AK-SAR-BEN week in order to be here for the festivities.
E. M. Levy, manager Parisian Cloak company: "Our business was very fair, but as pure is a special line of ladies' cloaks, our business was not so large as it might have been had it been colder weather, which would have called for the purchase of more cloaks. There can be no complaint, however."

Sales Are Good.
Albert Edholm: "The jewelry business during Ak-Sar-Ben week this year was much better than ever before in all the years of Ak-Sar-Ben festivities. We made many very good sales, especially of some very high priced stones and other jewelry. It has come to where the farmers, stock men and others throughout the state are buying a great deal of jewelry. The people have got over the scare of dry weather, and have ceased to be frightened by talk of disturbance over political campaigns."

Joseph Hasgen: "Business has been as good as previously and perhaps better. The merchants cannot well measure the benefit of Ak-Sar-Ben week, for even though the purchases should not be especially heavy at the time, the visit here has familiarized the people with the city and the stores and when they want anything in the future they will come to Omaha for it."

C. M. Wilhelm, Orchard & Wilhelmy company: "Business was unusually good this year. There was more goods bought at this store than ever before. People were feeling better and more prosperous than I have ever known them before when they came in for the annual festivities. The carpets and house furnishings were in great demand."

A. Freeman, manager millinery department, Orkin Bros.: "Business in this department increased 30 per cent over that of last year for the corresponding days and there were several days this year when our business increased 100 per cent over that of the corresponding day last year."

NOTES FROM BEATRICE AND GAGE COUNTY
BEATRICE, Neb., Oct. 5.—(Special).—Ernest Ehrlich, jr., of Cortland was severely burned about the hands and feet while trying to save his home from destruction by fire. In crawling through a window with some of the household effects he was also badly cut on the leg. The fire was extinguished before the house was damaged much.

The village board of Diller has passed an ordinance providing for the organization of a fire department. G. Franzen was selected as chief, and will at once proceed to organize a volunteer company.

Mahlon Neumann and Miss Bathia B. Pirie, two prominent young people of Wyoming, were united in marriage Thursday at the home of the bride's father, John B. Pirie, in the presence of a large company of guests. Rev. E. M. Reed performed the ceremony.

The governor referred to the familiar touches which the people had given him in calling him "Woody," and said he was glad he was not being regarded as "remote and cold." Mr. Bryan laughed heartily as the governor related that his "innocent in politics had caused some people in New Jersey to be mighty uncomfortable."

Mr. Bryan was given a great ovation when he arose to speak.

strong lines of constitution and stature, and that it ought to be done according to the specifications prepared and advocated by the democrats for the last sixteen years. "We have known all along what ought to have been done. If you let the contract to us we will carry out the construction according to specifications and you will have what your hearts have all along desired."

Mr. Shallenberger followed the governor with a snappy speech, which was concluded only when Chairman Hitchcock called time to permit the governor to catch the 4:30 train.

The candidate for United States senator lambasted the idea of a tariff commission all over the state of the Auditorium and pointed to his own unparalleled success in securing a 3-cent railroad fare law in Nebraska as proof that a commission couldn't deal satisfactorily with his questions.

Governor Wilson posed for a photograph at the close of the meeting and then stood over and shook hands with the crowd as it surged past the platform. Three policemen escorted the governor to the street, where a large crowd gathered, through which it took the governor's bodyguard several minutes to force a passage.

WILSON MAKES MANY TALKS

Democratic Candidate for President Has Strenuous Day in Omaha.
Governor Woodrow Wilson spent a strenuous day in Omaha, making seven speeches in as many hours to as many audiences. Dahlaner democracy, the Wilson league, Southern democratic, the Creighton democratic club and the Women's Democratic league paraded in automobiles to the Union station to receive him ten minutes after he had arrived. He was whisked to the city hall where Mayor Dahlman presented him with the key to the city and following his formal welcoming he went to the Paxton hotel. Creighton university and South Omaha where he made speeches, concluding with an address at the Auditorium in the afternoon.

The nominee was apparently non-plussed at the speed with which he was yanked about the city, but rose calmly to the occasion when he was standing on the improvised platform in front of the city hall expressed his great pleasure in welcoming democracy's leader to our city. "You are very gracious," replied the governor. "Indeed, I am deeply gratified." After the welcome ceremonies, before the candidate could seat himself in the machine in which he had been standing, the parade of the twenty automobiles bearing the reception committee was moving on.

Welcomed by Mayor.
"Governor Wilson, it is with greatest pleasure that I welcome you to our city," said Mayor Dahlman. "You have come to us as the representative of a great party of the people, and the plain people of this metropolitan city of ours share with me in a generous welcome. We are glad you have come in that you may visit with us and learn more of the resources of our city and our state and learn of the warm and generous feeling for you by our people."

"I thank you sincerely," said Governor Wilson, as he reached up to the platform and took the key, which was tied with red ribbons. "I thank you sincerely for the gracious welcome and this token of your hospitality. It is indeed pleasant to be thus received, and I assure you that I am deeply gratified. It is certainly our wish that in this growing west we may still further encourage the development of our great resources, and it will be an agreeable duty to bring this about under the new leadership in national affairs to which you have referred and with which we hope to be entrusted."

