HOCKIN'S CLUE STARTING POINT

Description of J. H. and McManigal Given by Hockin in Hotel Lobby in Chicago in November, Nineteen-Ten.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 30.—Five months and six days were fixed by witnesses at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today as the time it required to arrest James B. McNamara, dynamiter of the Los Angeles Times building, in which twenty-one persons were killed, after the dynamiter had been pointed out to detectives.

On November 2, 1910, one month and one day after the Los Angeles explosion, in a hotel lobby in Chicago, Herbert S. Hockin, secretary of the iron workers' union and accused betrayer of the dynamiters, gave today's witness, Raymond J. Burns, son of the detective, who finally made the arrests, a full description of McNamara and Orin C. McManigal.

On November 5, at a railroad station in Chicago, Raymond Burns to his detective pointed out McManigal, who was leaving for a hunting trip near Conover, Wis., and instructed the detectives to follow.

On November 6, at Kenosha, Wis., Detectives William J. Otis and Benjamin F. Damon found McManigal had been joined by McNamara, who, under the alias of "Frank Sullivan," accompanied a hunting party to Conover, where from November 8 to December 4 the detectives shadowed the dynamiters by talking to them in a hotel and observing them through field glasses.

In January, 1911, Raymond Burns met Hockin in Chicago and asked him the whereabouts of McManigal, who in the meantime had been to Los Angeles and caused an explosion there in the Llewellyn Iron works.

James B. McNamara and McManigal were arrested on April 12, 1911, and John J. McNamara was arrested on April 22, 1911. Ten explosions occurred between December, 1910, and the time of the arrests.

Raymond Burns said he had received information from Lindsay L. Jewel, then in Pittsburgh, who has testified that Hockin two months before the Los Angeles explosion had given the locations of hiding places for explosives. Jewel was going to Panama, an engineer and had urged Hockin to report to Burns.

SAYS DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

Coroner's Inquest Held Over the Body of Late J. J. Deright.

FUNERAL TO BE HELD SUNDAY No Testimony is Introduced Except that Which Showed that Death Came from Accidental Discharge of Gun.

After hearing the evidence of witnesses who testified to facts which tended only to prove that J. J. Deright, the automobile and safe dealer found dead in an upstairs room over his garage at 1815 Farnam street Thanksgiving morning, accidentally shot himself the coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

The jury was composed of J. H. McDonald, foreman; Fred Metz, E. E. Lita, J. D. Weaver, W. A. Pfeil and Gould Dietz. They brought in the verdict after about three minutes' deliberation. Sheriff MeShane conducted the inquest in the absence of Coroner Crosby.

John Hlmoe, who rode down to the garage with Mr. Deright on the morning he took his life, and the last man who talked to him before he died, testified that Mr. Deright was very cheerful on that morning. W. A. Pixley told of having made arrangements with the deceased to go hunting Thursday afternoon.

All the evidence introduced showed that Mr. Deright's death was accidental. In fact, no testimony was introduced which would in any manner prove that he took his own life.

Mr. Deright's funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late residence, 202 South Thirty-fourth street. Rev. T. J. Mackay will officiate. The body will be taken to Marion, N. Y., for burial.
