

The Bee's Home Magazine Page

SILK HAT HARRY'S DIVORCE SUIT

The Judge Takes a Slant at the Horses

Drawn for The Bee by Tad

ment? Will you say that Mr. and Mrs.

Curtis are here. What's that?" sharply,

Helen was standing by listening breath-esely. The maid's shrill voice carried beyond the phone, but she could not

With a muttered exclamation Warren slammed up the receiver and strode toward the floor. Helen followed, her heart

Outside Warren stalked along, his face rimson with rage. Helen had almost to run to keep beside him. A dozen breath ess questions were whirling through her mind, but she dared not ask them. She was afraid to question him when he was

They had gone almost two blocks be fore he spoke. Then he snarled savagely:

I'll get square-just wait and see.

'And hadn't left any message?"

sage? No, nothing can excuse this.

"an accident or something."

little more would not matter.

ren behind her program.

Hke to join us."

her program.

"Oh, no." broke in Warren heartily,

Dawson will pay for this all right

"But what did the maid say, dear?"

"Say? What could she say, but that

"But maybe some one was ill and sent

"Then why didn't they leave a mes-

"But dear, where are we going?" Helen

"We're not going home-nothing to eat

Another taxicab! But Helen did not in her throat. What could it mean?

what message did they leave?"

make out the words.

in a mood like this.

breathed Helen.

they'd gone out.

'Not a word.'

Married Life the Third Year

By MABEL HERBERT URNER.

Oh. I'm sorry, but we can't-we're dinner. I'il ring her back, you can talk dining out tonight. * * * "Isn't it too to her yourself." Warren turned to a desk phone near by had? I should love to go!" * * * "I and the boy connected him. don't know," doubtfully, "hold the phone "Hello! Is this Mr. Dawson's apart-

I'll ask him." Warren was putting his pearl stude in a dress shirt when Helen ran in excitedly.

Oh, dear, the Stevens have a box for the 'Last IIlusion' for tonight! They want us to come - even if we orn't get there until Could we? engerly.

Certainly not." frowning at a finger mark on his shirt front. "Nice time to invite us."

But the box was just given them evening - they couldn't ask us

Well, if we dine with the Dawsons, we'll spend the evening there. Don't think I'm going to rush off right after dinner, do you?"

No, I suppose not." murmured Helen. rejuctantly, as she went back to the phone for them." suggested fielen soothingly. to tell Mrs. Stephens they could not go. But Mrs. Stevens insisted that she would leave a couple of seats at the box office in case they could come. 'Now hurry up there." called Warren, was hobbling along painfully in her thin as Helen went back to her dressing room. high-heeled slippers. 'Dawson said 7 o'clock-we don't want to there. Where are we now?" for in his be late. Mr. Dawson was a new business friend rage he had walked blindly on, not noticof Warren's, and while Helen and Mrs. ing where they went. "We'll take a taxi Dawson had exchanged calls, this was and go to some restaurant."

their first dinner. You're not going to wear a hat?' de- dare protest. And finally they were manded Warren, as a few moments later seated on an expensive uptown restaur- fault.

Helen came out drawing on her long ant, she could only look on unhappily, "Why, yes, dear: it's only a dinner. We dinner. It seemed as though he was needn't go so formally, need we?"

going to right. Take off that hat. I've tention a waiter always gives to a lavish ordered a taxt."

order seemed also soothing. "A taxl. Oh, couldn't we have gone in Helen saw his savage frown gradually the subway?"

But Warren did not deign to answer food and wine. At length she centured this. Helen went back, took off her hat timidly: and threw a light scarf over her hair. thought too dressy for the subway. But could come, since they were going in a cab, she might Warren glanced at his watch. "Suppose ren wanted her to look as well as she

A moment later the taxicab was announced.

