

PETERSEN WILL QUESTIONED

Opponents in Case Attempt to Show Instrument is Fraud.

HANDWRITING IS EXAMINED

At Time Purported Will Was Made Husband and Wife Were Separated and She Was Suing for an Absolute Divorce.

With his wife suing him for divorce, and by order of court restraining him from visiting her home, a man would not make a will bequeathing her $100,000, nearly one-third of his wealth.

On this proposition here-at-law of the late Soren T. Petersen, retired real estate dealer, who lived in the north part of the city, are seeking to break a purported will of Petersen. The will was filed in county court by Mrs. Emma Petersen, the third wife of the decedent.

Principal opponents of the will are Mrs. Leona McCutcheon of Catron, Ore.; Mrs. Lillian Dietrich of Portland, Ore.; and LeRoy T. Petersen of Omaha, children by a former wife. There are about eighteen other heirs-at-law who are interested in the attempt to throw out the will.

Petersen died, supposedly intestate, in August this year. A month later Mrs. Petersen produced the purported will. The will was dated in August, 1910, at which time Petersen was under an order restraining him from visiting the home of himself and his wife. Mrs. Petersen says he did visit there, despite the order.

Petersen's first wife died; he was separated from his second by divorce. His third wife was his housekeeper; then she became his common law wife. Later she sued him for divorce, but a reconciliation was effected and they were civilly married in Council Bluffs. Still later, in August, 1910, Mrs. Petersen commenced a new divorce action and secured a restraining order. The divorce suit still was pending when Petersen died.

Action of opponents of the will in examining Mrs. Petersen's handwriting indicated that efforts may be made to show she drew the will.

For Quarter of Century He Has Taught Omaha to Dance

An important and successful factor in the building up of the social and artistic life in Omaha is Willard E. Chambers, who is completing his thirtieth year as a dancing master and teacher. Twenty-five of these years have found Mr. Chambers teaching the art of gracefulness to the elite of this city.

Mr. Chambers has been the central figure in the Omaha dance world. To him is given the credit of teaching between 30,000 and 50,000 students since his advent into Omaha in 1887. During one season he teaches on an average of 2,000 persons.

When Mr. Chambers came to Omaha he established himself as a teacher of society dancing and today is recognized as one of the leading dancing masters of the world. His first class work in Omaha was mostly in a private way. In 1903 he built and opened Chambers' academy at Twenty-fifth and Farnam streets and since that time the institution has become an important factor in the social life of Omaha.

Not only does the little dancing master teach society dances, also that of stage dancing. In his time he has developed many of his students into successful theatrical people, some of whom are taking leading parts on the stage.

Mr. Chambers takes justifiable pride in the fact that he has always striven for moral elevation of dancing. He is opposed to fads in dancing and has always taught nothing but the most proper and artistic steps to three generations—grandparents, parents and grandchildren. He has operated his academy in a progressive style. He has been a student and still claims to be a student. He asserts that it is impossible to learn all there is to dancing.

So well is the Omaha dancing master looked upon by members of his profession that he has been made vice president of the American Association of Masters of Dancing, and district chairman of the same association.

A few months ago Mr. Chambers leased the Metropolitan club building for a period of ten years, and remodeled it at a great expense, the swimming pool alone costing over $5,000. In this commodious building he has established the Metropolitan Conservatory of Classics, of which he is president.

Within a few months Mr. Chambers will again branch out. He is contemplating the erection of another academy on West Farnam street which will be far more modern than the building on Twenty-fifth street, which is to be larger than the present building.

DEATH ENDS LOVE MISSION

Mrs. Atkinson Expires While Traveling to Husband's Bedside.

FEAR CAUSES HEART FAILURE

Wife of Prominent Railroad Butler Was a Pioneer of This City and Was Long Prominent in Church Circles.

While traveling in Iowa to be at the bedside of her husband who is stricken with heart trouble, Mrs. J. P. Atkinson of Ernest street, Omaha, succumbed Friday afternoon to the same disease in a hotel at Osceola. The Atkinson family is one of the oldest and best known in the city.

Mr. Atkinson is a railroad builder and has been engaged in the business for many years. He has a contract at Corydon and while engaged there he was stricken with heart failure. His condition is such that grave fears were felt and his wife left Friday to be at his bedside.

Excitement overcomes her. She had proceeded as far as Osceola, where she was to have changed cars for Corydon. The excitement of the trip and the fears she felt for her husband and affected her heart seriously. She was unable to transfer for Corydon at this point on account of her weakened condition and she was taken to a hotel. Physicians were called, but she was so weak by this time that nothing could be done for her. She died at 3 o'clock p. m.

The body arrives from Osceola this afternoon at 2:55 o'clock, and it is planned to conduct the funeral at the residence Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The service will be conducted by Rev. J. Scott Ebersole, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, Twenty-fourth and Pinkney streets. Mrs. Atkinson was one of the oldest and best known women in this congregation. She was an ardent and earnest church worker, leading in many kindly acts. At one time she had placed in the church a memorial window dedicated to her only daughter, who preceded her in death.

Constable is Modest in a Corset Shop

Constable H. D. Pierson served a summons under difficulties Saturday morning. There were no difficulties except his modesty, but that was so strong as to keep him waiting the greater part of the forenoon in a corset shop on South Seventeenth street while the proprietress was fitting corsets to customers behind a screen. She saw him when he came in but paid little attention, doubtless feeling assured she was losing no business in slighting him, as a man could hardly expect to be a customer in such a shop.

