SEPTEMBER CIRCULATION. 50,154

State of Nebraska, County of Douglas, ss: Dwight Williams, circulation manager of The Bee Publishing company, being duly sworn, says that the average daily circulation for the month of September, 1912, was 50,154.

Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me this 1st day of October, 1912. ROBERT HUNTER, Notary Public.

Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

Farmers who ride in automobiles have no time to listen to calamity talk.

As the transfer agent of disease the house fly never fails to check its baggage.

"Sparrow Smokes Cigarette."—Headline. But it may be excusable in a sparrow.

It hardly seems possible to think of Lieutenant Becker as other than a detective story creation.

The preacher who has something to say need not buy an alarm clock to wake up his congregation.

By November 5, it is presumed the American voter will have been duly instructed enough to vote.

The world's series base ball games are not over and will not be until the moving pictures all glide by.

Sane-headed men will agree that tolerance in religion has progressed further than tolerance in politics.

Philosophy teaches every man to forget himself. But how can he when he has lost a world's series?

The Balkan war affords an excuse for brushing up on the location of a few otherwise inconsequential places.

It is evident that no one can beat young Mr. McCormick in working himself up to a high pitch of anger when he tries.

The divorce lawyers get the smallest part of their business out of households where children play around the doorstep.

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. The driver of a delivery wagon can make or break a big mercantile establishment.

The practice of making about political opponents statements which cannot be substantiated has been the bane of American politics. The Outlook.

We think so, too.

Center Fielder Beveridge, a sure hitter, may but for the colonel in the ninth inning. Chicago Tribune.

Yes, but, unfortunately, he fanned out the last time he was up.

No worse heresy was ever preached than that love and reason are never chums. What incongruity exists between real love and sound reason?

No trouble has been experienced with the mills since President McKinley opened the mills. All we have to do is to keep the wheels revolving.

The educational value of these base ball series must not be overlooked. A lot of New Yorkers now for the first time know that there is a place called Boston on the map.

It turns out that Colonel Dan Lamont tipped it off to Judge Parker that the trusts were putting up that 1904 fund. Colonel Dan must have known what he was talking about.

Just fifty years ago the demand was voiced in certain quarters for the recall of President Lincoln, and a declaration that the war for the preservation of the union was a failure.

One of the designs of the new parcels post stamps will represent an aeroplane mail carrier as a forerunner of what is to come. The first postage stamp issued by our postoffice which portrayed the pony express dated less than seventy-five years back. The jump, or rather flight, is history in a nutshell.

A Titanic Achievement.

Although the construction of the Panama canal, which is to connect the two great oceans, is fast approaching completion, few people have as yet adequate conception of its magnitude.

The discovery of America could not have taken place much earlier than it did for lack of the magnetic compass, nor could it have been long delayed after possession of that instrument keyed up the daring mariners of that day to sail beyond the sight of land.

In no previous age could an enterprise so vast as this have been carried through; that is to say, it would have required a time so long and an expenditure so prodigious that no national government would have attempted it.

What we need evidently is a reform that will reduce the temperature of our political contests. In base ball, and in foot ball, a mediating board, representing the various associations, gets together in advance of the season and fixes the rules.

The Panama canal was plainly destined to be an achievement of modern Titans. It marks the great transfiguration of the surface of the globe wrought by human hands.

The Chautauqua as "The Great American Forum," is the subject of an article in the current World's Work, in which the writer confers upon Mr. Bryan the distinction of being the only one of the top-liners "who can draw his fee (its value in attendance) on a chautauqua or lyceum course."

But Mr. Bryan's friends have always insisted that he was "not out for the money," which opens up a still more interesting aspect of the case. Admitting that $50,000 a year is a comfortable income for a man who cares little for the money, the fact that Mr. Bryan has preached his political hobbles from these platforms makes his emoluments all the greater.

Royal Doctor on Our Race Suicide. The physician to the royal family of Spain, now visiting in the United States, is struck by the prevalence of our race suicide, which he attributes to an apparent lack of religious feeling.

The majority of American women need no defense of their sense of these solemn responsibilities. But every thoughtful person knows that this criticism is not wholly false or unfair.