"It's too bad that everything should was so anxious to see-the 'Lost Illusion.' and this is the last week."

the right of the stage. Well, it's a darn sight more imporfunt to fline with Dawson than go to As they entered Mr. and Mrs. Stevens. Stevens the salest thing in the world rose with whispered greetings. Then to swer. "It is the salest thing in the world rose with whispered greetings." any play. He's pulled off some mighty big deals lately, and if I can interest him in our company, it'll mean a whole people in the box were Mr. and Mrs. a man is the engiest thing in the world lot. While I think of it, he's got a fine dark that her involuntary start and the it down to the basis of a business propo-He'll probably show them, so for heaven's expression of Warren's face were not no. sition." He'll probably show them, so for heaven's ticed. sake, try to seem interested. Don't sit sake, try to seem interested. Don't sit whom wilson we'll sit back here," whisshowed us those coins. By George, you

"Only I don't know anything about coins. and I thought it better to keep still than . to make stupid comments."

too, if you want to." This did not add to Helen's prospect of a pleasant evening. It was hard enough for her to dine with comparative stranners, but to feel that she must try to talk and pretend a knowledge of some-

The cab drew up before the imposing entrance of the "Kensington Arms." A uniformed hallman opened the door. "Mr. and Mrs. Curtis to see Mr. Dawson," Warren announced briefly to the boy at the awitchboard.

'Mr. Dawson is not in, sir," the boy informed them a moment later. Announce us to Mrs. Dawson, then, said Warren curtly.

Another moment's wait and then the boy said stolidly:

"tione out?" murmured Helen in amaze-son's apartment."

THE BUILDING WAS GIVING A VERY GOOD IMITATION OF A TINDER BOX. FOURTEEN FIRE COMPANIES HAD BEEN CALLED TO DAMPEN THE ENTHUSIASM WITH WHICH IT BURNED. THE EXTREMENT A WOMAN'S HEAD WAS SEEN TO APPEAR AT THE TOP STORY WINDOW, AND

SHE WAS HEARD TO SHOUT, "IF A WOMAN TOOK AFLYER IN WALL STREET, WOULD THE STREET CLEANER?"

LET 'IM UP -

TROUBLES SELDOM COME SINGLY;

THEY RE ALL MARRIED

THE LITTLE DARLINGS WERE WITH NIMBLE FINGERS, THE OUT BIRD-NESTING. THEY DEALER STACKED THE CARDS, UMPTY SPRAIN OF THEM. AND NEEDED BUT ONE MORE TO BRING THE NUMBER

FISH WAS KING OF THE DEEP WOULD THE COD LIVE A ROYAL LIFE?"

DON'T YOU KNOW NOTHIN?"

FOUR KINGS, GIVING HIMSELF FOUR BULLETS. THE OPPONENT TOOK A HALF-NELSON ON THE UP TO AN EVEN TWIRTY-THROO CARDS, AND BET HIS PILE. WAS INTENSE. SUDDENLY, SUDDENLY, ALGERNON SPIED A THE DEALER SAID IT WASN' HEST. AIMING HIS SLING SHOT ENOUGH, SO HE RAISED THE HE LET ER GO. DOWN CAME POT, CLEANING THE OTHER THE NEST, PLUS A LITTLE BIRD GUY OF HIS LAST JITNEY.
BEFORE ALGY COULD CAPTHE SUCKER SANK BACK INI
TURE THE LITTLE BIRD, IT HIS CHAIR AND MUTTERED, CHIRPED - "IF THE COD-"IF THUNDER CREATES A VACUUM, DOES ATMOSPHERE AW! JUST ONE MORE, BOYS

Says Divorce is Wife's Fault!

