

GREEKS MOBILIZING HERE

Come from Railroad Camps All Over the West.

LEAVING FOR THE SEAT OF WAR

Trainload Leaves for the East on Wednesday Night and Small Bunches Are Going on Every Train.

Greeks are beginning to flock into Omaha from all sections of the surrounding territory, and most every train out of this city for the east carries small bands bound for their native country to take up arms against the Turks.

A trainload of Greeks left here Wednesday evening and more will follow every day this week. George Yemison, who is prominent among the local subjects of King George, is one of the impatient ones and he is engaged now in organizing a party to leave here today.

It had been planned to hold a mass meeting of Greeks in Bright hall Sunday afternoon, but it now appears doubtful whether there will be enough arm-bearing men left in town by that time to make any appearance of an assembly.

Every Greek in town who is strong enough to fight has wound up his business affairs, too impatient to await general orders, and is hurrying to the front. Only scattering handfuls are leaving at this time, many patriots waiting to board a ship that leaves the port of New York on the 15th of this month. Many Omaha Greeks will take passage on this boat.

Governor Aldrich Talks Fraternalism

Governor Chester H. Aldrich placed the subject of politics on a high shelf when he addressed a joint meeting of over 200 members of the Ancient Order of United Workmen in their temple at Fourteenth and Dodge streets last night.

The governor took for his subject "Fraternalism," and not once did he deviate from his chosen topic. He praised fraternalism and the object of the order. He urged the members to take the object of fraternalism to heart and advocated a plan whereby the local orders would be governed by one board or committee of men as the state banks are governed by the state and the national banks by the government.

Among other speakers were State Treasurer Walter A. George, State Architect Burd F. Miller, Deputy Oil Inspector Lawrence Donahue and Dr. A. D. Dunn. The latter urged the members to study the insurance end of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, declaring that the time was surely coming and was not far off when the insurance rates of the order would be increased. Following the speaking a reception was held for the state officers and a light lunch and cigars were served.

Young Hebrews Plan Aid for Immigrants

Work for the coming year was outlined at a meeting of the Young Men's Hebrew association in the Wellington building last night. President William L. Holman welcomed the members. A number of new members were present.

A literary society was organized, of which Chairman Rees will be the head. Its first meeting will be Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rabbi Cohn will have charge of the Bible and Jewish history class, which also was initiated.

A night school for immigrants, which will be an important part of the work of the year, will hold its first meeting Monday, October 14, at 7:30 o'clock.

APPRAISERS' REPORT HOLDS

Damages for Opening Twenty-Eighth Avenue Fixed at $12,700.

HOWELL LOANS THE CITY MONEY

Water Board is to Occupy the Offices Formerly Used by the City Treasurer and Other City Hall Rooms.

At a special meeting of the city commission yesterday the report of the appraisers, fixing the damage on account of the opening of Twenty-eighth avenue for a water main at $12,700, was approved. Water Commissioner Howell, who urged quick action in opening the street because contractors are ready to lay the main there, tendered the $12,700 as a loan to the council to pay the damages at once, instead of waiting for the taxes which will be levied to be paid.

A resolution was drawn up and the agreement entered into. The council will refund the money in February.

Gets New Quarters. The water board was given the offices formerly occupied by the city treasurer, the east end of the scavenger tax department, the basement beneath the city clerk's office and the rest of the basement, provided the county commissioners will store the voting machines at the new county building.

Fireman's Heroism Saves Lad from Death Under Engine Wheels

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Oct. 10.—In a daring act of heroism, Milo C. Dodge, fireman on the Milwaukee railroad, last evening saved the life of Gerald Aillard, the 21-year-old son of J. Aillard, a South Dakota farmer, by crawling out on the pilot and kicking the child from the track as the train sped by.

The little boy, who landed in a ditch by the track, suffered minor injuries about the head and body. When Engineer Ben A. Rose looked out of his cab window along the Milwaukee right-of-way between Jefferson and McCook, S. D., he observed a tiny form playing on the track. The engineer strained at the brakes and the whistle shrieked alarm.

