

WILSON WRITES OF PANIC

Governor Gives Republicans Credit for Turning of Crisis.

OPINIONS ALL CHANGED NOW

Protection or Free Trade Will Triumph in November and Taft Is Man Who Remains Loyal to Full Dinner Pail.

By CHARLES D. HILLES, Chairman Republican National Committee.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Principles, not personalities, have ever been the ground-work of republicanism. Only when its leaders have been assailed personally has it replied in kind. The present national campaign has been waged by the republican organization for the perpetuation of principles far more than on any personal grounds.

The discussion of political principles is still in order, says William J. Bryan from the democratic camp, for "brave soldiers on a battlefield do not use their wounded for breastworks. They stand out and give blow for blow."

While democratic leaders continue to preach tariff for revenue only—that is, free trade as far as can be gained under our present system—the English people are forming an imperial fund to carry forward the cause of imperial preference and protection.

Admission by Wilson.

Do you know what Dr. Wilson, before he was a candidate for the presidency, wrote in his history about what happened after Cleveland's election in 1892?

These are his words: "A great poverty and depression had come upon the western mining regions of the west and south. Prices had fallen. Men of proper sort were idle everywhere and filled with a sort of despair. All the larger cities and manufacturing towns teemed with unemployed workmen, who were with the utmost difficulty kept from starvation by the systematic efforts of organized charity. Not until the very year 1897, when the republican administration came in, did the crisis seem past."

That last sentence is a great sentence to come from a man who, when he wrote it, sought the truth, but who now as a candidate of a free-trade party for the presidency, evidently has forgotten what he himself wrote.

"We'll open the mills and the mines will take care of themselves," said President McKinley. Not until he had kept his word did "the crisis seem past."

President Taft or Dr. Wilson, protection or free trade, will triumph at the polls on November 5. The third party has shown nowhere that it can poll more than a minority fraction of the vote. Should the bolters draw sufficient strength from the republican ranks, they would elect Dr. Wilson, the democratic free-trader. Protection, prosperity, the constitution, the republican party itself, with all it means for progress to the United States, are the vital issues before the people, not any one man's personality.

Every tariff bill passed by the democratic house of representatives and vetoed by President Taft was either a free-trade bill or a tariff for revenue only measure. The principle of "protection" has been declared "unconstitutional" by the democrats in their national platform.

Taft or Protection.

President Taft has asserted his loyalty to protection in these words:

"In sixty years this nation has prospered under the policy of protection for its own people against the competition of those less well governed. High standards of living for American workmen have been maintained. Our producers and our manufacturers have prospered and our wealth has increased by leaps and bounds."

"To the policy of protection I have stood committed alike by conviction and by the platform on which I was chosen. In support of that policy I have stood four-square to all the winds that blow, heedless of unjust criticism, whether it came from the standpoint element of the party, which opposed all tariff revision, or from those radicals, fewer in number, who would have had the executive approve any tariff measure that lowered the duties, regardless of the injury it

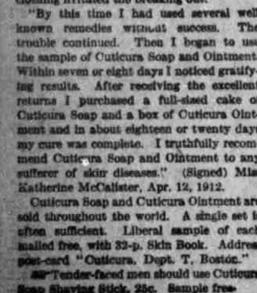

RASH SPREAD TO ARMS AND BACK

Eruptions on Face, Itched and Burned, Festered, Skin Dry and Scaly, Sleep Out of Question, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

706 Rosch Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.—"My face first I noticed small eruptions on my face. The trouble began as a rash. It looked like red pimples. In a few days they spread to my neck. They itched and burned so badly that I scratched them and of course the result was the eruptions festered, broke, opened and dried up leaving the skin dry and scaly. I spent many sleepless nights, my back, arms and face burning and itching; sleep was purely and simply out of the question. The trouble also caused discomfort. My clothing irritated the breaking out.

"By this time I had used several well known remedies without success. The trouble continued. Then I began to use the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Within seven or eight days I noticed gratifying results. After receiving the excellent returns I purchased a full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in about eighteen or twenty days my cure was complete. I truthfully recommend Cuticura Soap and Ointment to any sufferer of skin diseases." (Signed) Miss Katherine McCallister, Apr. 12, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. A single set is sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 22-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

might inflict, or from those insincere critics who have ruthlessly misrepresented the facts for their own political gain."

A Nebraska farmer, in writing to us, says: "Both parties opposed to the republican party are holding out the promise of a millennium for the American farmer, whose interests are a source of deep anxiety to them when they want the farmer's vote. I am a farmer, however, who believes that we are about as near the millennium right now as we ever will get. I would rather pay 20 cents a pound for beef to eat, for instance, and get 70 cents a bushel for my corn, and $18 a ton for my hay, than to pay 30 cents a pound for beef and get only 35 cents a bushel for my corn and $5 a ton for my hay. "If I ate as much beef as I raise hay and corn, I might have some use for the bull moose crowd or the democrats. But while I am getting forty times more from my corn and hay, I am satisfied with present conditions. The farmer who cannot reason that out needs to have his head examined. Why should the farmer, above all men, vote for a change?"

Why should the merchant, the business man, the manufacturer? With the mills kept open the mills will take care of themselves. That is the issue to keep in mind when you vote.

at people, not over their heads, but into their eyes. His well-rounded features show the imprint of a keen and scholarly intellect; his gray eyes reflect the kindly light of humor and of broad humanity. His hair beneath the rim of his stik hat is snow-white; yet his face has the form and color and his step the elasticity of youth. He looks, at a glance, the prelate, the man of affairs, the cosmopolitan—and in that glance one puts him down for what he is, a leader of men.