Happy in Wedlock, She Lectures Sisters

"Seventy-five per cent of all unhappy marriages are unhappy through the wife's

Mrs. Edward W. Hooke, by twentywhile Warran ordered an extravagant four years of uninterrupted marriage, has established her right to one of the proudest degrees of womanhood-H. W. trying to soothe his wounded vanity by Well, this is one of the places we're reckless expenditure. The obsequious at (happy wife). Meeting her at clubs, at teas, at matinees, in the gymnasium, in any of the score of places where smart women congregate, one hears first tost relax under the pacifying effects of the she is a young woman of active mind. with marked executive ability, shown by her capable performance of the duties of Dear, couldn't we go to the theater, president of the International Pure Milk She also changed her shoes for a pair after all? Mrs. Stevens said she'd leave league. But while one woman is admirof evening slippers, which she had the tickets at the box office in case we ing her trig tailored suit and another observes that she has traveled so much and lived in so many of the large cities as well wear them. It was evident War- we might as well go there as anywhere." of this country that she is what the mol-Warren called another taxicab, but by iticians call "a good mixer," one who this time Helen was resigned-a sort of knows her is sure to say, "she is the best desperate resignation. They had already wife I ever knew. She thinks it is easy spent so much money this evening-a to get along with one's husband." Mrs. Hooke whisked into a tearoom The tickets, marked with their name, for breathing space in a busy day, and i they drove off. "That was the play I were at the box office. The curtain was asked her there if she agreed with the up and the usher led them through the trend of modern thought that marriage back of a darkened house to a box at is a hard job which the far-sighted woman declines to undertake. As they entered Mr. and Mrs. Stevens "Bosh" was Mrs. Hooke's brisk an-Helen's horror she realized that the two to make one's marriage a happy one and "You are not advocating the un-Amerpered Helen, refusing to let Mr. Stevens implored.

"I promise you not to do that, for I place their chairs in the front of the don't believe in it. But the difficulties that come up in marriage can be settled as they are in a business partnership. If two business partners disagree about something they don't think at once of business dissolution. They argue the matter out earnestly, but not offensively, and reach a bedrock of understanding on the essential points. That is what the reasonable wife does."

'Are not most wives reasonable?' 'Far from it. Seventy-five per cent of all the unhappy marriages are made un-"Why, yes; you haven't forgotten you're happy by the wives. Three-fourths of the separations and divorces could be prevented if the women did their share in the business partnership.

"The greatest fault of women in marplace this evening. We were on our way ried life is their extravagance. Yes, I uptown to a Bohemian club dinner and know about the women who work hard thought you and Mrs. Dawson might in their homes and bring up well a large brood of little ones. But with all their such a tax on the memory, but that when can't afford. And maybe they don't in- ply stations. it was necessary he could "lie magnifi- sist upon living in an exclusive locality. Whose mistake had it been-his or Mr. side street a mistake. Now you get this thing right." Warren's he would probably not admit is a form of extravagance, in buying you did she would go down to the shops their consciences in these matters. No ing with the firm for life. Many women an old cowboy with a very bad taste in severely to the boy. "I want you to announce Mr. and Mrs. Curtis to Mr. Dawson had phoned the invitation owners grow rich because women make he said. At the time I thought he was of justice.

It. But, at least, the fault was not hers. food. Delicatessens flourish and their land spend every cent of it before night," wonder men say that we have no sense don't. They become engaged to marry your mouth and not a real friend in the nounce Mr. and Mrs. Curtis to Mr. Dawson had phoned the invitation owners grow rich because women make he said. At the time I thought he was of justice. to Warren himself. For once something them the main tays of the household in- harsh, but I've since learned he was Well, I had their maid on the wire," had havvened for which sile could not be stead of the emergency stations they are right.

