RIVAL MONARCHS CROWNED

Children of Kountze Place Imitate the Ak-Sar-Ben Festivities. PARADE LOADED WITH POMP. Outriders Dressed as Indians, Cowboys, Policemen and Chinamen. Protect the Parade from the Admiring Throng.

King and Queen Ak-Sar-Ben Junior have come to town to dispute with King and Queen Ak-Sar-Ben XVII the right to rule over Quivera. Amid pomp and splendor they arrived yesterday afternoon and before their subjects bowed the knee as if they were the real things.

For two or three weeks a bunch of the children in the vicinity of Seventeenth and Spencer streets, Kountze Place, have been playing the king and queen game. Yesterday they crowned the king and queen and put their parade upon the streets, passing it along on Lothrop to Twenty-second, to Wirt, to Eighteenth and then over Spencer to starting point.

When the parade started off there was a battery of outriders, all on bicycles. They were for the purpose of protecting the king and queen from any harm and for the purpose of keeping the crowds back against the curb. These outriders were dressed as Indians, cowboys, policemen, Chinamen and as everyday kids, but they got there just the same.

There were some floats and in one rode little Eleanor Knapp, dressed as a Japanese girl, and the float hung with Japanese lanterns. Then there was Raymond Russell, 4 years old, who rode as a flower boy in a float profusely decorated in pink and white and the float following carried Virginia Powell, a 4-year-old, with a color scheme of red, yellow and green. Then there was the Puritan float in red, white and blue and in it rode a huge doll, sitting up as big and bright as life.

The floats were little express and Irish mail wagons and were drawn by girls and boys who had been pressed into the service as serfs of the kingdom of young Quivera.

The idea of putting on the parade was the scheme of Sallie Cary and was worked out by her and Margie and Mercedes Shepard, the three constituting the board of governors.

About fifty children took part in the parade, none of them being more than 12 years of age and most of them considerably younger. Tin horns and squeakers furnished the music for the occasion.

Bold Robbers Take Large Amount From Merchant in Store

While he was making change from his cash drawer for two negro men who pretended to be customers, William Schaefer, proprietor of the Mid-West Tailoring company at 428 North Twenty-fourth street, South Omaha, was set upon last night by the men, and after being badly beaten, was bound and gagged. The money drawer was then rifled and $112 was taken. The holdup occurred at 9:30 o'clock, while thousands of persons were passing the place. Both robbers escaped and at midnight the police had no clue to their identity. Schaefer was found upon the floor of a back room by James Dunn, R. W. Sinclair and R. Herrod, who entered an hour later.

Howard Getting Good Support for Auditor

As a result of his campaigning to date in all parts of the state, W. E. Howard feels confident that he will win out for state auditor in the election as signally as he won the nomination in the republican primary. "Everywhere I have been," says Mr. Howard, "I have met with gratifying assurances of support, not only from republicans, but on personal grounds from voters of other parties. I expect to keep at it up to the time the polls open, and for the first time bring this office to an Omaha man. Although my competitor is from Omaha, that cannot give any one outside any reason for opposing me because of my residence." The strong point which Mr. Howard's friends are making for him is that he has

Harvard Victorious in Holy Cross Game

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 6.—Harvard easily defeated Holy Cross Saturday, 19 to 6. Three crimson touchdowns were made in the first two periods, but two easy goals were missed. In the last two periods Harvard sent in an entire substitute team and Holy Cross worked the ball to the crimson fifteen-yard line before aggressive work by the Harvard forwards drove the visitors back and blocked a field goal. The speed of Harvard's first eleven in the early part of the game was a surprise to those who had watched the slow work with the University of Maine last week. In the last part of the game both teams used the forward pass effectively, Holy Cross gaining forty-five yards on two throws.

Old Eli Exhibits Bull Dog Spirit; Defeats Syracuse

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 6.—Placing in form markedly improved over that shown in the two preceding games, Yale defeated Syracuse here Saturday, 21 to 6. The first score was made in two minutes after the game started, when Flynn, a new man in the back field, circled the Syracuse right end and ran twenty yards for a touchdown. Flynn and Phillips scored a touchdown each in the second period. Marble kicked all three goals. In the third and fourth periods, Yale sent in a lot of substitutes. Frequent fumbling throughout the game proved costly to the visitors. Captain Spaulding of Yale did not play owing to a slight illness.

Political Notes

George W. Perkins made public a letter written to Colonel William J. Bryan, replying to utterances of the Nebraska in speeches delivered in Kansas in the interest of Governor Wilson.

A progressive state ticket was filed with the secretary of state of Minnesota. Judge B. B. Lindsey of Colorado opened the progressive campaign in Wisconsin with an address at Milwaukee. When Colonel Roosevelt reached Oyster Bay from New York he said he intended to have forty-eight hours of rest with his family. He gave instructions that no one should be permitted to see him.

The date for independent filings upon the state ticket of South Dakota has passed and none has been presented other than that of James Fowler for supreme court judge in the First district. Mrs. J. H. Johnson of Fort Pierre, former head of the equal suffrage organization of South Dakota, left for Oklahoma where she takes part in the national campaign under the Roosevelt committee.

Dorsey Green of Kansas City, Kan., the negro Roosevelt elector, who refused to resign his place on the republican ticket with the other Roosevelt electors, receded from his position and sent his resignation to the secretary of state. Members of the Taft republican state central committee of California completed the organization of that body at a meeting and discussed the situation arising from the state supreme court's decision denying Taft electors a place on the ballot.

Bull Moose Merriam Disguises His Face

The latest convert to the smooth-face brigade is Nathan Merriam, the official bull mooser for Nebraska. Mr. Merriam has come to this state on the installment plan, having formerly worn side whiskers, which were eliminated, leaving him the moustache, which has now succumbed to the barber's razor. Mr. Merriam's friends ascribe his present almost unidentifiable countenance to his fear of being recognized by them in bull moose company.

Now You Can Get Beer Without That "SKUNKY" Taste! Image of a man holding a glass of beer.

All you have to do is to ask for Schlitz in Brown Bottles. Sunlight grows hops, but spoils the beer.

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable, so-called 'light taste,' and also a repulsive, skunk-like odor," says no less an authority than the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, the scientific authorities on the subject. "Beer so affected," they say, "is offensive to the palate of most consumers."

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. The Brown Bottle protects Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass. Why don't you, too, drink Schlitz? More and more people every year are demanding it.
