

McMANIGAL BEGINS TO TELL OF HIS WORK AS HIRED DYNAMITER

Star Witness of Government in Trial of Alleged Bomb Plotters Takes Stand. DIRECTLY ACCUSES HOCKIN Says Secretary of Iron Workers Threatened Him. FIRST JOB IS IN DETROIT He Set Three Bombs in Building with Fuses Attached. GOES TO CLINTON, ILL., NEXT Hockin Told Him that They Had Something on Him Now and that He Must Continue—Told to Send Clippings.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—For the first time in public since his arrest nineteen months ago, Orlie E. McManigal related at the trial of the accused forty-five "bomb plotters" today his experiences as a hired dynamiter.

The confessed accomplice of the McNamara brothers, as a government witness, directly accused Herbert S. Hockin, now international secretary of the Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, of inducing him to do dynamiting under pay of the union.

He said Hockin had threatened to boycott him from every job if he refused to accept the dynamiting commission. McManigal told how for more than four years he caused explosions about the country against employes of nonunion labor.

At the outset McManigal asserted he attempted to protect the lives of people whenever setting off a bomb. At his first job in Detroit June 25, 1907, he told of pushing a garbage barrel against the rear door of a restaurant so the people would not run out and be injured or killed in an explosion across an alley.

What Hockin Said. "I had been a member of the iron workers' union since 1903," said McManigal. "In June, 1907, Hockin came to me while I was working on the Ford building in Detroit and said that the union had decided to clean out the open shop concerns and that I was the man to do it."

"You used to work in a stone quarry and you know how to use explosives," he said. "You'll be paid by the union."

"I protested, but he told me that if I didn't do as the executive board said he'd see that I was boycotted against getting a job, so I finally consented. "I went to the stone quarry of my uncle, William Behm, at Bloomville, O., June 25, and brought back to Detroit, in a suit case, thirty-five pounds of dynamite, some fuses and caps."

"I told Hockin I had the dynamite in my room. He said: 'All right. You've gone this far and you had better pull off the job between 1 and 2 a. m. in the morning.' "In my room I prepared three bombs, each with fifty feet of fuse. I then went back to the Ford building and waited in an alley to see if there were any police about. Seeing none I put one bomb in the fire box of the boiler in the building under construction, another in an air compressor, and a third near the cylinder."

Joining the ends of the fuse at one point, I lit all of them. They were fixed to go off at about 1 a. m. It was then 10 p. m. "I again looked about the alley. I noticed a kitchen door at the rear of a restaurant opened on the alley opposite where the bombs were, and thinking some people might run out at the first explosion and be injured by the second or third, I shut the door and jammed a barrel of garbage against it. Then I went to my room and waited to hear the noise."

"It came about 1 o'clock. Later I heard the newboys calling 'extra'." "It reminded me I still had some explosives in my room. What should I do with them? I didn't dare to go out with a package. That would excite suspicion. So I took what dynamite I had left to the bathroom and cutting it into small pieces flushed it out."

"Did you see Hockin the next day?" "He said he paid me $20 for expenses to Bloomville. He said I would be fully compensated for my work as the executive board had set aside a certain amount for each job but, he said, I must keep at it. He said I would receive $15 for a job at first, and I was to send a newspaper account of each explosion so he could

Bandit Killed by Trainman Had Flask of Nitro-Glycerin

DELTA, Cal., Nov. 9.—When the unidentified bandit, who held up the Shasta limited here last night, pitched headlong from the engine cab, dying, he carried in his coat pocket a pint flask of nitro-glycerin.

If the bullet that killed him had struck the flask the resultant explosion would have killed the engineer and fireman, almost beyond doubt, and possibly it might have blown up the locomotive boiler. The shock of the bandit's fall from the cab, had he struck otherwise, was more than sufficient in itself to set off the pint of destruction he carried, but the flask was not even cracked.

Fuller details of the robbery today show that Jim Youkum, the head brakeman here from Redding this morning, but thus far they have no clue to the fugitives.

Sheriff Montgomery and a posse arrived here from Redding this morning, but thus far they have no clue to the fugitives.

All Grades of Coal Will Be Advanced in Price in a Few Days

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 9.—Prices on all grades of coal will be advanced with the first touch of cold weather, according to men closely connected with the coal mining industry, who summarized the situation here today. It was also argued that because of the shortage of anthracite coal, due to labor difficulties and the lack of a reserve supply, the eastern and middle west producing districts could supply only their immediate territory.