Helen bit her lips, and bent lower over virtues of patience and loyalty many of the household machinery hasn't broken know how much their husband carns. Windows. When do you see a woman a rackish angle over your funny, chubby them have that great marital fault of down but once. That is what delicates. They do know it, but they have not Warren had always said he stuck to women. Perhaps they don't go down sens were started for, but careless house- enough self-control to live within his into such windows? If a man edges if you like; but you shall not comen me the truth when he could-as it was not town and buy a dress they know they keepers have made them the family sup-earnings. They see a gown they like, toward the window his wife is sure to with your tales of romantic wickedness. think they must have it, order it, and hang back and scowl. "I know a professional man who showed when their husbands say they can't ofcently." And this was a sample of his or a garish apartment house, when they me his books to let me see what a profit- ford it there is a quarrel. The man may the marriage fallures are due to the done wrong, stop doing it this instant. would be beiter off in an old-fashioned able month he had. But he closed the need a pair of shoes, but that makes no selfishness of mon. But I will say this you little gump you, or all the romance books with a bang and, asked me not to difference to the woman, who must have for them, they go into the marriage -that is, real remance-will fade from "Of course not." scoffed Warren "That's Dawson's? Helen knew if it had been "But they do use poor judgment, which tell his wife how much he had made. If the dress, Women seem to chloroform partnership with the intention of remain- your poor disappointed life, and you'll be

A Cowboy's Song

By WINIFRED BLACK.

"Ten thousand cattle straying." What cheeks and the loose mouth? Nature has is it that the soft little voice is trying to put her sign upon you. You need not sing so bravely? bawl your sins so loud in the market "They've left my herds and wandered place

What a voice it in, to be sure. A voice made up of piping winds and the soft whisper of the great dahlias that stand so tall and brave against the garden wall pretending that there is no such thing as frost. And what brave little figure It is which stands. there in the strong November sunshine linging his manual song of hards and

Dear little boy. How far, how is there picturesque in that? far, shall you wander before you lie down | Drank more than was good for him wrong." What a swing to the shoulders about so sentimentally. of the boy who almost cried yesterday I renember once I sailed a tropic sea when the puppy scratched him.

ner of wrong doing and whom did you and an older one. harm by 10?

What did you do to right the wrong, young cowboy? And are you really ashamed of what you did, or do you glory In it after the witless fashion of some far lands to make money to pour into foolish men?

I have heard them often boast; "I was a gay dog in my young days. Ah, inthat you with the shaking hands and the one by one, and smacked her lips at the deed, do you think you have to tell us face of a shen hue, you with the bloated heartlegeness. Women get out of bed unwillingly and shuffle about all moreing in a kimono and stipners. Husband goes downtown and meets an attractive There's a name that never's spoken. women who dresses daintily, who seems to admire him and was makes an effort to be entertaining

"lie rememberers the kimono and he line. Pathetic it was meant to be, but goes home and finds a wife who inter- somehowsaying: 'Dear, I saw a lovely hat marked There's a mother thred of living.

There's a picture that is tur-n-e-d toward rupts what he thinks a good story by down to $10.98 that I really must have." He thinks. How did I ever happen to How it caterwanted out into the saft marry this woman?"

grown-up children. When the man's above and around all the while! day's work is done be comes home in the mood of a boy, expecting to be amused, the wants a wife who will talk the wall and bow picturesque, those entertainingly to him and will pass along Wandering 1 redigals in petticoats, poor things! anything worth while she has heard during the day. If he has a wife who is One I found was a butcher's daughter. good fun at home he won't be so light. Who was too lary to work, and one was a to go out to clubs:

"A man's flav must be started right. and the way to start it right is to give him a good breakfast and share it with him. Many a man who goes downtown and does good work begins the day with muddy coffee he makes himself. You've no idea now many men in this town get. their own breakfasts. And there is a vast number of wives who are still. Pour Hilds, sitting on her wash tubs, lounging in bed when their husbands watting for Ole to come and take her begin the day's work.

"Men are fickle creatures, and if the day begins badly and ends badly at home little lrish airl who works all day to they are likely to turn for comfort to save a few dollars a month to send some woman who is more thoughtful. across the black waters to those who some woman who is more thoughtful-or pine at home by the pent fire is a thoupretends to be.

sand times more romantie; but just think, "The To per cent of marriage failures. that He at Women's doors prove that the unself-shaes of our sex has been over the wall." unselfishness of our sex has been overrated. It is the selfishness of women that Poor, things! Poor, feeble, foolish, riages that fall.

even though you don't intend to buy, Men thing.

strange chanting song you whoop so joyously, little boy? Some man sitting at a camp fire in the far west. I suppose, and all the other wanderers around the fire listened and found their cheeks wet with tears that were no credit to them-per-How remantic it sounds-'I know I've done wrong"-and yet what the young cowboy did was doubtless prosaic enough if you knew the truth. Stole somebody's old bay mare, most like; ran away with the preacher's daughter, lied to her and left her alone and friendless in some frontler town to die forgotten-except in the centimental moment of song around the camp fire.

