VETERANS ACTIVE FOR TAFT ROOSEVELT PACKS TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

Members of Grand Army Posts Take Deep Interest in Campaign.

WILSON INTENSE SOUTHERNER This is Most Potent Reason Old Soldiers Urge Against Democracy's Candidate for the Presidency.

By CHARLES D. HILLEN, Chairman Republican National Committee, NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(Special.)—Union veterans of the civil war are supporting the president loyally. Their influence as well as their votes will be a mighty factor in the result on election day.

A veteran of prominence writing to President Taft, says: "We wish to see justice done to you for what you have done for the veterans."

He stamped New Jersey for Lincoln in 1860 and he is confident Taft will win. This old soldier, expressing the sentiment of his comrades, says they have "no use" for the southern bird and bred schoolmaster, whose boyhood was spent in the Shenandoah valley when General Sheridan's troopers rode through, laying it waste as a necessity of war.

Members of grand army posts are taking a vital interest in the Taft campaign and each is an active advocate for the president's re-election. Having fought for the preservation of the union, the old soldiers are interested in its prosperity and further development along right lines, and from all sections of the north and west veterans write that the "men behind the guns," the "boys in blue" of another day, are staunch Taft men.

Another grand army veteran writes that he is especially proud of the republican party for two reasons, because it refused a third term to General Grant, his commander, and because in Chicago, last June, it refused a third term to Roosevelt.

"And when his mask fell off," he continues, referring to the present Third term, "to be is not a republican, but a bull moose. It is a blessed thought to me and those who think with me, that he no longer is recognized as a member of the republican party."

"All the spirit of unrest, suspicion, clamor for a change," this veteran continues, "can be traced to the activity of this man and his co-conspirators against Taft. How any old soldier can vote for either Roosevelt, another Bolivar, or for Wilson, whom Bryan uses as a 'King's Pawn,' I cannot understand. We have a just president, without narrow-minded prejudices or bigoted faith. But the most potent reason why no old soldier should vote for Wilson, who after all is Taft's chief contender, is that he is intensely southern, his boyhood days were spent amid the crash of contending armies led by Banks at Cedar mountain, by Shields at Kernstown; in both of which battles Stonewall Jackson commanded the confederates and was soundly whipped; Hunter's raid at Lynchburg; Early's dashes up the valley; the real 'rough riding' of Sheridan at Cedar Creek; his 'whirling down' the Shenandoah valley; his drastic occupation and final subduing, the surrender of Appomattox, all these scenes are too deeply impressed on Wilson's memory for him to give the old Grand Army soldier justice. He is extremely southern in all his views and ideas. At Vineland, in the state of which he is now governor, he snubbed the veterans and their wives; he is inimical to the interests of the union soldiers and should not obtain a vote from one of them."

It is especially gratifying to have behind you in a national campaign the old "Boys in Blue," the remnant of that great army which laid down its arms when the immortal Lincoln said, "Let us have peace."

In the name of the president I wish to thank them for their support and to assure them that with the re-election of President Taft the nation will be safely guarded, and that then it can be said with the fullest significance, "The government at Washington still lives."

Presbyterians Say Ordinary Street Fair Is Danger to Morals

HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 19.—(Special Telegram.)—The ordinary street fair vaudeville exhibition may be a good money getter, but is a poor advertisement of a town's judgment of entertainment and a lamentable danger to morals.

It was a remark greeted with applause by the Presbyterian synod of Nebraska at its popular meeting tonight. The speaker was M. B. McNutt of Chicago, secretary of the rural church department of the Board of Home Missions. He rehearsed the achievements of the denomination in solving this most grave problem of rural church perpetuation. He advocated a broadening of the activities of such country church communities by the introduction of organized athletic, lyceum courses, social clubs and singing classes.

Omaha university was commended by the synod for its healthy growth on foundations that are decidedly Christian. Daniel E. Jenkins, D. D., the president, presented the report.

W. W. Tate, D. D. of Tecumseh, and Alexander Corkey, D. D. of Wayne, reported their official visit to the Omaha theological seminary speaking favorably of its material plant and creditable work. Church federation in Nebraska was reported by Rev. Frank P. Wigton of Lincoln, secretary of the Nebraska field work, according to his report several communities in the state are working out successfully the former problem of two or more denominations worshipping and working together in harmony.

North church, Omaha, was selected as the place for next year's meetings. The invitation of the church was enforced by a telegram of welcome from the Omaha Commercial club.

Sunday will be a day full of special religious services about the synod. Many of the local pulpits will be filled by commissioners of the synod.

In some manner it was discharged, the load taking effect in the right breast, some of the shot entering his lung. Attending physicians have some hopes for his recovery.

Wilson Able to Sew On Buttons

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 19.—"Has anybody a needle and thread?" The question came from Governor Woodrow Wilson, as he looked inquiringly toward some members of his party gathered at breakfast in his private car today.

"I lost a button at a strategic point," laughed the governor. "Will white thread do?" someone asked.