Arrived Ahead of Time.
The governor beat the Omaha reception committee to the station by ten minutes. He and his party occupied two cars on Northwestern No. 1, arriving at 9:10 o'clock. Members of the local committee got an idea that this train did not reach the station until 9:35 and so they did not hurry. The train ran into the station five minutes ahead of time, so for nearly ten minutes the democratic nominee for the presidency was entertained by the newspaper men, who assured him that while the committee was slow for some unknown reason the members would be in evidence later.

During the wait the governor of New Jersey talked politics, remarking that the outlook for his election is very bright. He said he was pleased with his meetings, that they have been largely attended and enthusiastic.

Governor Wilson did not care to make forecasts on the results in any particular states, but expressed the hope that the split in the republican ranks would give him the electoral vote of a number of those in the north.

About twenty automobiles carrying the reception committee escorted the governor from one speech-making place to the other. Mayor Dahlman was to have been a passenger in one of the cars and meet Mr. Wilson at the station, but barely succeeded in reaching the city hall in time to deliver the address of welcome.

The order of parade previously agreed upon was abandoned and the autos "fell in" any place.

In the parade were C. W. Bryan, Senator G. M. Hitchcock, W. H. Thompson, J. W. Woodrough, A. C. Shallenberger, Mayor Hootch of South Omaha, Congressman C. O. Leitch, Congressman Dan V. Stephens and W. J. Taylor, in addition to the governor's party and local newspapermen.

PROPOSAL TO SEGREGATE DISORDERLY RESORTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—A referendum on the grouping of all Chicago's disorderly resorts into one district loomed as a possibility today, in the opinion of Mayor Harrison, as the result of the investigation into vice conditions and the issuance of the additional warrants for resort keepers and others by the state attorney's office. Mayor Harrison said he favored such a referendum, although he would not inaugurate it at this time.

The announced determination of State Attorney Wayman to expedite vice entirely from Chicago today brought about the preparation of hundreds of warrants for the arrest of property owners who allow their property to be leased for disorderly purposes.

The crusade laid today took a startling turn when at the request of the state's attorney, Judge Henry C. Moran of the municipal court issued subpoenas duces tecum for the production of the key to the report of the vice commission which was made public about two years ago. The key has since remained in the archives of the commission.

is absolutely new and is now in an entirely new form.
"Just how America is straining at the leash to capture the markets of the world. We can't sell everything and buy nothing. When we do we find the rest of the world indifferent to our enterprise."

World Develop Marine.

Governor Wilson advocated with the abandonment of the tariff the development of a merchant marine.

"It has been domestic competition alone which has kept the prices down to what they are in our country and that domestic competition in recent years has begun to vanish and the resources of our country have been in progress of collection by a few favored interests.

"This Commercial Club is a body of men organized for mutual aid. All are working together for the upbuilding of Omaha and all the interests of Omaha. You are trying to interest the outside world in the resources of your city and its business facilities.

More Elastic Currency.

The speaker mentioned a need for more elastic currency as a means of avoiding panics. "A panic is not a thing," said he. "It is a condition of mind. The prosperity of this country is as much psychological as it is material.

"A few years ago business men of this country were inclined to allow things to run as they were running. 'Let us alone,' they said. You don't hear that now. Men are beginning to realize that a change must come and that it is bound to come.

The business of the country must be altered. You men must get the progress of the times and help alter it or others will alter it for you and you will be dissatisfied.

"A few years ago the railroads were objecting to the laws enacted by the state legislatures. Their lawyers and brain men, instead of getting into the progress of the times, while realizing that a change was bound to come, stood out and wanted things changed, not so that they would be of mutual betterment to the railroads and the people, but would be better for the railroads. The change finally came and the railroads now feel they are being more drastically dealt with than is necessary.

"What we need is that the business of the country should speak out and explain what it needs and it should not ask for more than the share that the people get. I would like to be the spokesman of the business of the country."

In closing Governor Wilson reiterated a statement that he was not interested in men, but in policies.

"I am not interested in the candidates of the other parties and I find it difficult to become interested in the candidates of my own party. It has been easy for me to make a nonpartisan speech."

WILSON TALKS TO LABORERS

Delivers Several Addresses on Trip to the Magic City.

Democracy in automobiles and broadcast spoke to democracy in greenhouse and broken shoes at South Omaha during the visit of Woodrow Wilson to the Magic City. At the outside not more than 1,500 hearers greeted the visit of the governor to the Live Stock exchange, Cudahy's and Armour's packing houses. The governor's speeches were short in each place and set to the noise struck by Mayor Tom Hootch, who did the honors of the occasion.