The child was picking up pebbles and the train was approaching at thirty-five miles an hour. Seeing the train could not be stopped, Fireman Dodge jumped out on the running board and made his way to the pilot. While the train was going fifteen miles an hour he reached out with his foot and knocked the little boy from the track.

Suit Filed to Test New Periodical Law

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Suit to test the right of the government to enforce the federal law of August 24, 1912, requiring newspapers and periodicals to publish their circulation figures twice a year and imposing other publicity requirements was filed in United States district court here today by the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin company, publishers of the Journal of Commerce.

The suit is directed against Postmaster General Hitchcock, Attorney General Wickham, United States District Attorney Wise and Postmaster Morgan of New York.

The petitioner charges that the law is unconstitutional and prays for a temporary injunction restraining its enforcement until final adjudication. It also requests that the defendants be required by subpoena, to answer.

Back of the action, according to Robert C. Morris of counsel for the complainant is the American Newspaper Publishers' association. The association decided recently to file a test suit and the Journal of Commerce, Mr. Morris said in filing its petition, has the sanction and cooperation of the association.

OHIO PHYSICIAN PLEADS GUILTY TO SOLICITING BRIBE

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10.—Following a full confession, in which he implicated other legislators and men "higher up," to Attorney General Hogan last Sunday, Dr. George B. Nye, representative in the last legislature from Waverly, Pike county, late today pleaded guilty to having solicited a bribe for his vote on the Kimball bill.

The indictment to which he pleaded guilty, charged that he solicited a bribe of $1,000 from B. F. Kimball, the author of the bill, on April 18, 1911. The bill provided for the restricting of the Pills and Adams county judicial districts. Dr. Nye was not sentenced today and probably will not be until after the grand jury is reconvened.

TWO STREET CARS COLLIDE

Passengers on Harney Car Have Miraculous Escape This Morning.

TRY TO JUMP FROM WINDOWS

Conductor of Runaway Car Prevents Passengers from Leaping to the Ground—No One Is Injured, but Cars Damaged.

Passengers on two northbound Harney street cars miraculously escaped serious injury at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, when car No. 178 backed into car No. 184 at Thirty-third street and Lincoln boulevard. Both cars were badly smashed and the passengers shaken up and bruised.

Motorman E. A. Short on car No. 178 stopped his car at Hamilton street to let a passenger off. When he started the motor the wheels slipped on wet leaves on the rail. Although he applied his brakes, he could not prevent the car from sliding down the hill, and at Lincoln boulevard it crashed into the front end of car No. 184.

Car Is Wrecked. The rear of the car was almost entirely smashed and the windows in the car were nearly all broken. The front end of car No. 184 was entirely demolished, and the motorman narrowly escaped being cut by falling glass.

Many of the passengers tried to jump from the car while it was sliding down the steep hill, but Conductor Pete Mulligan prevented them from doing so, knowing if they did so serious injuries would be the result. Otto Selgren was the motorman on car No. 184 and Roy Taylor the conductor.

Commercial Club is Now Boosting Its Membership

Enthusiasm is increasing in the membership campaign recently inaugurated by the Commercial club. The club membership committee pledged itself two weeks ago to add 100 names to the roster before the club enters the new quarters in the Woodmen of the World building. At the last meeting of the committee it was found thirty-eight names had been added. The executive committee of the club also has entered into the competition and threatens to become as active as the membership committee itself.

The club will move into the new quarters between October 15 and 21. Beginning October 12 the membership committee will hold daily meetings.

LITTLE DELAY EXPECTED FROM SUIT AGAINST BOARD

Little delay of construction of the new water main from Florence to Omaha is expected to result from the impending suit of the city of Florence against the Water board to enjoin tearing up of the Florence streets to construct the main. Florence will sue in retaliation for the Water board's refusal to pay Florence taxes on waterworks property located in Florence. The city contends that public utility property is exempt from taxation. The Florence city authorities assert such property is exempt only within the limits of the community which owns it. The Florence authorities say since Omaha will not pay taxes it will refuse Omaha the right to tear up Florence streets.

Delay from an injunction probably will be avoided by having the city give bond to protect the city of Florence against any loss or damage and to bind Omaha to pay for any loss or damage that occurs.

