity hospital, where DePalma and Alley were rushed for medical aid, it was said that DePalma, in addition to suffering from broken limbs, suffered a puncture of the abdomen and is in a serious condition. Alley is said to have suffered a broken shoulder.

Bragg, as his part of the $10,000 purse, received $5,000. Erwin Bergdoll of Philadelphia, who drove a Benz car into second place after a pretty fight with Gil Anderson for the last sixty miles of the race, received $2,500. Bergdoll's average speed for the race was 63.81 miles per hour. Gil Anderson, who finished third with a Stutz car, the only American-made car to remain through the race, got $1,250 as his end. His average speed was 65.55 miles per hour.

Barney Oldfield, who finished fourth with a Fiat car at an average speed of 64.75 miles per hour, took $600 as fourth money.

George Clark, who was still driving his Mercedes with one more lap to go when Oldfield finished, was flagged by Starter Wagner and awarded $300 as fifth money.

UNITED STATES NOT AT WAR

Officials Explain that Action Was Taken to Keep Open Railroad to Get Supplies to Starving Foreigners.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Four American marines were killed and six wounded yesterday, when the American forces took the town of Coyotepe from the Nicaraguan rebels, according to a cablegram received early today by Minister Castrillo from Chamorro, minister of foreign affairs in Nicaragua.

The cablegram to Minister Castrillo, dated Managua, October 4, was as follows: "Masaya taken today by assault. We had 100 dead, 200 wounded. Americans early took Coyotepe with four dead and six wounded. Correa simultaneously took Barranca. Zeledon fled, with followers and was captured eight leagues from Masaya, wounded and died later. Today I visited the American minister to express deepest sympathy for marines' death. Granada municipality requested marines' bodies for burial at that city. I beg you express to Department of State my deep sympathy."

"CHAMORRO, Minister of Affairs." Zeledon, spoken of in the cablegram, was a rebel general, a Honduran, in a revolt of Mens, the fallen dictator, recently captured and taken to Panama for exile.

UNITED STATES NOT AT WAR

Though the lives of American marines have been lost and others have been wounded in what appears to have been one of the most sanguinary battles fought in Central America in many years, yet technically the United States is not engaged in war.

"As defined by the State department, the status of the relations between the United States and Nicaragua is one of friendship. What Rear Admiral Southard has done in attacking the Nicaraguan rebels is declared to have been purely in pursuance of a duty imposed upon the navy many times in the stormy history of Central America—that of forcibly protecting American lives and property as well as of the citizens of European nations.

The admiral has strictly refrained from intervening in any way between the warring factions in Nicaragua, and has confined himself entirely to opening up railway communication and maintaining it free from interruption that the large foreign element scattered through the Nicaraguan towns might be able to receive food.

For nearly a week after the American naval forces managed to open the way from Managua to Granada, where the rebels' forces, entrenched on two hills at Barranca, actually commanded the line of communication by rail and interfered with the free movement of supplies and prevented the unfortunate sufferers of famine from making their escape to places of safety.

Zeledon defies Americans. Admiral Southard had several interviews with the rebel chieftain after the surrender and deportation of General Mens, the principal figure in the revolution, but he found that Zeledon was not only determined to refuse any offer of amnesty held out by President Diaz, but was determined to retain the position he occupied, threatening the railroad.

The admiral was finally obliged to deliver an ultimatum warning Zeledon that after twenty-four hours' notice the American naval force would undertake to drive him from Barranca Hills. This time limit expired at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and, as the official cablegram received by Minister Castrillo today indicates, the American marines did exactly as they had undertaken to do, even at the cost of a few lives.

Both the state and naval officials are anxious to have it appear that what has been done by the American naval force was in response to a formal request from the titular government of Nicaragua, an important consideration in estimating the result of the display of force by the American marines.

Though keenly appreciative of the sentiments inspiring the Nicaraguan government in its offer to bury the dead marines in state in the city of Granada, (Continued on Second Page.)

GERMANY EXPECTS SETTLEMENT

Turkey and Greece Continue Preparation for War—Greek Consulate and Italian Embassy Are Attacked by Mob.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Great Britain and Austria-Hungary stand in the way of France's proposed intervention in the Balkans. Neither power has signed, it was admitted today, the note that Premier Poincaré proposed to submit to the Balkan states, though Germany and Russia agreed to it.

England's hesitancy is explained partly by its desire not to offend its millions of Moslem subjects by any act that might humiliate Turkey, but while Austria's holding off may be caused by a wish to know first what form intervention will take, some diplomats declared its position unaccountable in view of the justification of the plan by its ally, Germany.

GERMANY HOPES TO AVERT WAR

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The German foreign office today manifests "conditional optimism" in regard to the Balkan situation. It is believed in official circles that if the declaration drawn up in Paris with German collaboration is presented in time to Turkey and the Balkan states it probably will avert war. It is understood that some difficulties have been encountered in securing the adherence of all the great powers, but the foreign office declines to specify the capitals where this has occurred, although it is thought generally that Vienna and St. Petersburg have caused the delay.