Merely approximate accuracy of these figures would be enough to illustrate the importance of the point made. Here is a factor in our high cost of living problem unrelated to politics and well within our power to readjust.

Street Car Manners.

It would be difficult to fit drawing-room amenities upon street car crowds, though one might wish some code of ethics possible of enforcement upon the latter.

The Heat of the Campaign.

In a political combat, however, the heat of the campaign is too often taken to excuse and justify reckless disregard of all the rules of conduct observed in every other relation.

Looking Backward This Day in Omaha

Compiled from Bee files. OCTOBER 22.

Thirty Years Ago—Rose Eytling and her dramatic company held forth at the Boyd in "Lead Astray."

The Japanese minister and his attendants, accredited to this country and Austria, passed through the city.

Twenty Years Ago—Judge M. R. Hopewell of the district court left for his home at Tekamah to remain until Monday, when he would return to his judicial duties in Omaha.

The New Military Hardship.

In the language of the immortal Mikado, "Here's a how-de-do" with brass buttons on it.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Burgess went to Kansas City for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bingham celebrated their golden wedding at the Kountze Memorial Lutheran church.

People and Events

When the Americanized Greeks meet the standpat Turks, then comes the real tug of war.

Denver gets $1,000,000 for its city hall and the site, the main consideration being the ground.

A meager $20,000 a year is the sum total of the income of an expert professional grafter in the Ohio legislature.

Base ball strategists continue discussing the whys and wherefores of the Red Sox victory and the Giants' defeat.

Some of the witnesses before the senate committee investigating campaign contributions appear to have gotten credit for putting in a great deal more money than they really did.

Thomas J. Ryan, former councilman of Philadelphia, who snuffed off his own life a few weeks ago, left in trust for his wife an estate valued at $500,000.

Josephine, in treating your scalp for dandruff, it is necessary to keep it as clean as possible.

Again we ask that pertinent question--- Why, O! Why should you pay $200 to $250 per carat for diamonds when our well organized buying power can secure the gems of the world for you at from $150 to $175 per carat?

SECULAR SHOTS AT THE PULPIT

Boston Transcript: According to Dr. Moss, the church is finding it harder and harder to get and hold "the man of power."

New York Mail: There is said to be a dearth of university graduates entering the Protestant ministry.

Louisville Courier-Journal: A colored evangelist in Georgia is reported to have died of injuries sustained while conducting a protracted meeting.

DOING RIGHT.

Leslie's Weekly. Get up right in the morning. Go to bed right at night. Start with joy in your heart, hope in the future, kindness in your purpose.

"If it is a dark day, never mind; you will lighten it up. Give a word of cheer, a kindly greeting and a warm handshake to your friends."

"If you have enemies, look up, pass them by, forget and try to forgive."

"If all of us would only think how much of human happiness is made by ourselves there would be less of human misery."

"If all of us would bear in mind that happiness is from within and not from without, there would be a wellspring of joy in every heart and the sun would shine forever."

SUNDAY SMILES.

"Truth," remarked the Philosopher, thoughtfully, "is by common consent at the bottom of the well. Yet, in these days, why do they try to raise it from the well by hot air?"

"Good gracious, you don't dare to send out all that abuse of the candidate, do you?"

"Sure, I do. It's all understood between us; if we abuse and he gets the advertising."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Just listen to the baby!" said young Mrs. Tolkins architect. "He's trying to yell his head off!"

"And isn't it pleasant! The precocious pet sounds as if he were at a ball game and our side had made a home run."—Washington Star.

Bobbs—A deliberate lie is often pretty hard to swallow. Slobs—Well, the truth isn't always pleasant to the taste, either.—Philadelphia Record.

"It's difficult for a man to be a candidate and a political boss at the same time."

"No," replied Senator Sorghum; "the method is different. The candidate is supposed to get votes by shaking hands with people, and the boss is supposed to get them by shaking his fist at them."—Washington Star.

"What's this space marked off for?" demanded an architect. "A laboratory," said the druggist, solemnly and defiantly.

"What do you want with a laboratory?" A worn druggist sells everything but drugs.

"Well, I've got to have some place to mix my pills, haven't I?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.