STIEHM WORKING MEN TO WIN FROM AGGIES

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 10.—At least one man does not expect such an easy time with the farmer-collegians from Manhattan, Kan., in the Saturday football game on the Nebraska schedule. That one person is Coach Stiehm, who took his workers on the athletic field for secret signal practice.

Stiehm during the week has had his squad busy working on new plays and formations, but according to a statement by him, these are not solely for the benefit of Minnesota, whom the Cornhuskers meet a week from Saturday. On the contrary, says Stiehm, a large part, or all of the fancy formations, will be necessary if the local players are to carry off the laurels in the game next Saturday.

Culls from the Wire

Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio and the party that accompanied him to San Francisco to select the Ohio site at the Panama Pacific International exposition were welcomed formally. A net loss of $3,000,000 a year in the revenues of the express companies and the railroads would result from putting into effect the express rates proposed by the Interstate Commerce commission, according to figures submitted by the companies. The Fort Dearborn massacre, October 3, 1827; Perry's victory on Lake Erie, of the same date, and the Chicago fire, which started October 8, 1871, were commemorated in Chicago by public ceremonies. The jury for the trial of Charles Becker, former New York police lieutenant, accused of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was still incomplete at the close of a tedious examination of more than seventy witnesses.

Lives in One County, Pays Taxes in Three

W. A. Cary, a ranchman from Lewellen, Garden county, although he is an old timer in that community and has never moved from the spot where he first settled, has lived in three counties and paid taxes in the three counties of Cheyenne, Deuel and Garden. Mr. Cary, who is an enthusiastic Taft man, told the story of his tri-county residence at republican state headquarters this morning.

He settled in what was Cheyenne county on a ranch near Lewellen. Later the county was divided leaving him in Deuel county. More recently the fight for the county seat arose and when it was decided the county seat must be moved from Chappell farther north, Chappell asked for another division of the county in order that it might still be the county seat of one section. They won. Cary suddenly found himself living in Garden county where he now resides. Considering the size of his county, he says he is not certain that his ranch will always be even in Garden county.

REVOLVER REFUTES STORY

Fails to Show Marks of Having Been Fired but Once.

DEFENSE SPRINGS A SURPRISE

Weapon Had Been Kept Since the Killing and Was Produced for the First Time in the Trial of Pugilist.

Defense in the murder trial of Sebastiano Pugilist, charged with the murder of Constable John A. Woods, sprung a surprise on the state when it reopened the case and in rebuttal testimony attacked the testimony of Fred Henderson, one of the state's star witnesses.

Fred Henderson had testified for the state that after shooting Woods Pugilist failed to explode. The defense produced the revolver used by Pugilist and Alfio Garrotto, proprietor of a grocery store at Sixth and Pierce streets, who said he found the weapon back of his store.

The five chambers of the gun contained four unexploded cartridges and one exploded one. On the unexploded cartridges there were no impressions to indicate they had been struck by the hammer but had failed to explode. Garrotto swore he found the gun in the alley back of his store the day after the shooting of Woods and gave it to a friend a Pugilist. The revolver was kept by the defense. See use in rebutting the testimony of the state.

Pugilist identified the revolver as the weapon with which he killed Woods.

It was also decided to loan to the Omaha public library the horn which was presented to the association by Delays Hose company.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Andy Dupont Dies with Last Thought for 'Ol' Violin.'

END OF MOST TURBULENT LIFE

John B. Watkins Explains that O Street Objectors Merely Want Road to River in Return for Tax as Pledged.

Andy Dupont, former pugilist and police character of South Omaha, died at the South Omaha hospital yesterday evening as the result of knife wounds sustained in a brawl with Charles Lewis last Sunday morning. His last word was a whisper to the hospital nurses to take care of his old violin, which during all his tumultuous life he had kept with him. Dupont, although warned by the hospital attendants of the seriousness of his condition, would not believe that death was near and refused to make a dying statement.

The turbulent stream of his life had been stirred by so many storms and cross-currents that he had come to take danger as a matter of course, and when the nurses and police insisted that he could not live Andy laughed at their fears. He said he would recover. Yesterday, however, there seemed to come a misgiving in the confident soul of the old fighter and, realizing that death was pushing him hard against the ropes in his battle for life, Andy raised his head enough to whisper his last wish to the pretty nurse who bent over him: "Joe take care of my 'ol' violin," he said, between gasps of pain, "and my banjo, too. That violin cost $200," he added with a touch of pride.