DEMOS GIVE WILSON OVATION IN LINCOLN

Bryan and Candidate Meet for First Time Since Opening of the Campaign.

Governor Greatly Pleased and for a Time Commiserated in Home Town by Demonstration for Candidate.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 5.—(Special Telegram)—A great demonstration was given Governor Wilson when he reached Lincoln this evening. For an hour a great crowd waited at the Burlington station for the train to arrive and as it pulled in there was a noisy demonstration by steam whistles and auto horns. With the playing of half a dozen bands it made the reception the greatest ever seen in the city not excepting the celebrated homecoming of W. J. Bryan a few years ago.

pleased with his receipt shroud was upon his reception for when he alighted from the train, accompanied by Mr. Bryan and other prominent Nebraska democrats, a broad smile illumined his countenance and continued until he reached the Lindell hotel, escorted by the reception committee.

Wilson Much Pleased. of his private car virtually into the arms of Mr. Bryan, the din of cheers and cries of enthusiasm from thousands of throats, practically swallowed up the two men. They brushed the way into waiting automobiles, during a demonstration that was only the beginning of a great reception. Governor Woodrow Wilson said tonight he never saw nor imagined the like of it.

With the blowing of whistles in the factories, the tooting of automobile horns and the music of bands, the presidential nominee and the former nominee rode together through a congestion of humanity which crowded the streets of Lincoln for many blocks. There were cries of "Bryan and Wilson" and "Wilson and Bryan," for Mr. Bryan himself returned only today from a six weeks' stump tour through the west preaching the merits of the Wilson and Marshall ticket.

Bryan is Eclipsed. The former nominee sat inconspicuously behind him, his face wreathed in smiles. The character of the reception was so spontaneous and continuous throughout the city that Governor Wilson was kept busy waving his hat to the multitudes who lined the curb, stood in the streets or dotted the upper stories of the decorated buildings.

"This is great," the governor said as he turned toward Mr. Bryan frequently. "Fine, fine," was the smiling reply of the companion.

Governor Wilson and Mr. Bryan spoke together for the first time at a banquet of the democratic state committee. Cheers and enthusiasm were continuous and Governor Wilson thanked Mr. Bryan publicly for the support he gave him at Baltimore, and Mr. Bryan, in turn, appealed to the democracy "to do for Wilson twice as much as they ever did for Bryan."

"I want to express," said Governor Wilson, "on this, the first opportunity I have had since getting into Lincoln, the very deep pleasure it gives me to find myself beside Mr. Bryan. We gentlemen are free to serve the people of the United States and in my opinion it was Mr. Bryan that set me free. I think no one can have followed the course of events (Continued on Second Page.)

CARNIVAL ATTENDANCE

Table showing Carnival Attendance for 1912 and 1911, with dates and visitor counts.

AK-SAR-BEN'S great fall festival was brought to a most glorious close last evening when thousands flocked to the King's Highway to take a last look at the many sights and to join in the fun. While the carnival is closed the wild west show will give another performance this afternoon.

Taken as a whole, the festival has been a gigantic success for although rain interfered during the first week, the weather man more than made up with good weather during the closing week.

Yesterday was children's day at the carnival grounds, and in the afternoon the King's Highway was ruled by children. They were admitted for half price, or 5 cents apiece. Before noon some of them began to arrive on the carnival grounds and rapidly strode from one end of the grounds to the other, taking in everything at a glance and hurrying on to the next for fear of overlooking some of the features.

Business Men Pleased. The business men of Omaha are smiling at the business success of the days of Ak-Sar-Ben festivities which brought thousands upon thousands of people to Omaha, many of whom did much of their fall and winter shopping while here. Clothing, overcoats and cloaks were in great demand.

Better Than Last Year. The business was equally as good if not better than last year. Of course the whole benefit that Omaha merchants are to receive from the crowds that visited here has not yet come, as a great deal of money was left in the city from which the merchants will get indirect benefit for months to come.

George T. Wilson, manager Browning, King & Co. "The business was as good if not a little in excess of what it has been in past years. We did a heavy business with customers from out in the state and quite a nice business with visitors from Colorado and Wyoming. Many of these were live stock people who waited to ship their stock until

THE REAL ESTATE MAN

Here is the man, of all men, who should understand the use of Want Ads. He should realize—and most real estate men do—that everyone in Omaha who wants to rent or to buy looks first at the Want Ad pages of The Bee before making other effort to satisfy their need. This is only natural, because The Bee is the great classified medium of this state. It is the directory of rooms and board, of houses for rent and for sale, it is the place where the jobless look for jobs and the place where the employer finds the faithful employee.

If the real estate man knew of a corner where prospective real estate buyers passed all day long it's a safe bet that he would be there on the ground about fifteen hours each day.

Well, here in the Want Ads is a corner where every prospective buyer in Omaha passes each day. He not only passes but stops, looks and reads. LET THEM HELP YOU. Tyler 1000.