"Yes, I think so," was the reply, and a few minutes later the democratic presidential nominee was sitting on the edge of the bed in his stateroom patiently threading a needle and sewing a lower button on his coat. The governor left his special car at Princeton Junction early today and went to his home in Princeton to get garments suitable for his meetings tonight in Carnegie hall, New York, and Academy of Music, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Wilson had gone to New York and nobody was at home, so the governor decided to get the clothes himself. When he returned he discovered the missing button.

CLAIMS TO HAVE MADE SOME INROADS ON LIQUOR TRAFFIC

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 19.—Mrs. Stevens of the Women's Christian Temperance union said in her address that the past year has been one of notable progress toward total abstinence in this country. Increased numbers of railroads have prohibited the use of liquor by their operatives, she said, and declined to serve liquors on their dining cars. As another evidence of the progress of abstinence, she pointed to the discrimination by life insurance companies against users of any intoxicants.

Mrs. Stevens declared that the high cost of living is to some extent due to the use of intoxicants. Quoting military authorities to fortify her contentions, she urged that renewed efforts be made to prevent the repeal of the army anti-canteen laws.

The president recommended that the organization work for the passage of a bill to prevent interstate shipment of liquors into prohibition states.

CORKED BOTTLE FLOATS FROM OHIO TO CALIFORNIA

The binder, Charles Collins, 604 Phillips street, Toledo, O., sent Miss Lee the slips of paper she had put in the bottle, saying he had fished it out of Coronado bay while on a visit to California.

Captain John F. C. Hedgeswell of Louisville will make a report to the United States Coast and Geodetic survey, before the bottle passed down the Ohio, into the Mississippi, through the Gulf of Mexico, then across the Atlantic, Indian and Pacific oceans before it was finally washed upon the coast of California.

Religion and Medicine

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D. Is there any intimate relation between religion and medicine?

mankind are a great deal better prepared to meet the vicissitudes of life and to overcome disease than the one who has no such faith. A truly religious man makes a better patient than an irreligious man.

In using the word religion I am not referring to any particular kind of religion. The Jew and the gentile, the Catholic and the Protestant, each have a religion in which they believe. They also agree in the essentials.

A religious man may believe that it is necessary for him to use every means in his power to get well. He may believe that it is perfectly proper for him to employ doctors and take medicines. But he also believes that when he has done the best he can there is a higher power that has charge of his affairs, that absolute justice will be done him, that no evil thing can befall a good man. He goes forward with confidence, sick or well, rich or poor, and gets a great deal more comfort out of life than the man who has no religion.

I have found myself saying many times to people who have a chronic ailment, "You need religion as well as medicine. You need faith in an overruling providence that guides everything to wise ends; that the affliction of disease teaches a lesson that every one should strive to learn."

This does not mean that sick people are to sit down and trust that an overruling providence will do everything. Nothing of the sort. He is to use remedies guided by his best judgment, but in the use of them he can believe that all things are well and that in the end all things will come out right. Any medicine has a better chance to cure a man who holds such a faith.

Some men are so faithless and unbelieving, so restless and desperate, their minds so unsettled, that even the best of medicine has little chance to do them any good. Therefore I say that religion is often quite as necessary as medicine, that the want of religion frequently determines the action of the best medicine. Many a chronic invalid has searched in vain for a physical remedy simply because he has lost his grip on vital religion, the religion that not only provides salvation in the world to come, but soundness of body and mind in the world that is.

Yes, there is a most intimate relation between medicine and religion. Other things being equal, the irreligious man stands a poor chance of getting well when he is sick, while the religious man frequently gets well in the most astonishing way after the doctors have all given him up to die. With a firm faith in a rational religion and an obedient use of the right remedy a great many hopeless invalids could be restored to perfect health.

Well, you have made it clear as to what you mean by religion. But what is the remedy you would recommend?

Of course I would recommend different remedies for different conditions. But the particular remedy that I am interested in at this time, the remedy that meets more chronic ailments than any other remedy I know of, is Peruna. Peruna is a remedy for that multitudinous group of ailments that are dependent upon catarrhal derangements.

I am furnishing a book on catarrhal diseases which I send to any person free. In this book I explain quite fully the uses of Peruna. Those who do not care to wait to send for the booklet at this time will find information and instruction as to the general use of Peruna explained within the wrapper of each bottle.

Peruna, Man-a-lin and Lo-ou-pis manufactured by the F. J. C. Company, Columbus, Ohio. Sold at all drug stores.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons inquire for The Old-time Peruna. They want the Peruna that their Fathers and Mothers used to take. The old Peruna is now called Katarrho. If your druggist or dealer does not keep it for sale write the Katarrho Company, Columbus, Ohio, and they will tell you all about it.—Advertisement.

SILK GLOVES FASHIONED FOR X-RAY MANIPULATORS

PARIS, Oct. 18.—A discovery that is expected to remove the danger to which manipulators of the X-ray have been subjected in its handling was announced today at the Academy of Sciences by M. L. G. Drot. In his experiments M. Drot was impressed with the remarkable capacity of silk while being dyed to absorb considerable quantities of metallic substances. With the aid of two silk manufacturers he succeeded in getting a piece of silk heavily absorbed with lead and other substances which proved impenetrable armor against the rays. With six thicknesses of this silk M. Drot fashioned a short glove which he has used successfully in handling X-rays.