To overcome this shortage, the producers are confronted with the necessity of 2,000,000 tons among more than the normal production, the statisticians estimated.

G. W. Clarke Elected Governor of Iowa on Complete Returns

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 9.—According to complete returns from all counties of the state, most of them verified by county auditors, George W. Clarke is governor-elect of Iowa. These figures, subject to only the slightest possible revision, give Clarke 124,007 and Dunn 121,256.

Changes came thick and fast in the count Friday, but by nightfall accurate returns left little doubt of the election of Clarke. The official count will be needed to establish his exact plurality.

With the returns upon governor out of the way, politicians turned their attention to the other state officers. The first complete compilation indicate that the smallest plurality the other republican candidates will receive is 10,000 votes.

Race Riot at Fort Stockton, Texas

FORT STOCKTON, Tex., Nov. 9.—The fact that this town has the only saloon in a radius of nearly 100 miles has caused a Mexican-American race outbreak. Two Mexicans were killed and three wounded last night and today all Americans are a pistol. When the smoke cleared Francisco Salinas and Brubencio Gonzales were dead and six others were wounded.

The trouble was the outcome of a week's drinking and gambling debauch by a squad of Mexican railroad laborers who had been working in prohibition territory for several months. It is planned to keep Mexican railroad laborers from entering the town tonight. Rangers from El Paso are expected to arrive tomorrow.

John Schrank Will Be Arraigned Soon

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 9.—John Schrank, who shot Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, when the former president visited Milwaukee on October 14, probably will be brought into court next week for trial. Schrank is undecided about engaging a lawyer.

SCRAMBLE FOR PLACE BY DEMS IN CONGRESS

Extra Session April. SENATORS LEAD IN BATTLE Have Greatest Shakeup in Sight and Want Place. NOTHING LIKE IT IN MANY YEARS Opportunity Will Be Made Most of by Nebraska Member. EMPLOYES READY FOR CHANGE Max Baehr of St. Paul, on Eve of Departure for Cuba, Says Resignation is Ready at Any Time.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(Special Telegram.)—Unless President-elect Wilson should suddenly shift around from a position taken shortly before the election, an extra session of congress will be called early in April, primarily to revise the tariff. This comes to The Bee correspondent as authentic and from a source close to the president-elect. With an extra session called and the democrats in control of both branches of congress, as now seems certain, the fight over committee places, especially in the senate, will transcend anything Washington has seen in years.

And in this scramble for desirable places the senior senator from Nebraska will by no means take a back seat. Senator Hitchcock is assertive and a stickler for his rights and, having four more years to serve, he will undoubtedly get a better chairmanship than he now has.

Max J. Baehr of St. Paul, Neb., consul to Cienfuegos, Cuba, who has been in Washington since yesterday, left today for New York, where he will spend a few days before sailing on November 14 for his post. Mr. Baehr, while greatly lamenting the defeat of President Taft, stands ready at any time to tender his resignation at the option of the incoming administration. While the consular service is presumably out of politics, still the St. Paul man realizes that great pressure will be brought on the new president for important consular places such as Cienfuegos.

WILSON IS GETTING MUCH GOOD ADVICE President-Elect Reads Letters and Editorials on Tariff. CONTINUES LISTENING POLICY He Says Argument that the Country Has Not Voted in Favor of Revision of Tariff is Not Good.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—"Very useful and important indeed," was the comment which President-elect Woodrow Wilson made today on the array of editorials, statements and declarations from prominent persons being published in various newspapers advocating or opposing an extra session of congress to revise the tariff.

"Are you going to take all these newspaper articles with you on your vacation?" he was asked. "Oh, no," replied the governor. "I've read them already. The newspapers certainly are helping me in my listening policy."

The attention of the president-elect was called to an argument in an editorial that inasmuch as he had not received a majority of the popular vote and that since both the republican and progressive parties favored a policy of protection, therefore the country had voted against tariff revision.

"That's queer reasoning," remarked Mr. Wilson. "They overlook the fact that many state legislatures went democratic, which means democratic senators, and likewise that there were a great number of democratic congressmen elected."

Mr. Wilson attended the Princeton-New York university football game here this afternoon.