Arriving at the Live Stock exchange a little before 11 o'clock Governor Wilson, escorted by twenty-five automobiles from Omaha and South Omaha, began his speeches in the rotunda of the exchange building. Mayor Hootch in eloquent phrases introduced the city's guest as a native of Virginia, inspired with the sentiments of Thomas Jefferson. Governor Wilson at the exchange indulged in commonplaces and roused little or no enthusiasm. He commented upon the usual pleocret promises of campaigners and likened them to the oil that is poured into machines. He said that the government of the country should run free with the ease and collaboration of a perfect machine, but beyond this he said nothing that was tangible in the way of remedying the defects pointed out. Probably not more than 350 listened to his address at the exchange and practically no enthusiasm was evoked by his words or appearance.

To Early for Workmen.

Too early for the midday address to the workmen at Cudahy's, the governor's party drove out West Q street to Sixth and then after swinging around L street, arrived at Cudahy's a little after 12. At this point Mayor Hootch struck the note of benediction, the conditions of the laboring man and Governor Wilson responded with a ten-minute talk on the necessity of humanizing the government so that, as he said, the government should take at least as much care of its citizens and laboring people as the special privileged class took of machinery and live stock. "A slight burst of handclapping escorted him, but it came for the most part from the political convoy that had escorted him from Omaha. "Gee, but he do look like a preacher," was the comment of a packing house laborer as the parade swung away to Armour's where the largest crowd had congregated. Here again Mayor Hootch struck the labor note and commented upon the statutes placed upon the books of New Jersey by the governor in favor of laboring people. Governor Wil-

WILSON TALKS TO BUSINESS MEN

Delivers Nonpartisan Address at Noon at the Commercial Club.

Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey and democratic nominee for president, delivered a nonpartisan speech before the largest crowd that has ever descended to get into the Commercial club rooms. Several hundred members of the public affairs committee, which gave the luncheon were turned away.

Governor Wilson declared he was glad the club had called upon him for a nonpartisan speech because he was not interested in the arguments of political parties.

"I find it hard to draw party lines," said he. "When a man tells me what should be done to better the country or a state or a city and then begins to describe his politics to me—why the whole doesn't interest me; the two seem not to coincide."

The speaker soon entered into a discussion of the tariff. He averred that that question which is declared by some public men to be an old, worn-out topic son evidently struck by the absence of anyone but laboring men in the crowd, promised that the democrats if returned to office would create a ministry of labor whose province would be to study improvement of the laboring man's condition and relation towards his employer. "And," continued the speaker, "if the democratic party should fail to keep its promises I hope that it may never again be trusted."

Shallenberger Holds Crowd.

When the governor's party reached Armour's, A. C. Shallenberger, red-faced and dusty, was doing his best to drive home some democratic doctrine to the crowd awaiting the appearance of the governor. As the governor drew up to the curb near Armour's, the crowd laughed and turned good-naturedly to hear the words of the brighter star. George Magney accompanied Shallenberger.

Among local democrats there was much comment upon the splendid manner in which Mayor Thomas Hootch carried out the reception program. A studied attempt to throw the mayor into the background not only failed, but seemed to have the effect of putting the plotters into effective eclipse for the time at least. Heading the parade, after the auto of Chief of Police Henry Dunn of Omaha came the Wilson-Marshall club auto, with President Lew Casey, vice President Tom Ensor, Jr., secretary Frank Keegan and Treasurer J. O'Brien. Mayor Hootch rode with Governor Wilson, with whom he chatted all the way.

IDA GROVE VICTORIOUS OVER BUENA VISTA TEAM

IDA GROVE, Ia., Oct. 5.—(Special Telegram).—Ida Grove defeated the heavy Buena Vista college team from Storm Lake today by the score of 9 to 3. Ida Grove scored on a drop kick from the thirty-five-yard line by Marsh and a touchdown by Marsh, after a twenty-yard run. Buena Vista made her only score in the third quarter on a drop kick from the forty-yard line by O'Donnell. Ida Grove showed great class and kept the ball in Buena Vista territory most of the game. Marsh, Miller, O'Brien and Kirk starred for Ida Grove and Johnson and Ottmann for the visitors.

Science Understands the Stomach

Treating Indigestion with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is an Exact Science. They Give Quick Relief.

Medical men have learned more about the stomach than perhaps any other vital organ. They have discovered why the stomach rebels at certain conditions—what causes the formation of gases—what causes flatulency, heartburn, dyspepsia, burning sensation, brass, and all the other disorders of the stomach.

They have gone further. They have found remedies for all these afflictions, these results of improper digestion. They have learned that pepsin, hydrochloric acid and fruit acids are powerful digestants that relieve quickly and surely all the troubles to which the stomach is subject. They have discovered that one grain of these properties will digest 3,000 grains of food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a medicine. They are a scientific compound that supplies the stomach with the digestive agents which it itself is unable to provide. When your stomach is sick and not working right—when it fails to give out enough of the digestive juices to properly take care of the food you eat, these tablets will make up the deficiency. You will have no indigestion. Your food will digest thoroughly. You never can tell just when your stomach is going back on you. It gives no warning. If you eat a big meal, if you eat hurriedly, take one of these little tablets. You will avoid a lot of pain and misery.

Some of the most prominent men carry these tablets in their vest pockets when they attend banquets, etc., and never fail to take them.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists, at 50c a box—Advertisement.
