

Great Insurance Company Helps Nebraska

The National Fidelity and Casualty Company One of the State's Strongest Institutions

THE commercial supremacy of New York is due in a large measure to the centralization of insurance assets in that market, and it was high time that there should be established in pany in its home state, as well as rapidly overcoming the business of its competitors in other territories.

The National Fidelity and Casualty Company has 140 stockholders, comprising the strongest body of representative men that has ever been interested in any one proposition in the central west.

With the equipment and facilities of the company and the liberal policies it issues, this home institution should be given preference of a large portion of the surety and casualty business in this section.

The National Fidelity and Casualty Company was the first to pay the claim on the death of Emil Bran-

Policy Department

Edwin T. Swobe - Vice-Pres. and General Manager.

the central west insurance corporations with ample resources to carry the risks and collect the premiums, which have heretofore gone to the eastern insurance companies.

Edwin T. Swobe, realizing the opportunity existing for a casualty and surety company in the central west, organized the National Fidelity and Casualty Company of Omaha in 1907 to write accident and health, fidelity and surety bonds, plate glass, burglary, liability, etc.

This company has just closed its fifth year of business with a very creditable record, showing a substantial gain in premium income each year. The company is now operating in several states and is rapidly extending its territory.

While the National Fidelity and Casualty Company has met with the keenest competition from its eastern competitors, it is now writing the largest business of any com-

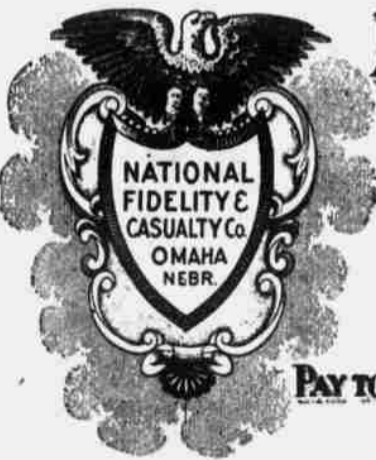

Home Office Employees - National Fidelity and Casualty Company.

deis, who lost his life in the Titanic disaster, and the fact that it was the first to pay proves conclusively the claim this company has always made, that its policies are sight-drafts on the company immediately upon any claim being established.

The management of the company may well feel proud of the record it has made for fair dealing, and the company's growth is best evidence that it is rapidly growing in favor with the insuring public.

The National Fidelity and Casualty Company owns its home office building, located on the corner of Twelfth and Farnam streets, formerly occupied by the United States National bank.

The facsimile of the check reproduced below that was paid the Brandeis estate is probably the best evidence of the promptness and readiness with which this company settles its claims.

NATIONAL FIDELITY & CASUALTY COMPANY

NATIONAL FIDELITY & CASUALTY BUILDING.

OMAHA, NEB., April 23rd 1912 No. 8618

MERCHANTS NATIONAL BANK

OF OMAHA.

PAY TO THE ORDER OF ESTATE OF EMIL BRANDEIS $ 20,000.00

-----Twenty Thousand and No/100----- DOLLARS

L. H. Burston
Secretary
L. H. Burston
President.

Edwin T. Swobe
Vice-President