President Sustains Cancellation of Oil Leases in Oklahoma

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.—At a hearing in the White House late today, President Taft sustained the action of the Department of the Interior in cancelling leases entered into by the tribal council of the Five Civilized Tribes of Indians with the Uncle Sam Oil company of Oklahoma, for several hundred thousand acres of oil land, owned by the Indians. The oil company appealed the case to the president. Secretary of the Interior Fisher said after the hearing that bids for leases of the same land in smaller quantities than those made out to the Uncle Sam company would be opened in Oklahoma next week.

Mine Boss is Killed While Fighting Fire

LAFAYETTE, Col., Nov. 9.—In an explosion in the Simpson-Browns coal mine here last night, John W. Higgins, 45, a shift boss, was killed while superintending a fight against a fire that had started in an entry late in the afternoon.

Five others were seriously burned, but will recover, it was said early this morning. Higgins and his men had the fire practically under control, and as they started into another entry, Higgins in the lead, the explosion occurred.

Hodges Leads for Governor in Kansas

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 9.—George H. Hodges, democrat, was leading for governor of Kansas by but 124 votes over Arthur Capper, republican, according to returns, official, from all but a few of the 105 counties compiled this afternoon by the Kansas City Star. This count included the bulk of the absent, or mail vote.

Fire Breaks Out in Milling District of Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—Fire broke out this afternoon in the New Occidental mill, owned by the Occidental Milling company, one of the oldest mills in Minneapolis and in the heart of the milling district. A general alarm was sent in.

It was feared for a time that the entire district would be set afire, but aided by a wind, the entire Minneapolis fire department succeeded in preventing a spread of the flames.

The Occidental mill was destroyed at a loss approximately of $50,000. The fire started supposedly of spontaneous combustion. As it had shut down for repairs last night there was little grain in it. The few employes in the building easily escaped.

Woman of 113 Takes First Ride on Train

JOPLIN, Mo., Nov. 9.—Mrs. H. Keith, aged 113 years, and her youngest son, 39 years old, took their first ride on a passenger train yesterday. The train brought them from their home, several miles from a railroad in southern Arkansas.

Charles McManamy was the first patrolman in uniform they ever saw. "Are you a policeman?" asked Mrs. Keith. "Well, we want you to show us how to get uptown. This is the first time my son and I have ever been in Joplin. We came up to see the sights and are going back home tomorrow morning."

NEBRASKA CLOTHING COMPANY PURCHASED

Swanson and Holzman Take Over the Great Retail Store Located on Farnam Street.

BIG MONEY IN TRANSACTION Business Founded by M. Levy Twenty-Six Years Ago Passes to New Owners, Who Promise Many Improvements.

The purchase of the Nebraska Clothing company, one of Omaha's largest and oldest retail establishments, was announced late yesterday, the new owners being John A. Swanson and William L. Holzman. The change of ownership consummates a business deal which is understood to involve over $500,000, making it one of the largest transactions that has taken place in Omaha in many months.

"The Nebraska," as this store is familiarly known, has had twenty-six years of uninterrupted success and is generally admitted to be one of the ten greatest clothing houses in America.

During the last four years two of the three members of the old firm have passed away, leaving the founder and originator, Mr. Levy, who decided to transfer the burden of the business to younger shoulders. Although besieged with propositions to take over this enormous enterprise, Mr. Levy had, however, one fixed idea regarding the disposition of the business, that those who succeeded him must be men of unquestionable honor and integrity; when who would keep intact the good name of the firm established through a quarter century of honorable merchandising.

In an interview Mr. Levy stated that by selling to Messrs. Swanson and Holzman, he felt sure he could retire knowing that the business would be conducted upon the most modern and progressive lines, and continue to hold the absolute confidence of the public, which the old firm valued above all else.

The sale of "The Nebraska" brings back into the limelight a figure, who has made a large share of the clothing history of Omaha. John A. Swanson, the president of the new firm is one of the most progressive merchants in the west, being actively identified with the clothing business in Omaha for over twenty-five years, retiring last February as president of the King-Swanson company, of which he was the founder. Mr. Swanson stated that he considered "The Nebraska" offered the greatest opportunity in the country and that many improvements would be made, presenting to the public by next spring a completely remodeled, modern, new clothing establishment that would be a still greater credit to Omaha.

