PRESIDENT TAKES UP NEW TOPICS IN LAST GENERAL MESSAGE

again the scheme of currency reform proposed by the national monetary commission.
Conservation was lightly touched, the president recommending the amendment of bills now before congress, so that water power companies which dam navigable rivers will contribute to the improvement of these streams.
Praises Supreme Court.
He declared that no radical change in the Sherman anti-trust law was needed, and praised the supreme court for its recently announced changes in rules of equity procedure. In this connection the president asked congress to pass legislation which would allow the supreme court to formulate rules of procedure under the common law in federal courts and predicted that such action would facilitate justice in those courts and reduce the cost of litigation to the public.
The Panama canal. The president dismissed in a few words, the president prophesying its opening in the latter half of 1912. He took occasion, however, to declare that congress should reward the work of Colonel Goethals by an appointment as major general with the provision that he become chief of engineers when the term of the present incumbent expires. He made only a brief reference to the dispute with Great Britain over the Panama canal act and said that when a formal protest was lodged against that act it would be taken up by the United States. The army the president discussed at some length. He praised the army legislation of the last congress, but said that provision should be made by law so that the nation's foreign armaments may be always maintained upon a war footing; and he urged the passage of the pending militia pay bill, designed to make service in the militia more enticing, and showed that the home army will be nothing more than a "skeleton" until congress provides that it be concentrated in fewer posts than are now maintained. He urged also the passage of another bill now before congress designed to raise quickly a volunteer army in case of war.

One of the strong arguments of the message was that opposing autonomy for the Philippines at once and independence in eight years.
Not Ready for Independence.
"In the Philippine Islands we have embarked upon an experiment unprecedented in dealing with dependent peoples," said President Taft. "We are developing their conditions exclusively for their own welfare. Through the unifying forces of a common education, of commercial and economic development, and of gradual participation in local self-government, we are endeavoring to evolve a homogeneous people fit to determine, when the time arrives, their own destiny. We are seeking to arouse a national spirit and not, as under the older colonial theory, to suppress such a spirit. But our work is far from done. Our duty to the Philippines is far from discharged."

For educational, sanitary and political reasons, the president said, this country should not consent to grant independence at this time.
"If the task we have undertaken is higher than that assumed by other nations," continued the president, "its accomplishment must demand even more patience. To confer independence upon the Philippines now is, therefore, to subject the great mass of their people to the dominance of an oligarchical and, probably, exploiting minority. Such a course will be as cruel to those people as it would be shameful to us."
In addition to his advice in regard to legislation and his opposition to pending measures, the president discussed the property of the nation, its financial condition and the proposed system of a national budget showing proposed expenditures and revenues and called attention to the balance in the general fund of the treasury of almost $170,000,000. His remarks on the budget system, he said, would be submitted to congress later, accompanied by a model budget.

PENNINGTON SENDS FOR HOCKIN

Chief of the District Attorney Miller notified Pennington that Hockin was chewing gum while testifying and protested to the court.
"Yes, take that chewing gum out of your mouth," demanded Federal Judge Anderson.
Pennington apparently gave no heed to the order. "Well, why don't you take it out of your mouth?" asked the court.
"I have," answered Pennington. "I've swallowed it."
Beaman Also Knows Nothing.
Charles N. Beaman, Minnesota, former member of the Iron Workers' executive board, was the next witness.
As one who had supervision of the union's finances, Beaman is charged with approving the appropriation of $1,000 a month to be used by McNamara for dynamiting.
Shown an entry reading: "To John J. McNamara, set aside for organization purposes by order of the executive board, $1000 made in 1910, when he was an executive board member, Beaman testified:
"The first I heard of McNamara's using $1,000 monthly was after his arrest. Nor did I ever know that the union's funds were used to buy explosives. I never saw Orville E. McNamara until I came here for trial."
"Why was it that as an executive of this union, you didn't know of these $1,000 appropriations?" Beaman was asked.
"All I know is I never heard of it," he answered.
"You helped in raising the $200,000 defense fund for the McNamaras and you know the facts about McNamara then, didn't you?" asked District Attorney Miller.
"I did go before the Minnesota federation of labor to solicit funds, but I did not know he was guilty," answered Beaman.
"You didn't know J. B. McNamara was guilty of murdering all these people?"
"I certainly did not."
Daniel Buckley, Danport, Ia., another defendant, next testified.

JOHN DERR HAS POLICE RECORD AT ST. JOSEPH

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 4.—John Derr who confessed to naval authorities at San Francisco to the murder of Billy Barkis at Richmond, Kan., near Atchison, formerly lived in St. Joseph. He was sent to the reform school for burglary and later served a jail sentence for the same offense. The police then ordered him away and say he went to California, though they knew nothing of him joining the navy.