After a long time she had a moment to spare. She stepped up to the constable and said: "It's very ungentlemanly in you, a man, to sit here for over an hour gawking at me and my customers while I was fitting corsets." The constable explained his business and served his summons on her commanding her to appear before the justice of the peace to pay a bill for advertising. The constable begged her pardon for seeming to stare, and explained to her that he did not mean to be looking and besides the screen precluded all views. Then he explained to her that she had come out at once and allowed him to serve the summons she would not have had the further embarrassment of his presence.

HARVESTER DEFENSE SCORES IN TESTIMONY OF WITNESS

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Council for the International Harvester company scored on one of the government's witnesses today at the opening session of the resumed hearings in the federal suit to dissolve the harvester company. Paul D. Middlekuff, president of the Acme Harvesting Machine company of Peoria, Ill., said to be one of the chief competitors of the alleged trust, admitted under cross-examination that the output of his company had increased steadily for the last four years.

TWO MILLIONS REALIZED IN SALE OF HOE LIBRARY

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The greatest auction sale of books the world has ever known came to an end here tonight with the last of the offerings from the library of the late Robert Hoe. The sale began more than a year and a half ago and divided into four sections, fell but little short of the $2,000,000 which it was estimated the famous library would bring. The total when the last book was disposed of tonight was $1,922,000.00.

GAIN IN NEBRASKA CORN CROP

Yield Per Acre Six Bushels Greater Than Last Year.

PUBLICITY BUREAU GETS CREDIT

Secretary of Rural Life Congress Figures Additional Yield Means Nearly Eighteen and a Half Millions of Dollars.

The 1912 corn crop of Nebraska has shown a gain of six bushels per acre over the yield of 1911, which is credited by Frank G. Odell, secretary of the Rural Life congress, to the seed corn campaign inaugurated by the publicity bureau of the Omaha Commercial club.

From 6,099,067 acres this year there was a yield of 104,276,785 bushels. From 6,218,005 acres in 1911 the yield was 123,400,235 bushels, a gain of 31,000,000 bushels on 12,000 fewer acres.

This gain, at 50 cents a bushel, which is a very low appraisal, amounts to $15,500,000. This amount, Odell figures, was the value of the seed corn.

DOCTORS ENGAGE IN A TILT

Connell and Holovtchiner Disagree Over Case of Diphtheria.

HEALTH ORDERS ARE VIOLATED

Connell Accuses President Holovtchiner of Having Permitted the Removal of Quarantine Without Orders.

Health Commissioner Connell alleges that the superintendent of schools, the president of the Board of Education and the principal of Franklin school have permitted children who were exposed to diphtheria and isolated to return to the school without permits from the health department.

Superintendent Graff, Dr. Connell and Principal Anne E. Hutchins held a conference all forenoon. Dr. Connell said the general health of the city was threatened by such negligence and declared prosecution would follow any similar action again.

Dr. Connell and Dr. E. Holovtchiner, president of the Board of Education, have disagreed and quarreled repeatedly over the contagious disease situation in the schools, the health commissioner charging that the school officials have broken his orders, or that parents of children under quarantine have been permitted to take down the quarantine without protest from Dr. Holovtchiner.

Holovtchiner declared he knew nothing of the Franklin school case and did not participate in the conference. The principal of the school submitted a list of the pupils who had returned to school without permits and over these names the disagreement occurred.

South Omaha Has Strong Competitor

South Omaha will have a strong competitor in a few years as a live stock market in some of the Pacific coast cities, according to Ed Connell of Opal, Wyo., who was in Omaha with two carloads of cattle from the Green River country of Wyoming.

"The buyers from Portland, Seattle and the coast towns of California," said Mr. Connell, "are thick in our part of the country all through the shipping season buying cattle and shipping them to the coast. We like the South Omaha market, but the fact that these fellows buy the cattle right on the hoof off the range and without causing us the trouble of loading and shipping them ourselves is a point that is causing thousands of these cattle to go to the west coast now instead of coming here."

'Wild Bill' Brennan Jumps From Prep to Varsity Team

From the Creighton High school team to the Creighton university team in one season is the achievement of "Wild Bill" Brennan, the 17-year-old youth who is alternating as left end with Hjalmer of the Creighton varsity foot ball team.

Brennan played halfback on the Creighton High school team last year and his great work gave evidence of good varsity material. A displaced hip prevented him from playing out the season. When he joined the Creighton varsity team this year Coach Miller saw the possibilities of a great end in the lad. He was accordingly tried at that position and made good at the outset. Brennan has had to fight it out with the veteran Haller all year, but injuries to the latter have enabled him to show his worth and he has played in every game this year.

Brennan has, in spite of his youth and the fact that he only weighs 135 pounds, earned for himself the reputation of being the roughest player on the squad. In the games he has shown great ability in capturing forward passes. If he gets the tips of his fingers on the ball he never fails to hold it, and once in his possession the ball is destined to take a long journey. Brennan has scored three touchdowns in the last two games, all being the result of catching forward passes and racing by the opposing tacklers.

Brennan's classmates in fourth high B think so much of his prowess on the gridiron that the whole class assembled recently and presented him with a Creighton watch fob and pin. Brennan's home is in Yankton, S. D., and he took great delight in spoiling the players of the Yankton team when they played here this year.

HOW I ENLARGED MY BUST SIX INCHES IN THIRTY DAYS.

After I had tried Pills, Massage, Wooden Cups, and Various Advertised Preparations without the slightest results.

A Simple, Easy Method which any lady can use at home and quickly obtain a large and beautiful bust

By MARGARETTE MERLAIN.

Well do I know the horrors and intense humiliation of being flat-chested; of having the face of a woman set on the form of a man, and I cannot find words to tell you how good I felt, and what a terrible load was lifted off my mind when I first saw my bust had really grown six inches in size. I felt like a new being, for with no bust I realized I was really neither a man nor woman, but just a sort of creature half way between.
