CHINESE GIRLS ARRESTED. Four Smuggled From Hong Kong Detected by Custom's Guard.

OFFICER REFUSES A BRIDE. Interpreter Who Had Them in Charge Offered Him More Than Year's Pay to Allow Them to Escape.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26.—Four Chinese girls dressed in men's clothes, who had been smuggled across the Pacific in the hold of the Nippon Maru, were borne shrieking and hysterical through the city streets today to the office of the surgeon of the port. They were secretly arrested late last night as they stepped from the ship's gangplank in company with Leong Moon, Chinese interpreter for the vessel.

Deasy noticed Leong loitering about the pier last night. While they were talking four figures in loose overcoats, with slouch hats drawn down over their eyes, came slinking down the gangplank. "Who are these?" asked Deasy. "They all lie, they my friend," answered Leong.

Deasy, not suspecting that he was dealing with women, began to search them for arms, opium or other contraband. Leong grew uneasy. He began to offer hush money—first $500, then $100, then $200. The girls were worth four times that to him.

Deasy marched all five back aboard ship and locked the four muffled figures in one room and the interpreter in another. Then he telephoned to the surgeon's office. The girls gave their names today and said they were two pairs of sisters. Further, they would not talk. Leong denied offering any bribe; didn't know how the girls got aboard, and was altogether imperturbable.

Supposedly the girls were stowed away at Hong Kong.

Accused Attorneys Produce Affidavits In Infanticide Case

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Nov. 26.—(Special.)—That they tampered with the grip used as evidence in the trial of Louis Rogers in the Dodge county district court is emphatically denied by attorneys F. W. Burton and F. Deteral of Fremont and a number of affidavits were filed by them with the supreme court, intended to clear themselves of the charge that they altered the exhibit. The grip was used as an important bit of evidence in the infanticide case which resulted in the conviction of Rogers in the district court of Dodge county and his sentence to a term in the state prison.

In addition to the sworn statements of themselves, a bailiff, a jurymen and the district county clerk, Luke Mundy, and an attorney not interested in the case, Allen Johnson, contribute affidavits that the exhibit is in the same condition now as when introduced in the trial. The charges against the two attorneys were filed by County Attorney J. C. Cook of Dodge county, who alleged that some blood stains which now appear on the inside of the grip were not there at the time of the trial, but have been put there surreptitiously by someone bent on "doctoring" the grip. These charges were made before the supreme court.

The grip belonged to Carolyn Richter, the woman who traveled with Rogers, and is alleged to have given birth to the child that was found dead in a box car at Colon. The prosecution claims that the child was born at Fremont and was killed by Rogers, who placed the corpse in the car. The defense contends in the appeal to the supreme court that they have evidence to prove that the baby was born in Omaha and was stillborn, the body being carried in the grip to Fremont. As Rogers was not in Omaha this contention, if established, would clear.

It since develops that the grip was thrown out of the Fremont county jail before the trial and reposed on an ash pile for some time. Since the trial has been concluded Clerk Mundy of the Dodge county court contends that it has been kept in a vault and could not have been "doctored."

ROCK ISLAND CLERKS AT ESTHERVILLE STRIKE

ESTHERVILLE, Ia., Nov. 26.—(Special.)—A strike of all the Rock Island freight truckers and checkers and the paid and billing clerks at the local depot yesterday has caused the Rock Island no little trouble. Eleven men walked out, their salaries run from $45 to $55 per month and they claim that is not enough for a man with a family to live on. They said that they would stay for an increase of 10 percent in their wages, but this offer was refused. Men are being hired to take their places, but as yet they have not filled all. The striking men say similar jobs at Albert Lea and other towns pay $35 to $40 and they think that they are entitled to as much.

GRUENTHER SAYS THE PLEDGE IS BINDING

Christ Gruenther, the democratic war horse of Columbus, is in Omaha. Mr. Gruenther has paid little attention to the contest the democrats are bringing in Douglas county against seating the elected republican delegation in the legislature. As to whether this might mean a fight against Norris for senator, Mr. Gruenther said, "I have always considered the pledge in Statement Number 1 binding."