ASKS FIFTY MILLIONS YEARLY

Rivers and Harbors Congress Adjourns After Passing Resolution.
RANSDELL IS ELECTED AGAIN
Delegation from Kansas City Asks House Committee for Five Million Dollars to Improve Missouri River.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—An annual congressional appropriation of at least $50,000,000 for waterway improvement was recommended in a resolution adopted today at the closing session of the ninth annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress. Another resolution urged the creation by congress of a department of public works, of which the corps of army engineers would be a part.
The waterways congress also passed a resolution congratulating congress upon its grant of immunity through the recently enacted Panama canal law from tolls on ships engaged in our coastwise trade and upon the protection to water-borne commerce afforded by said law against railroad ownership or control of water lines.
Officers were re-elected as follows: President, Representative Joseph E. Ransdell, Louisiana; secretary-treasurer, S. A. Thompson, Indiana; sergeant-at-arms, John L. Martin, Missouri. J. A. Hillson of Paris, Brazil, was elected an honorary member for life.
Western Delegations Call.
Western delegations were heard today by the house rivers and harbors committee. For San Francisco were urged further appropriations for improvements in San Francisco bay.
John N. Willis, president of the Kansas City Commercial club, asked for $2,100,000 to deepen the Missouri from Kansas City to its mouth and $2,000,000 to be spent on the river between Kansas City and Sioux City.
An Oregon delegation wanted further appropriation for the improvement of Portland harbor and the removal of obstruction in the Columbia river.
The necessity of providing $1,000,000 for the construction of a break water around Indiana harbor on Lake Michigan was urged by representatives of industries located on the harbor.

REPUDIATES TALK OF BLEASE
form state legislation under which old-style farm mortgages could be replaced with short or long term farm bonds. A chain of new banks throughout the country to be authorized by the various legislatures under a uniform law and a listing of the bonds on stock exchanges are contemplated.
Under the terms of the resolution, the bill to be drafted by the committee shall be submitted to the governors of all the states and must be approved by two-thirds of them before it shall be sent to the legislature.
"I hold in my hand," said Governor Blease, when he rose to defend himself, "the fourth letter threatening my life that I have received today. I was handed that just now by someone I did not know, and it was addressed me in care of the governor of Virginia."
"I know nothing of the letter, sir," retorted Governor Mann of Virginia. "I never heard of it before; I did not receive it; I know nothing of its contents."
Order is Restored.
When the vigorous rapping of the chairman had brought order he continued:
"You are making yourselves ridiculous in the eyes of the nation. Why do you have to declare against mob law? They ought to know you back in your homes. They ought to meet you each one at the railroad station with a brass band, and say, 'Governor, we're glad you didn't endorse the utterances of that South Carolina.'"
"When I said I never would order out the militia to protect the black brute who laid his desecrating hands upon a white woman I spoke the truth. I say it now again. That is my position, gentlemen, and if you don't agree with me, in the words of the great Virginia, 'Go to it!'"
The four governors who voted against the resolution declared emphatically that they opposed mob violence. They voted in the negative, they said, because they thought they would exceed the rights of the conference and violate the courtesy due a colleague should they vote to reprimand. On the final ballot Governor Blease did not vote. After the result had been announced he arose and said:
"I did not vote, gentlemen, because it makes no difference to me, one way or the other, what this conference thinks or does."
Says He Was Misrepresented.
"It doesn't matter," continued Governor Blease. "I speak nobody's opinion but my own. The newspaper headlines have misrepresented me. When I spoke yesterday about the marriage of Jack Johnson in Chicago, I did not say he would be lynched in South Carolina; I did say that the laws of my state forbade the marriage, and I did say that I did not know, if the marriage had been performed in South Carolina, whether the law protecting him would have been possible of enforcement or not."
"Now, what I want to say to you is this: I don't care one whit whether you adopt this resolution or not. You may expel me for all I care. On the 21st day of next January I will begin my second term as governor. On the fourth of March, 1913, if God spares me, I will be sworn in as a member of the United States senate. I snap my fingers at your resolutions, for all the resolutions and all the motions you may act on will not avail to keep me out."
"Long after many of you gentlemen here today are resting in the shades of private life I will be reaping the rewards of public service. Long after you good governors are no longer governors, the white women of the South will pray for me with their arms around their girls, and will arise from their knees to kiss their husbands and beg them to go to the ballot box and vote for Blease to protect them from their daily terror."
A faint round of applause rippled over the conference hall, succeeded by a storm of hisses.
A dozen governors, thinking the South Carolinian had concluded, clamored for recognition, but he held the floor and smiled at the turmoil.
"What care I for your hisses?" he shouted, shaking his clenched fist at the chairman and turning to face his colleagues.
"Hiss if you must! Only snakes and scorpions hiss."
Again his voice was drowned in the storm.
