Has Old Home Painted on Wall.

There is one Omaha man who does not need to depend on memory for the picture of his childhood home. This is Mr. Henry Hiller, who has just had painted on the west wall of the dining room in his home on West Farnam street a reproduction of the place in the old country where he was born. The picture is painted on the wall itself and occupies the entire side of the room. It looks like a real old tapestry and is really a handsome painting in oils which it has taken an artist a month to produce.

The picture shows Mr. Hiller's home as it was in his childhood days and as he and Mrs. Hiller have seen it on their trips abroad. It has changed very little in the last half century. In fact, tradition has it that the place is very much the same as it was when it was first occupied by the Hiller family some two hundred and fifty years ago.

The home as seen on the painting at the Hiller residence has a delightfully old-world look. It nestles at the foot of the Harts mountains in Bavaria—among the oaks and shrubs and tannebaum-tinted, in soft, rich October shades of brown, green and gold.

To the left of the house itself, a gray stone two-story dwelling with a cheerful red roof—the whole almost covered by a centuries-old grape vine, whose green leaves and tendrils rising from a stalk as thick as a tree trunk, climb to the very top of the little red chimney.

In front of the house is the quaint old mill. The mill house, where the grain of many harvests has been ground in gray stone, like the dwelling place, the little low wheel gently ruffles the bluish-green water of the peaceful stream, where a swan floats majestically. Two other swans are just entering the water from the bank. The most vivid remembrance Mr. Hiller has of this stream is that of his and his eight brothers and sisters being dipped into its chilly waters every morning before breakfast.

On the three other walls of the Hiller dining room are paintings of castles and natural scenery along the Rhine. The trees and plants are in the same autumn colors as those in the picture of Mr. Hiller's home.

Mrs. Lobingier in Civic Work.

The many friends of Mrs. Charles S. Lobingier, who with Judge Lobingier has resided for the last few years in the Philippines, will be interested to learn of her active participation in a "city beautifier" campaign being launched in Manila this fall. As president of the Society for the Improvement of Women, which was organized in the Lobingier home in Calle Marcelino last August, Mrs. Lobingier was chosen a member of the welfare committee to engineer the work of making Manila more beautiful and sanitary. On the committee are also the president of the Merchants' association, the Anti-Tuberculosis society, the Philippine Chamber of Commerce, the Economic association and the Association of Proprietors.

Miss Tukey at Pan-Hellenic. Miss Ethel Tukey left last week for Evanston, Ill., to attend the conference of the National Pan-Hellenic association, at which representatives of all national college sororities will be present. Miss Tukey will be one of the representatives of Delta Gamma sorority. As editor of the sorority paper, the Anchor, she is a member of the national executive staff.

From Evanston, where she is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry E. Byram, Miss Tukey will go east, visiting in an official capacity chapters of Delta Gamma in the different colleges and universities. She will visit friends in Massachusetts throughout December and will not return until after the holidays.

Farrell-Lady Wedding.

Pink shading from the pale tints of the bridesmaid to the darker coloring of the American Beauty rose formed the color scheme for the appointments at the wedding of Miss Annette Lady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Van Buren Lady, to Mr. Howard Farrell. The ceremony was celebrated Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at St. Cecilia's pro-cathedral, Rev. D. P. Harrington officiating.

The Lobingier wedding march was played by the entrance of the wedding party. Bay trees, palms and pink and white susp dragons decorated the church. The bride was beautiful in her wedding gown of ivory satin embroidered in seed pearls and rubies. The gown was draped on one side with ivory chiffon and the satin court train was draped to the right side of the bodice with a pearl ornament. The long tulle veil reached to

The bride's attendants wore bonnets of tulle to match gowns and carried director's staffs tied with tulle to match. Following the wedding ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the bride party and relatives, followed by a reception from 1 to 5 o'clock. About 300 guests were present. The house decorations were Whittlesay ferns, white chrysanthemums and Killarney roses. Mrs. Lady, mother of the bride, wore purple charmuse trimmed with purple chiffon and white swandown fur. About 100 guests were present at the wedding and Mr. and Mrs. Wing left last evening for a brief wedding trip.

Long-Garlow Wedding.

A pretty wedding took place Thursday at high noon when Miss Gwendolyn Garlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Garlow of Columbus, Neb., became the bride of Mr. Grover Long. Miss Alice Fawcett of Omaha, sang "At Dawning," and the only attendant was the little ring-bearer. A large reception followed the ceremony, at which there were a number of Omaha guests. Mrs. Long is well known in Omaha musical circles, having sung here many times. After a short trip east, Mr. and Mrs. Long will be at home at Columbus after January 1.

Interesting Engagement.

In Denver was announced the engagement of Miss Gladys Hart, daughter of Mr. E. W. Hart, former of Colorado Springs, to Mr. Lawrence Phipps, Jr., son of the well-known Denver millionaire. Mr. Phipps was a Yale graduate of the same class as Mr. Denise Barkalow of this city, whom he has visited several times. Miss Hart only moved to Colorado Springs a year ago and has been back several times to visit her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Stewart, in Council Bluffs.

Hop at Fort Omaha.

A series of interesting military hops will be given at Fort Omaha this winter. The parties will be given in the post gymnasium. As the gymnasium is not large, only fifty invitations will be issued to each hop. The first of the series was given Friday evening and the ball room was brilliantly decorated with American flags, the signal corps' flags predominating.