It might be said with good grace that the people of Omaha have a world of confidence in Mr. Swanson and from the past performance of promises fulfilled look forward with eagerness to the greatest work he has set out to accomplish.

William L. Holzman, the new treasurer of "The Nebraska," was born in New York City. He is a graduate of the public schools and the college of the city of New York, entering at an early age into one of the largest wholesale tailoring establishments in the east. At 21, Mr. Holzman was admitted to the firm of Korn, Holzman & Company, 725-725 Broadway, New York. Mr. Holzman has made the manufacture of clothing a life study, and in all his experience has put quality above every other consideration.

Mr. Swanson is particularly fortunate in having an associate of Mr. Holzman's experience, creating as it does a combination of expert retailer, manufacturer and woolen buyers, making an organization of unusual strength.

"The Nebraska Clothing company was the first modern, wearing apparel house in Omaha. Occupying as it does the entire four floors and basement of one of the handsomest clothing store buildings in America, it has for years been one

BULLETIN. VIENNA, Nov. 9.—The entry of the Bulgarian army into Constantinople is considered doubtful, the Neue Presse today says it has learned, as Russia is protesting against such action.

BULLETIN. PARIS, Nov. 9.—Austria is sending to the provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina, or in other words toward the Serbian frontier, eighteen battalions drawn from the fourth and the eighth army corps, according to the correspondent at Belgrade of the Temps, who says he has obtained the information from a reliable source. It is believed at the Serbian capital, the correspondent adds, that Russia and perhaps the other powers will ask Austria for an explanation.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The European situation is considered in official circles here to be precarious. The French cabinet met today at the palace of the Elysee, with President Fallieres. Premier Poincaré read to his colleagues the latest dispatches received from the French ambassadors at St. Petersburg, Vienna and other capitals, which led to a discussion lasting several hours.

Nothing of what occurred at the cabinet council was made public and much obscurity continues as to the precise intentions of the various great powers.

"This is no time for irony," said Noradughlan Pasha, Turkish foreign minister today, "but if it was, I would waste on every wall of the capital and print in big type in every Turkish newspaper the solemn declaration made three weeks ago by the European powers that they would not permit the seizure of Turkish territory. At the same time I would publish the text of the twenty-seven treaties concluded during the last century by the nations of Europe guaranteeing the integrity of the Ottoman empire."

Sultan Will Not Fleer. "Neither I nor the sultan will ever abandon Constantinople. My sovereign will await death in his palace; in my office." Thus Kiamil Pasha, grand vizier of Turkey, addressed the ambassadors of the powers.

Kiamil Pasha informed the ambassadors at Constantinople that he would maintain order there until the end, according to a dispatch to the Matin today. If, however, the Turkish capital should be occupied by the invaders the grand vizier declares that he could not be answerable for what the exasperation of the population might lead to. Anything that might happen then would be on the conscience of Europe, he said.

Noradughlan Pasha, Turkish minister for foreign affairs, is directing affairs with singular tenacity and devotion in spite of his 52 years. He appears to be infusing new life into the population of the Turkish capital. For eleven days he has not left his office. He sits there and sleeps there, throwing himself in the early hours of the morning upon a military bed in order to snatch a few hours repose.

General Mahmoud Mukhtar Pasha was sent to Naam Pasha, the commander-in-chief, to notify the grand vizier that the Turkish army would not accept either mediation or intervention. According to a special dispatch to the Journal from Constantinople the commander-in-chief declared that if the government did not heed the wishes of the army the soldiers would come to Constantinople and cannonade the office to prevent the dismemberment of the empire.

The leaders of the committee of union and progress also informed the grand vizier that there would be a terrible revolution unless the Turkish army continued to fight till the last ditch. As a result of this and the attitude of the army, it is understood Kiamil Pasha decided to abandon the idea of asking the powers to intervene.

The Real Estate Man

Here is the man, of all men, who should understand the use of Want Ads. He should realize that everyone in Omaha who wants to rent or to buy looks first at the Want Ad pages of The Bee before making other effort to satisfy their need. This is only natural, because The Bee is the great classified medium of this state.

If the real estate man knew of a corner where prospective real estate buyers passed all day long it's a safe bet that he would be there on the ground about fifteen hours each day.

Well, here in the Want Ads is the corner where every prospective buyer in Omaha passes each day. He not only passes but stops, looks and reads. LET THEM HELP YOU.