Michigan Alumni at Annual Banquet Recall School Days

The annual meeting and banquet of the University of Michigan Alumni of the Missouri Valley was held last night at the University club. Over forty members of the association were present and recalled days of life on the campus at Ann Arbor with their old college yells and songs.

Casper E. Yost, '01, the oldest member of the Missouri Valley association, was toastmaster. George L. Miller, '02, responded to a toast with "The Enchantment of a Name." He told of his coming to Omaha and settling in the Missouri Valley when it was a new country and how Michigan men followed in his steps as he had followed in the steps of other Michigan men.

A. W. Jeffers, '03, talked on the "Reveries of a Fence Buster." This name was acquired by Jeffers for his wonderful hitting powers when he played first base on the Michigan ball nine. He cleverly joded his subject, however, and told of how he chose Michigan and later Omaha. He told of his coming to Omaha and on the first day in this city met Lyle I. Abbott, also a Michigan man and Dexter L. Thomer, whose alma mater was Michigan.

Jesse P. Palmer, '05, gave a thrilling account of the Michigan-Cornell game, which he witnessed at Ann Arbor two weeks ago. He told of going back to the old campus and renewing acquaintances with former grads who came back to the college in the big game.

Dr. C. P. Clark, '11, talked on "The Life Saving Station of the Lightnings." He recalled the old riots which were pulled off in the days when Michigan was the second largest school in the country. Dr. Donald Macrae, Council Bluffs, was the subject of a toast by S. E. Paulsen. Lyle I. Abbott gave an interesting talk on "The Precessions of the Equinoxes to the Rule in Shelley's Case."

Dr. H. Gifford was elected president of the association. Dr. Donald Macrae, Council Bluffs, was chosen first vice president; Lyle I. Abbott, second vice president; Ray Crossman, secretary; Walter P. Loomis, treasurer.

Wolgast is Two to One Favorite

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26.—Lightweight Champion Ad Wolgast, ruling a 2 to 1 favorite over Willie Ritchie in the betting on their twenty-round bout here Thanksgiving day, did his last boxing today, and apparently supremely confident of the outcome of his fight, conferred with Promoter James Coffroth regarding future matches. Coffroth has promised Wolgast a New Year's fight here if the champion's terms are reasonable.

Wolgast has trained in a leisurely way for this fight and some critics were found fault with his condition. A sparring partner, Willie Hoppe, a new local light-weight, knocked Ad down in his boxing Saturday.

Ritchie has worked out quietly and has surprised the fight followers by the ease with which he trained down to 125 pounds. While Wolgast's manager, Tom Jones, has offered large sums at 10 to 5, Ritchie and his manager have not been in evidence in the betting ring; they express themselves as well satisfied with conditions.

Even money is offered on Wolgast to win within eighteen rounds.

Carnegie's Plan Impudent One Says Mr. Kenyon

FORT DODGE, Ia., Nov. 26.—(Special Telegram.)—Senator W. S. Kenyon in an interview here today declared himself unqualifiedly opposed to the government's pensioning presidents and characterized Mr. Carnegie's proposal to pension ex-presidents as an impudent one. The president, with salary and railroad expenses allowed, should save $100,000 in his term of office and that is enough for any man, he declared. He will oppose any bill introduced and declares it will be hard fought. Also, he says, he will oppose franking and free seats along with marble baths and senate barber shops. He hopes the future president will not get off nauseating and needless social functions which are good for no one but the liver and stomach specialists.

BOY HUSBAND CHARGED WITH WIFE ABANDONMENT

FAIRBURY, Neb., Nov. 26.—(Special.)—A youthful juvenile divorcer and abandoned case involving two Fairbury young people is on the docket of district court for next week. This case is the outgrowth of an elopement of a Fairbury boy and girl last August, at which time Otho Curry and Miss Nettie Tippen went to Hastings and were married by the county judge at that point. This romance was of short duration, for the groom soon tired of his bride. After he deserted her the third time his father-in-law proffered a charge of wife abandonment and desertion against Curry and he was lodged in the county jail at Fairbury. He remained in the lockup until his father secured his release by going his bail for $50.