The first impression one gains of him is that of great gentleness and piety, but a flash of the eye now and then, and a clear, incisive tone reveal the fact that the priestly habitually simply cloaks the spirit of the church militant. In the end one carries away with him an impression of a man of patient purpose, of unflinching energy and inflexible will.

MAN AND WIFE WALK FROM COLORADO TO NEW YORK

Mr. and Mrs. Miller of Colorado Springs, on their walking tour from Colorado Springs to New York City, called on the postmaster, went to the general delivery looking for mail and again departed on their onward march. The couple is walking for a wage of $50. They told the postmaster that another couple also making the trip was about a day ahead of them. They are to make the trip to New York City in ninety days from the date of starting from Colorado Springs. They are to average twenty-three miles a day. Thus far they say they have averaged thirty miles a day. They left in the afternoon for Missouri Valley, expecting to reach there by Friday noon.

MISS ALICE HITTE WILL DECORATE AUDITORIUM

Miss Alice Hitte, supervisor of drawing in the public schools, will decorate the Auditorium for the state teachers' convention in November. At least 50 big American flags will be used, the several schools of the city loaning them during convention week.

Miss Hitte will drape the stage with flags, cover the woodwork with green bunting and place palms upon the stage. She decorated the Auditorium last year for the teachers' convention, and Dr. A. E. Winship, editor of the New England Journal of Education, devoted a column to praise of the artistic effect obtained.

TAFT WRITES OF METAL VETO

President Sends Letter to American Hardware Association.

WEAK POINTS IN BILL VETOED

Fifty-Nine Allied Industries Would Be Affected and Relations Between Them Was Not Considered.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 24.—A letter from President Taft to the American Hardware Manufacturers' association was read at today's session of the association's convention. It follows:

"Beverly, Mass., Oct. 15.—My Dear Mr. Janis: I am very glad to send a message of greeting to the members of the American Hardware Manufacturers' association and the National Hardware association on the occasion of their annual joint convention.

"One of the members of your association wrote me the other day that what this country needs most is industrial peace. There can be no such peace in the absence of national prosperity and I am glad to believe that the members of your association are doing their share to welcome the prosperity which is just at our doors by maintaining our present economic business basis and by the encouragement of business expansion and progress through legitimate use of capital.

"I am a firm believer in a tariff board or tariff commission. I do not contend that the tariff can be taken out of politics in the sense that it never will be made the subject of political controversy. Men differ radically as to the economic value of a protective tariff, or a tariff for revenue only, and that must always be the subject of political discussion. But there is means of taking the ascertainment of facts away from a tribunal like the ways and means committee, which is necessarily lacking in the thoroughness and temper which are essential to reach impartial conclusions.

"Probably no industries affected by the tariff need scientific and impartial conclusions more than those which are represented in your convention. In my message of August 14 last returning to congress without my approval of the bill to revise the metals schedule I pointed out that in this schedule iron and steel as primary products are less than one-third in value of the subject matter covered by the schedule. I presented a table showing that included in the metals are fifty-nine allied industries of sufficient importance to justify separate classification, study and report by the census bureau. I pointed out further that foundry and machine shop products, which are secondary products of the iron and steel industry, are made by more than 12,000 competing establishments, with an invested capital of more than $1,500,000,000, with more than 600,000 wage earners employed and producing nearly $2,500,000,000 in value of products annually.

"Every dollar of this capital and every workman who is employed in the industry is indirectly affected by the bill, and I could not find either in the report of the committee on ways and means of the house or to any extent in the discussion of the schedule that serious consideration had been given to the effect of this revision on this particular branch of the industry, and the same thing is true of more than two-thirds of the industries covered by the schedule.

"No Relation in Reductions. "There was little relation between the reductions made by this bill in the schedule. For example, steam engines and machine tools in the present law are dutiable at 30 per cent. In this revision steam engines were reduced to 15 per cent, and the whole machine tool industry was put on the free list, without any reason whatever being given in the report of the ways and means committee in either case for such action. The term 'machine tools' has already been the subject of much litigation, and its scope should be clearly defined before the great variety of articles which it now seems to cover are placed on the free list.

"The expansion of our foreign trade would seem to demand that a transfer to the free list, like that made in the bill of such an enormous range of undetermined products and the opening of the best market in the world to free and unrestricted competition should not be made without at the same time at least securing, as is the case now, of specific agricultural implements, the privilege of a like free entry into the markets of our competitors.

"I refer to these facts to bring home to the members of your association some of the dangers of ill-advised political tinkering with business. I vetoed the bill which would have spelled ruin to many of you because I was unwilling to approve legislation which vitally affected not only millions of working men, but the families dependent upon them, but hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of stocks of goods in the hands of storekeepers and distributors generally, without first providing for a careful and interested inquiry into the conditions of the whole industry.

"Business Prosperity Essential. "And so I say, we must not make legitimate business the foot ball of politics. We must have investments from which to secure a large wages fund which is needed to support the wage earners. We must inspire in the business men who control these investments the confidence that they will not be driven out of business. Let us put our shoulders together in a movement to promote the business prosperity of the country by frowning down those attacks that are engendered, not by a real desire to eliminate abuses, but by a wish to arouse in the people an unjust prejudice and to take away from them their clear perception as to their real interest in encouraging the investment of capital, in commending its thrifty, wise and lawful use to secure good and reasonable profit and to enjoy the widespread influence of the prosperity that business thus encouraged is bound to shower upon the people at large.

(Signed) WILLIAM H. TAFT, "To G. H. Jantz, Esq., president American Hardware Manufacturers' association and the National Hardware association."

Hair Stops Falling, Dandruff Disappears—25 Cent "Danderine"

Save Your Hair! Beautify it! Invigorate your scalp! Danderine grows hair and we can prove it.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—Advertisement.