Broke the heart of the mother who worked her fingers to the bone for him; They've scattered my herds, my herds brought shame on an honest name. What to rest, and who shall lead your herds and rode his pony over some poor bride's for you into what strange lands, I won- little flower garden that she was trying to make homey out there on the edge of Hark. The song changes: "For I'm a things. What a pitiful, sordid, cheap young cowboy and I know I've done thing this "doing wrong" is they sing with the water the color of a purple pe-"I'm a young cowboy and I know I've tunia, with silver gleams in it that spardone wrong." Have you indeed, young kled like magic jewels. And on the ship sir, and what, pray tell, was your man- that carried us were three young women

A friend who trusted you? Oh. never that, I hope. Then a woman who believed you. Not that, not that, little the most astonishing clothes in the most astonishing clothes. The young women were not pretty, exboy. And how bravely you troll it out, astonishing way. The old woman was a horror. I could not look upon her cruel face and cold eyes and loose and greedy mouth without a shudder.

> She took the young women with her to her vulture-like talons, and she sat in the strong sunshine and blinked at them and fairly counted their poor young bones. thought of what fine cating they would be for her and her kind. And all the way down the purple sea these three young women sat on deck and held one another's hands and sang a song wonderfully popular in that day. There's a promise that is broken.

There's just one more that's missing from the old home, that is all.
Oh, what a dying fall they gave that

There's a father unforgiving night and drowned even the cry of the "Non are only kids. We are all only hungry mult that wheeled and circled How romantic they felt, the poor young tools- Pictures that were turned toward > waitress in a cheap boarding house who "wouldn't take nothin'," from the cook, and one was a selfish, vain creature who hardworking mother could buy for her, she took the "castest way." Heaven pity thuse who think it so, and there was not a thing the least romantic about one of them.

to the Sweet Roses mask ball, is more a figure of romance than they. The good looked bored to death." "Why, dear, I didn't," indignantly, Happily it was a long scene, and Helen had time to regain her poise. "Act as though nothing had happened," she whispered pleadingly to War-

"Don't know anything either," admitted Warren, "but I faked it, and you can,

But he only growled a curt "Hush," "I'm so glad you could come." smiled Mrs. Dawson, turning cordially to Helen. "We hadn't hoped to see you before tomorrow evening." "Tomorrow evening!" gasped Helon. thing about which she knew nothing always terrified her.

'We're looking forward to that. And, by the way, Dawson; we drove by your

"Mr. and Mrs. Dawson have both gone standing beside her husband and looking little face; frown desperately at the puppy is to blame for three-fours of the mar- selfish, wicked things. When will they learn that the only real romance comes Most men are less selfish than we are, with sacrifice and devotion and honor and Take the show window gazing habit. You purity? You can't even be really beautiknow yourself how hard it is to get past ful unless you are good. And you aren't a show window full of pretty things, even clover unless you do the decent will stop and look into the show windows. "Ten thousand cattle straying. Come with us, though they are not interested, home, little boy, come home. Wear the But there are show windows that Inter- red bandama knotted at your brown

If you are, us you so brazenly chant, a "Twenty-five per cent or one-fourth of "young cowboy," and you know you've

"The other twenty-five per cent of themselves: If this doesn't turn out well Come, let's be good, let's be honest; let's marriage failures are due to women's I can get a divorce and 'zy again,' a be fair, let's be open-hearted, let's be "intended to be I haven't been inside a . "Most women, have not the excuse that is positively wicked." frank, and so let us find the real romance.