A night attack on the Bulgarian advance guard was ordered by the Turkish cordmander, but the energetic defense offered by the Bulgarians disconcerted the Turkish troops and a panic set in.

The troops dispersed, abandoning in their flight their guns, rifles and ammunition. Mahmoud Mukhtar Pasha tried to stem the panic by shooting several fleeing soldiers with his revolver. Prince Aziz Pasha joined in the flight.

After consultation with Abdullah Pasha, commander of the Turkish troops at Adrianople, by relegraph, Mahmoud Mukhtar Pasha ordered a general retreat.

Hilmi Pasha refused to join in the re treat, fearing it would end in a general rout. Some of his troops broke into panic and refused to stay with him. Hilmi Pasha shot a number of them down. After that, with coolness and energy, he succeeded in retiring with the greater part of his division.

Democratic Program for Social Betterment Decidedly Indefinite.

PERFORMANCE VS. VAGUE IDEALS

Mr. Hilles Points Out the Great Progressive Steps Taken by Republicans During Taft Administration. By CHARLES D. HILLES.

"hairman Republican National Committee NEW YORK, Oct. 30.-(Special.)-In his gether to name his successor haven of dreams Woodrow Wilson has been groping, in haginess of mind after American people, to ocnvince them he should be elected president.

He talks about a real program of social betterment" to be undertaken when he is elected, but, as usual, he is careful to give no outline of what that program mistone bluow

In the light of the program for the last two years in relation to 'social betterment." Doctor Wilson certainly does not lack self assurance. True, of course, that the "government might assist in a hundred ways to safeguard the lives and health of the people," as he says, but the record of the democratic house of representatives certainly has not been in that direction. It was the democratic majority that strangled the railway employes' compensation act which Prestdent Taft had esponsed vigorously. The same democracy defeated the public health bill, and other measures of simlar "social betterment."

High Points is Good Record Republican achievement, against the persistent opposition of the democrats in congress, shines brightly in comparison with the democratic record. In President Taft's administration, these progressive steps have been taken by the republican party:

For the establishment of postal savings Destruction of interstate white slave OUSTER OF SHERIFF

Destruction of interstate white slave traffic.
Creation of the bureau of mines to safeguard the lives of miners.
Abolition of the system of peonage, as practiced in southern democratic states. Enactment of the white phosphorus match act, to prevent the awful disease of those engaged in that work.
Advanced boiler inspection laws.
Effectual destruction of bucket shope and get-rich-quick concerns.
Adoption of the parcels post.
Bringing the workingmen's compensation act to successful issue in the United States supreme court.
Extension of the safety appliance act for the benefit of workingmen.
Creation of a federal child labor bureau, with a well equipped woman at its head. Superintendent Carson of Anti-FILES PETITION AT LINCOLN

What does Doctor Wilson promise, to intendent for Nebraska of the Anti-Saextend that character of legislation, from a democratic congress and administraceedings to oust Felix McShane, jr., from tion? Nothing but the word program-an empty program without one single feature Mr. Carson proceeding under the Sackett

In what he calls a "message to the American people," Doctor Wilson again insults their intelligence by asserting that men, and that "bosses" are possible, on that secount. Doctor Wilson, the school master, would rebuke a class of sophomores for indulging in such illogical argument.

Can Destroy Bosses. The people of the United States know that they can destroy any boss whenever they get ready to do so. They know boss can dominate against the people's termer or a theoretical free trader who one of the big five in the house. purports to change his views on public questions with every wind that blows. The American voters know that their federal government has been growing steadily better under republican administration; that more beneficial legislation has come to them through the agency of the republican party than ever could come out of the democratic party, in all time; that progress in "social betterment," inby step, under republican supremacy, and that the only sure way in which to assurs continuance of this progress is to give a vote of confidence on November is Killed by a Fall 5 to the republican party for four years more. that it will be highly inconsiderate to take Mr. Sherman's name from the ticket unless he himself should insist on it. Should he die before election day, there would be no added obstacle of the possibility of reprinting the ballots at such a late hour. It would take at least five days to call the national committee to-

Bestdes, nany opinions believe the substitution of another name in an eleventh hour change might have doubtful effect. Indications are that, irrespective of the result of Mr. Sherman's Illness, his name will remain on the ballot.

Life of Sherman. The twenty-sevemh vice president of the United States and the only one renominated, was christened James Schoolcraft Sherman. But, in nearly a quarter of a century of public life "Jim" Sherman he was to his intimates, and probably half the nation referred to him as "Sunny Jim," a sobriquet earned by a never-falling, all-year-round sunny disposition.

Sherman belonged to the school of republicanism nowadays popularly called regular and he fought his political battles without compromise or flinching. The events he helped to shape are so comparatively recent that history cannot assign him to his proper place until it also records the work of his contemporaries.

To the house of representatives of the Fiftieth congress he came in the winter of 1887, just past his thirty-second birthday, with the energy and optimism of youth, and college bred from the halls of Hamilton. He had been elected mayor of Utica two years before. Like many others who came to lead in the national legislature, he brought with him an education in law. He was well born and well bred. His father, Richard W. Sherman, was an editor and public figure in New York state.

Close to the Leaders. Two sessions of congress found Sherman defeated and out of office, but not for long. Harry W. Bentley of Booneville, Onelda county, beat him by less than 1,000 votes in the race for the Fiftysecond congress. In the interim Sherman went back to Utica, built up his law practice and returned to the Fifty-third congress with a signal victory. He remained in the house without defeat until the Sixtieth congress, when he was nominated and elected vice president on the ticket with Mr. Taft.

His first years in the house brought him into close association with leaders Joseph W. Bailey, later a senator; Breckenridge, Bryan, Bourke Cochran, Crisp, Dalzell, Dingley, Dolliver, Henderson, this government is one of money above Payne, Prynter, Raynor, Reed, Wads-"Fighting Joe" Wheeler and a worth, score of others whose names became household words in discussion of the tariff and other national policies were his fellows

In New York politics Sherman was a leading figure. He was always active in state conventions and a figure at all national gatherings of the party.

Sherman went to preside over the senate just about the time when what is known as senatorial dignity was beginning to feel its first break. In the chair Sherman was dignity itself, fair in his rulings, his colleagues said; quiet, firm, Sherman was not present during the closing days of the last session and window in the front of the building with the senate-without a president pro tem by the death of Frye, was unable to agree upon a successor-gut along by temporary agreements, placing some senator in the chair for two weeks at a time.

Sherman will will be genuinely missed in the capitol. It was an occurrence of an ordinary day with congress in session to meet Sherman walking down Pennsylvania avenue, often alone, rosy checked morning, Mr. President. The passerby who recognized him was greeted as next.

Vice Fresident Sherman was born is Utica October 34, 1855. He was married in 1881 to Carrie Babcock at East Orange, N. J. They have three sons, Sherrill, Richard U. and Thomas M., all living and in business in Utica.