A little later in the evening the weary fighter took the last count and the police prepared to write murder against the name of Charles Lewis, who is charged with the death of Dupont.

Dupont was about 60 years of age. He is survived by a son and daughter, who are said to live in Kansas City. His son, Edward Dupont, is an employee of Swift's in that city. For many years the dead man had been a police character. Over twenty years ago he killed Fred Walker of this place in a prize fight. Since that time he has drifted in and out of South Omaha, a piece of human wreckage with all the finer things of life apparently crushed out of him except his love for music. Those who know him for many years say his love for his 'ol' violin' was the one redeeming feature of his latter days. He was of giant build even to his death, but the result of his labor always went to the saloons. The night in which he met his death occurred while he and his companions were drinking last Sunday morning in a hotel at Twenty-sixth and M streets. Lewis, the man he killed for the killing, asserts that Dupont came along with a hatchet and that he was forced to defend himself with his knife. The fight originated in a quarrel over a ditching contract which the two men were to work on that week. The body of Dupont was turned over to Deputy Coroner Bernard Larkin.

Watkins Wants Bridge.

John B. Watkins, chairman of the O street property owners who are protesting the payment of the new improvement tax on that thoroughfare, stated last night at a meeting of the protestants that if the city council would complete the roadway to the river bank, as was originally planned, no one would object to the cancellation of the tax in question. A committee meeting held in the city hall last night on the recommendations of Watkins and the council will probably be asked to build a viaduct over the Burlington tracks on O street near the river bank. Attorney E. D. Sullivan was employed to collate the facts of the original petitions for the O street improvement.

"We wanted a bridge across the river," said Watkins in an interview. "That was the purpose of grading and paving O street to the river. If the city will finish the work and build, or have built, a viaduct over the tracks at that point I am certain there will be no more talk of tax cancellation. I do not want to cancel the tax. I want the city to complete the work it began and finish a roadway to the river bank, so that we may get a bridge and bring in cattle from the other side of the river at that point. I wanted a bridge at that point originally and I still want it. I shall do everything in my power to realize the dream of South Omaha in this direction."

While the offer of the O street property holders to pay the tax if the council will complete the roadway to the river seems easy enough, there is the objection that the Union Stock Yards claims a strip of ground which the city at large also claims. It was formerly said that the city would have to build a viaduct to gain title to the land in question. Others maintain that the city obtained title when it complied with the clause of the deed which specified that a road be opened to a point lying between the tracks and the river bank. Now the Stock Yards claims the Thomas property. In which case the city will either have to cancel the O street tax or litigate the claim to the Thomas strip before the projected improvement way can be built to the projected bridge across the river.

The city attorney's office has insisted that the title to the Thomas track vested in the city when the city completed a roadway, even an unopened one, to the river. It has also held that the mention of the viaduct in the Thomas deed did not mean that the city had to construct a viaduct, but that a way under the viaduct when constructed was to be reserved.

Polish Carnival Plans.

In the opening of the big carnival in South Omaha next Sunday, leaders of the Polish Home association say the biggest venture ever inaugurated by the Polish people of Nebraska will be on. The show, which will last throughout the week, has for its purpose the increase of the building fund of the Polish home that is to be erected in South Omaha at a cost of between $30,000 and $50,000. President Thomas Kosial, editor of the Polish Star, and the executive committee said yesterday evening that all arrangements for the big show had been practically concluded and good weather was the main desire left to be realized.

All the better entertainment from the Omaha shows has been secured and new amusements never before seen in South Omaha have also been provided. A diamond ring valued at $100 will be given to the most popular young woman on the grounds. Dancing, speeches, singing and many booths will make the big show attractive to everyone. It is the belief of the leaders of the Polish Home association that both South Omaha and Omaha will give a large support to the local society because of the fact that the Polish residents of South Omaha have never before appealed for the support of the citizens at large. More than 200 men, merchants and others, are on the executive committee of the association.
