MYSTERY IN NELSON'S DEATH

Although Coroner's Jury Says Suicide Friends Want Investigation,

SUPPOSED THAT HE HAD MONEY

Old Man Had One Leg Useless and I Cannot Be Understood How He Could Have Turned On the Five Jets.

Although the coroner's jury called it suicide, friends of Joseph Nelson, the janitor of the Old People's home, who was found dead in bed with the gas jets all turned on last Tuesday, think there are suspicious circumstances to warrant ther investigation. The old man had been sick with one of mbs rendered useless by a paralytic ke when he was carried to his room previous evening, making it hard to erstand how he could have gotten up d turned on five gas jets, and then ne back to bed. The disappearance of ie young man who helped take Nelson ne, and who was last seen with him, also regarded as strange. Neison's son and daughter, who had been at school in York, can think of no reason why their father should want to make away with himself; on the other hand, the fact that he was supposed to have money might have given a motive for foul play. A. L. Reed, who, as administrator of the Anna Wilson estate, paid Nelson, who had been employed by Miss Wilson, $500 last May, is trying to ascertain whether he had an account at any of the local banks where the balance of it might be on deposit.

From outward evidence the house in which Nelson died, which was the old Anna Wilson residence bequeathed to the Old people's home, must recently have closed the door of a storeroom wrenched off its hinges and fingermarks on the transom looking into another storeroom of some person looking over it rr crawling thrugh. Nothing of value, however, was kept in these rooms, and therefore nothing is known to be missing. According to those acquainted with Nelson he never had been a drinking man nor in the habit of spending money.

DERESSIVE SECRETARY REGISTERS AS REPUBLICAN

After encountering considerable diffiilty in getting what they wanted, John Lawis and John S. Helgren, chairman and ecretary, respectively, of the progressive nty committee, late yesterday aftersoon secured a copy of the registration to date from the deputy city clerk. City Clerk Flynn doubted that these men were ly authorized as the committeemen of he progressives. As the state law holds secretary of a political committeo shall be the custodian of the registra-tion and shall receipt for it when he ures it from the clerk.

The registration under date of Septem ber 3, 1912, shows J. S. Helgren registered as a republican. It appears as follows John S. Helgren, 2673 Davenport street,

When Mr. Helgren asserted he was the ecretary of the county central committee of one party, when he had registered nder the name of another, there was aturally a question at once. City Clerk Flynn, when he left the office at 4 clock, left instructions with his deputy. H. A. Primeau, not to furnish the copy to the men unless they produced the proper credentials. Mr. Helgren was led to go back to headquarters and have a copy of the minutes of the county grassive convention made. The copy of registration was then turned over to Publicity Bureau to Be Established to Also Assist Farmer.

TO ISSUE WEEKLY BULLETINS

Committee is Named to Manage the Mid-Winter Meetings to Be Held at Lincoln Week of January 20-24.

A publicity bureau has been established by the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture for the purpose of advertising Nebraska's farming resources and assisting the farmer in bettering his facilities for crop raising. The new bureau will be similar to the one now in successful operation in Kansas, although instead of periodical reports the Nebraska bureau will issue a weekly bulletin. This news will be sent to the state press for dissemination to the farmers. The general committee representing organized agriculture met at the office of the State Board of Agriculture Friday and elected the following committee to manage the annual mid-winter meetings to be held at Lincoln the week of January 20-24, 1913; Chairman, W. R. Melior; secretary, Frank G. Odell; members, E. A. Burnett, C. W. Pugsley, W. S. Whitten and C. G. Marshall.

These organizations were represented from among the twenty state organizations which hold annual meetings during the third week in January: University of Nebraska, state experiment station and department of agricultural extension; State Board of Agriculture, State Home Economics' association, Corn Improvers' association, State Horticultural society, Nebraska Pure Seed Breeders' association, State Beekeepers' association, Improved Live Stock Breeders' association, State Dairymen's association, State Conservation congress and Nebraska Rural Life commission.

The Corn Improvers' association and the State Horticultural society will combine in a big corn and fruit show during the week of organized agriculture in the City auditorium at Lincoln.
